Summerside Bowling

The bowling alleys at Summerside are off to a good start with three matches scheduled for Monday.

On Wednesday evening a meeting of the Bowling Committee was held with (Doc) MacPherson, the president, presiding.

Ten teams have joined the League and great interest is being shown in the game. As yet no lady team has entered, but judging from previous years they will be in the running before very long. The teams that have joined the League are: Printers, Holman's, Sinclairs, Bankers, Canadian Legion, Sun-glo, Professional Men, Crockett & Gallant and Plumbers and Electricians and Barbers. The teams playing in the opening games of the League on Monday are: Holman's vs. Barbers at 6.30, Sinclairs vs. Bankers at 8.00, and at 9.30 Bankers vs. Crockett and Gallant.

To stimulate interest in the game, Mr. Harold Gaudet has offered a theatre ticket for one month to those who attend the League games regularly. This should draw the crowd.—S

Swine Need Mineral Feeds

The pig is the fastest growing farm animal, and the greatest profit in pork production calls for maximum growth at an early age.

In this growth, bone development is just as important as flesh formation. Unless adequate calcium and phosphorus nutrition is provided, either the rate of growth will be retarded, or more usually increase in weight will continue normally until undernourished flesh can no longer support added bones.

When a breakdown occurs, the pig becomes lame, gradually loses the use of its legs, falls off in weight, and finally dies unless relief is given through a change in ration.

Sometimes the faulty mineral nutrition does not show itself until the additional strain of shipment to market causes the breakdown. Sometimes it becomes evident in the sow at parturition or while she is suckling the litter.

A deficiency of minerals in the sow's ration may show itself in weak litters or may be the cause of her eating her young. During the nursing period she may collapse under the strain of trying to secrete milk high in calcium and in phosphorus when fed a ration low in minerals.

The swine ration is largely grain and that is a ration which needs mineral supplements. If the ration is made up of grain alone or with added oilmeal mineral supplements should be added. Grain properly balanced with tankage or fish meal may develop bones strong enough for all purposes. Skim milk or buttermilk when fed liberally—three to four quarts—may provide enough calcium and phosphorus.

CLAMMY HANDS ARE DIFFICULT TO CORRECT

Hands that perspire very freely even in cold weather are difficult to cure. Some people find a perspiration controller successful.

Otherwise, keep eau de Cologne on the bathroom shelf and spray the palms of your hands with it every time you wash. It is worth while carrying a little bottle of eau de Cologne in your bag. A dusting of talcum powder also helps this trouble.

Erie Traveller Meets President On Foreign Soil

Conflict Between U. S. Supreme Court And Administration Looms

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Jan. 7.—Dorothy Wittenberger, Erie, Pa., high school graduate who is "working her way around the world" with capital of $200, received encouragement in her adventure from President Roosevelt of the United States when he visited here on his return from the Pan American Peace Conference in Buenos Aires.

Working for a Port of Spain newspaper so she could get enough money together for the second lap of her round-the-world trip, a jump to Cayenne, French Guiana, she was assigned a place on the launch which went out to the U. S. S. Arkansas to bring President Roosevelt ashore.

"As we came in sight of the large U. S. ship, I became all tingling inside—I thought, we would never reach it," she wrote afterwards.

"Then the big moment arrived—out boat pulled up to the ship and taps were sounded. Navy men were scurrying around to put out the gang plank for President Roosevelt to board our boat. Flags were waved, brass bands were blown, officers were saluting; Oh, it was a sight to behold.

"Suddenly all things become quiet and everyone grew tense—the man of the hour, President Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, arrived on the scene. Amid an uproar of cheering, he came on our boat and was immediately escorted to a chair by the railing.

"Our boat then headed toward shore. For a fraction of a moment, the thought raced through my mind of how I would feel when he greeted me—would he be stern, so-called, willing to chat for any length of time to a person unknown to him—would he make me feel at ease or would he be restrained and unapproachable?

"But these questions which I had been asking myself were soon answered and in a way I had never dreamed of. I was introduced to President Roosevelt who immediately smiled at me and gave me a hearty handshake.

"He expressed his delight in meeting an American girl down here and the attitude which he assumed right away made me feel as though I had been a lifelong friend.

"I stood by his side for the rest of the trip ashore and he and I chatted on numerous topics. He told me about his fishing trips, his stamp collection, his Christmas shopping, and oh, so many personal things about himself.

"I in turn told him the details about the adventuresome trip I am making on my limited finances. He strongly encouraged me by saying that he thought I was doing a grand thing and wished me all the luck in the world in my undertakings."

Watch For Disease In The Flock

With the changeable weather there is more or less danger of flocks becoming affected with certain diseases such as roup, pox and colds, especially if an infected bird has gained access to the flock, thus the importance to watching the flock closely for any signs of trouble and culling out infected birds before they have a chance to spread the germs of disease. It is also wise to disinfect the feed hoppers and drinking fountains.

It is surprising how fast a contagious disease will sweep through a flock, resulting in heavy mortality and decreased egg production. Some poultrymen are vaccinating their flocks to guard against disease while others are relying on sanitary measures and good feeding to protect the health of the birds.

Whether the flock is large or small one cannot afford to take chances on its health if he purposes staying in the poultry business, thus the importance of becoming familiar with symptoms of different poultry diseases and learning how they may be prevented and controlled. There are usually good poultrymen in the neighbourhood who will render assistance along these lines or service men give valuable assistance. There are bulletins which explain some of the troubles to which poultry is heir, but one can very often understand control measures better by having the methods of treatment explained to him right in the henhouse or among the birds. A point to keep in mind is to watch out for any abnormal conditions in the flock and isolate the birds that do not look up to par.

