Atomic Energy

in any way as a lever to pry more atomic information from the United States.

The difficulty is largely Anglo-American, it is indicated. One of the big question marks concerns what approach Britain has taken in her request for more atomic information.

So far, there is no explanation of why last Thursday's meeting was at night, why it was at President Truman's Blair House residence instead of in the White House executive offices, and why such precautions were taken to keep photographers from the scene.

In any event, a change in the law relating to dissemination of atomic knowledge, would have to be approved by Congress. Right now, it is understood, a majority of McMahon's committee is opposed to giving atomic-bomb secrets to any foreign country, no matter how friendly.

Britain and Canada co-operated in atomic development in the United States during the war. According to a leading United States authority, they kept all about the wartime bomb. But since the atomic energy law was passed in 1946, the exchange of information with Britain and Canada has been limited sharply.

In his statement today, McMahon said it was at the Blair House meeting that legislators first learned there had been high level discussions of the possibility of an agreement with Britain which would assure her information about the bomb and its manufacture.

Britain is believed to desire the last-stage technical know-how regarding bomb production. Both Britain and Canada have atomic plants in operation and Britain has indicated her intention of going ahead with efforts to produce a bomb.

The strike, which some stevedores describe as a lockout, got under way June 27 as a gesture of sympathy with striking members of the Canadian Seamen's Union.

There are two Canadian ships in the port of London—the Beaverbrae, and the Argonaut.

Prospects remained dim for a speedy end to the state of nation-wide emergency proclaimed last week by the Government.

Attorney General E. A. Large and Mr. Arthur Peake appeared for the Crown and Messrs. D. L. Matheson and Joseph MacMillan for the accused.

The other indictment charged Henry Pope and Elmer Jongsphie, both of Chestow, with arson. A true bill was returned against them. Date of the trial was set for Monday, July 25.

Recall Founding Of Huge Cunard Steamship Empire

By RAE CORELLI
HALIFAX, July 19—(CP)—Capt R. B. G. Woollett, seaman for 45 years and skipper for 26, brought tidings into her bottle here today. The 45,000-ton giant carried 1,226 passengers.

On the same day 109 years ago, 1928 and Cunard stood on a Halifax wharf among throngs of expectant people as a squat side-wheeler churned up the harbor. She wasn't pretty; her three masts looked superfluous with sails furled and her laboring paddle-wheels were ungainly.

But the 1,154-ton Britannia, culmination of a shipping venture financed largely by Cunard, was the fulfillment of a dream to the prosperous Halifax-born merchant whose fleet of 50 sailing vessels grew into the biggest passenger line on the seven seas.

The Britannia was the first steam-powered Cunarder to cross the Atlantic. She also was the forerunner of several such ventures through the years, one of which British Government mail contract between Liverpool and Halifax and Boston.

Cunard and his father launched the line about 1812 when they purchased a war-prize, the White Oaks, for a bargain and started London sailings. As their fleet expanded, trips to West Indies ports were added, and there opened an office at Chatham, N. B., to take advantage of the lumber trade, and Halifax wharves soon became busy with Cunard's imported rum and sugar.

While Napoleon was losing the Battle of Waterloo, Cunard married. His wife, Susan, died in 1828 and he buried her. By 1831, the firm was so prosperous early records say, Cunard was "able to make a £30,000 donation to the Waterloo Fund" and prosperity continued through years of depression and hunger.

Samuel became "first ward of the north suburbs and a member of the fashionable Second Halifax Regiments." He was a ship dealer, discharged and loaded cargoes faster than any others and the Chatham office "did an enormous business."

In 1830, Cunard's fleet had grown to 40 ships and his fortune to £200,000. He invested in the building of the Royal William, first steam-powered vessel to navigate the Atlantic. He acquired British North American agencies for East India tea and Cape Breton coal.

The 200-foot Britannia, which stands as the first pay-off in a succession of marine gambles that realized 100,000-odd tons on cargoes as early as 1845, crossed the Atlantic in 1840. It was a ship crossing this week was comparatively slow—six days.

Cunard resolved early to have "nothing but the best ships, the best officers and the best men." Capt. Woollett has sailed 500,000 miles in command and has carried 240,000 passengers on five Cunarders. The other four are the Franconia, Britannic, Mauretania and Pasteur.

In 1848, Cunard went to London, was knighted 11 years later and died there in 1885 at 78.

Lady Bug Helps Manitoba Farmers

WINNIPEG, July 19—(CP)—The "lady bug" is helping Manitoba farmers in their fight against an infestation of aphids which—especially in the south-western part of the Province—has done heavy damage to oats and barley crops.

The lady beetles, commonly known as "lady bugs," are natural enemies of the small, green aphids which are devouring crops so rapidly that provincial entomologists predict their spread will be materially reduced.

"The lady beetle has become most abundant throughout most of the aphid-infested areas," said Henry Wood, director of the Provincial Department of Agriculture, in a report on the campaign and chairman of the Weeds Commission.

"The lady beetle has increased in great numbers during the last few weeks until it can be said to be halting the spread of aphids. The appearance of the lady beetle coupled with good weather within the next few weeks should put an end to the aphids."

Orwell Head Church

Special services are being held morning and evening Sunday, July 17th, at the Orwell Head Church in commemoration of the 18th anniversary of its founding. The minister, the Rev. A. C. Fraser, will be assisted at these services by the Rev. C. MacLennan, Trinity United Church, New Glasgow, Nova Scotia.

The exterior of the church has been newly painted and standing as it does on a hill its gleaming whiteness against the summer greenness of the countryside presents a pleasing picture and rests much credit on the work of the painter, Mr. Alphonso Larkin, Montague.

The cemetery, always exceptionally well kept, can now be seen to greater advantage, thanks to the improvement wrought by the Dept. of Public Works in re-grading the church grounds as the road was being widened.

The cooperativeness shown by the congregation in assisting with the removal of the church shed and in spraying the road is much appreciated by the people of the district. Such improvements cost money and to the ladies of the church goes the credit of raising the funds. However, they claim if it had not been for the unflinching optimism and cheerful encouragement given them by their minister they could not have carried through their project to such a successful finish.

Because of this outstanding contribution to church and community, we hope the anniversary supper sponsored by the Ladies' Aid which will be held in Uig Or Hall on Wednesday, July 27th will be largely attended.

Y Camp Completes First Period

The names of both boys will be carved on the record triangle.

The following campers and counsellors received the Pioneer honour crest: Barry MacMillan, Clive Cudmore, Jack MacAndrew, and John Fielding. The Pioneer honour crest is the first stage of three achievement tests being awarded this year for the first time.

The second two week camp period for the season will begin on July 21st, with a large enrolment of boys in the 12-14 age group. A third period for sponsored boys will be held August 5-August 19.

Fifth Crop Report Issued

OTTAWA, July 19—(CP)—Good to excellent crop conditions have been reported in the majority of parts of Saskatchewan while crops have deteriorated in other parts of the Province and are still far from normal in Alberta, the Bureau of Statistics reported today.

In the fifth of a series of eight telegraphic reports on crop conditions throughout Canada, the bureau said hot, dry weather prevailed in Manitoba during the last week and rain would be welcome to bring crops along.

Extremely high temperatures last week caused further deterioration of crops in Central and Southern districts of Saskatchewan. Scattered showers and more moderate temperatures maintained good to excellent prospects over most Northern and Eastern sections of the Province.

Crop conditions over much of Alberta remain fair to poor.

The general rain July 8 and showers during the following week considerably improved the outlook in Ontario for spring grains, corn, pastures, fruits and vegetables.

While present crop conditions in Quebec appear fairly promising they are not as good as at this time a year ago.

Except in parts of Nova Scotia, where damp weather has delayed operations, having in underway throughout the 15th and 16th and yields are good. The crop outlook in Prince Edward Island is generally promising.

Weather in British Columbia was hot and dry during the early part of July but rains and lower temperatures during the last few days improved crop prospects.

The potato houses were in a long string of storage buildings alongside the railroad tracks. Damon said they were owned by S. Nightingale and Company of Fort Fairfield, Me., Frank Long and the Franklin Produce Company.

Firemen from Caribou and the Limestone Air Force base helped the Limestone department battle the fire. Fire walls helped prevent spread of the flames to other potato houses.

Egg & Poultry Problems Discussed At Meeting

Appointment of two representatives to attend a national meeting at Ottawa sponsored by the Canadian Federation of Agriculture on July 25 and 26 and of an advisory committee to be in contact with the Provincial Government and Federation of Agriculture highlighted an enthusiastic egg and poultry meeting held at Birch Court, Experimental Farm, last night.

With Mr. Louis O'Connor presiding, the meeting elected Mr. W.B. Shaw, Deputy Minister of Agriculture and Mr. D.A. Macdonald, Glenfinnan, producer representative, to attend the meeting in the Dominion capital. The Ottawa meeting will be held for the purpose of devising some way in which to handle the surplus eggs which are expected to be in Canada this fall.