AWAIT COURT ACTION ON WAGNER ACT

Conflict Between U. S. Supreme Court And Administration Looms

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Washington saw a crisis approaching tonight in President Roosevelt's persistent conflict with the United States Supreme Court.

Seeking the court's answer to his call for a more liberal interpretation of the constitution, many looked forward to a forthcoming decision on the validity of the Wagner Labor Relations Act.

Should a majority of the court rule that Act—drawn up since NRA was outlawed—be unconstitutional, the result, many thought, would be to crystallize the controversy into action on the part of the administration.

"Means must be found," the President said yesterday in his message to Congress, "to draft our legal forms and our judicial interpretation to the actual present progressive democracy in the modern world."

With Congress in recess today, many members interested in labor legislation expressed the opinion the times seemed more propitious than ever for such action.

Meanwhile, the neutrality resolution remained impaled upon a technical snag, motionless until tomorrow when, with the Senate in session, Vice-President Garner will have authority to sign it and send it on to the White House.

While the President kept silent on his plans, general speculation was that whatever is done to regulate trade practices would be given to the supervision of the Federal Trade Commission, with some judicial nature in charge of the labor provisions.

The Wagner Act was enacted to protect employees in their right to organize for purposes of collective bargaining, and to outlaw company unions. It will be argued before the court next month.

Author "Way Down East" Buried Today

GREAT NECK, N. Y., Jan. 7.—(CP)—Mrs. Lottie Blair Parker, author of the stage play "Way Down East," one of the great hits of the American stage will be buried in Chicago Friday beside her late husband, Harry Doel Parker.

Mrs. Parker, who died Tuesday at her Long Island home here after a short illness, was born in Oswego, N. Y., a daughter of Capt. George Blair, Great Lakes skipper. She was 78 and a successful actress in New York before she became one of the first women to write for the stage in this country.

"Way Down East" was considered daring in its day and Mrs. Parker was said to have been the first to put the word "baby" in the speaking role of a stage character on Broadway.

The play, which opened at the Manhattan Theatre in 1897 to enjoy what was then a record run, later was made into a silent and then into a talking motion picture.

HOW TO CLEAN SOILED OR YELLOWED PIANO KEYS

These may be quickly and easily cleaned by rubbing them, the way of the grain, with a soft cloth dampened with alcohol. Dry with a soft linen cloth. Yellow keys are whitened by an application of a lemon juice and whiting paste, which is left on for a few minutes, then removed with a soft cloth wrung out of warm water. Polish with a little sweet oil on a soft duster.

MR. CORNELIUS CAHILL

There passed peacefully away on Sunday, Dec. 6th Mr. Cornelius Cahill, one of the oldest and most highly respected residents of Tyrona.

Although not in the best of health he was confined to his bed for only about a month previous to his death.

The late Mr. Cahill was born in Kingston eighty-five years ago, where he spent his life engaged in farming, from which he retired six years ago and moved to Tyrona.

The deceased was a man of sterling qualities. His kind and jovial disposition won for him a host of friends both old and young. This was evidenced by the large number of people who visited him during his illness, and also came to pay their last respects.

During his illness he was frequently visited by his pastor Rev. Father Herrell who administered the last rites of the Holy Catholic Church of which the deceased was a devoted member.

Besides his faithful widow, the former Mary Wynne, he leaves to mourn their loss one son and three daughters, Richard of New York; Ella of Jamaica Plains, Mass.; Mrs. Vincent McCloskey, Tyrona and Mrs. Francis McElroy, New Haven;

Eight-foot Tall Giantess Native Of Nova Scotia

TRURO, N.S., Jan. 7.—(CP)—Annie Hanen Swan, Nova Scotia giantess believed to have been the tallest in the world, was recalled in Truro by a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Swan Biswanger, the only living member of the New Annan, N.S., family which became world-famous through the record height and size of Annie.

Eight feet, one inch tall with her shoes on, the Nova Scotia woman was well proportioned and weighed 350 pounds. Mrs. Biswanger is five feet, three inches.

The giantess's sister has several articles of clothing which belonged to Annie, including a nightdress, a skirt and shoe. The shoe measured 13 1/2 inches from toe to heel and was made for a slender shaped foot. The dress contained 100 yards of satin, besides about 50 yards of lace.

A man five foot, 11 1/2 inches tall, donned the garment and had to stand on top of an eight-foot box to make the dress hang correctly.

Annie Swan was born in Millbrook, Colchester County. Her father, Alexander Swan, came to Canada as a young man of 21. Annie's parents were both of ordinary size.

When Annie was four years of age, she was an abnormally large girl and when she became old enough to go to school, seating accommodation for her was found difficult. Shortly afterward she went to New York, where her career in exhibitions was started. It carried her to many foreign lands, appearing before the public.

After the civil war in the United States, Annie met Captain Martin Van Buren Bates, an officer in the American army. He was an inch shorter than she, but weighed 500 pounds. They toured England together in a circus and were married in London. A child born in Seville, Indiana, weighed 22 1/2 pounds at birth, but lived only a short time.

The couple settled down eventually in Seville, Ohio, and a house was constructed especially for the oversized people.

Doors nine feet high and ceilings 11 feet high were required for their comfort and all furniture had to be especially constructed.

Never in the best of health, the New Annan woman-giant died after a lengthy illness in 1838. She was about 32 years of age at that time. Mrs. Biswanger declared.

Articles of clothing left by the giantess are carefully kept by her sister, who said "when I am through with these articles, they shall go to a member of my family, so that the clothing and she might be preserved for exhibits to future generations."