The meeting last night passed a motion of guidance for the Island's delegates. It voted in favor of the proposal that a Dominion Marketing Board be set up with representatives from each Province to regulate and control market surplus of eggs, and that every effort be made to increase domestic consumption of eggs. The delegates were authorized to ask the Government for a floor price support program in the event of the first resolution being rejected.

The following advisory committee was formed for the purpose of giving information to the Provincial Government or the Federation of Agriculture in all phases of the egg and poultry industry: Hatchery—Mr. L.D. Burns, Boderick; private egg grading stations—Mr. Richards, Wellington; Cooperative egg grading stations—Mr. J. O'Brien, Montreal; poultry processors—Mr. W. MacGrath, Canada Packers; approved flock association—Mr. Heber MacPhail, New Brunswick; poultry inspectors—Mr. Earl Jolly, O'Leary; Mr. William Wheatley, East Royal, and King's, Mr. Byron Webster, Moril.

Mrs. Ewen MacDonald, Chesletown, formerly of Brookfield, yesterday received the sad news of the death of her son Clarence. He was in the town less than a week before the accident occurred and was virtually unknown by the population. It was thought by a speaking acquaintance that the cause from Borden thus considerable time was necessary before his relatives were located and notified.

Besides his mother he leaves to mourn his sister, Gertrude, Mrs. Howard MacLean, Cambridge, P.E.I. and brothers Blair, Charlottetown and Basil, Cornwallis, Nova Scotia.

N. B. Growers' Complaints

For the potato-growing industry, Mr. Cunningham told the board of the New Brunswick growers were not in a good position to compete with those in Prince Edward Island and other areas.

The Government brief submitted earlier had declared that the producers of potatoes in this Province were in a "hazardous" position.

This was due in part, the submission said, to increased freight rates that had added to the burdens of the growers in disposing of their crops in Central Canada.

Frank M. Covert of Halifax, commercial counsel for the New Brunswick potato production was not at a peak.

"If the markets were favourable, we could increase our present production several times," Mr. Cunningham replied.

Mr. Cunningham said New Brunswick growers realize they had to keep their costs of production down and their quality up to meet competition.

He told the committee, in reply to a suggestion from Hugh O'Donnell of the C.N.R. that the N.B. industry was in good shape, that he recently had been losing his markets in the Caribbean area to potatoes from Minnesota and North Dakota.

O'Donnell asked if it were not true that last year the New Brunswick potato men had been able to get their product into the United States at less than the United States floor price, and if that were not the reason why the United States had put restrictions on the import of Canadian potatoes.

Mr. Cunningham agreed with the rail lawyers that that had been the case.

On behalf of the pulp and paper industry, Mr. Estey said that the New Brunswick lumber market in the United Kingdom had shrunk by about two-thirds in the last few days.

Declaring that freight rates were against the industry, he said that on the Montreal market, the freight charge per 100 pounds had risen from 22 to 27 cents in the last 15 months.

Meanwhile, the sale price of the product had gone down 38 per cent thousand feet.

"If the markets were favourable, we could increase our present production several times," Mr. Cunningham replied.

Mr. Cunningham said New Brunswick growers realize they had to keep their costs of production down and their quality up to meet competition.

He told the committee, in reply to a suggestion from Hugh O'Donnell of the C.N.R. that the N.B. industry was in good shape, that he recently had been losing his markets in the Caribbean area to potatoes from Minnesota and North Dakota.

O'Donnell asked if it were not true that last year the New Brunswick potato men had been able to get their product into the United States at less than the United States floor price, and if that were not the reason why the United States had put restrictions on the import of Canadian potatoes.

Mr. Cunningham agreed with the rail lawyers that that had been the case.

On behalf of the pulp and paper industry, Mr. Estey said that the New Brunswick lumber market in the United Kingdom had shrunk by about two-thirds in the last few days.

Declaring that freight rates were against the industry, he said that on the Montreal market, the freight charge per 100 pounds had risen from 22 to 27 cents in the last 15 months.

Meanwhile, the sale price of the product had gone down 38 per cent thousand feet.

A postcard maker took pictures and sold photos of the fine catch. Cole's name as a fish catfish spread far and wide—even to the ears of Roger Stevens, Gaines judge of the peace.

Yesterday Stevens arrested Cole and fined him $20 and costs for the catch.

Catching fish with your hands is illegal in Pennsylvania.

Illegal Catch

GAINES, Pa., July 19—(AP)—Fisherman Roger Stevens, Gaines judge of the peace, was so proud of catching a 28-inch brown trout with his bare hands that he mounted the catch and displayed it in his home.
