The Company's grievance is of long standing. JUDGES WORK APPRECIATED—In the report of the fox show held at Borden on Friday last, and of which a full report of same appeared in Saturday's Guardian, no mention was made as to the judges or classifiers of the show. The classification of the foxes was ably looked after by Messrs. Lowell Hancock, Summerside, Heath Bonness, Kensington, Clayton Rodgers of Summerside and so accurately were their duties carried on that not one single entry was drawn from show table which proved a great aid to the various exhibitors. The commendable work of the three judges Messrs. E. H. Monkey, Summerside, Douglas Bell, Cape Travers, Arthur Dawson, Tryon was heard from exhibitors, patrons and visiting fox ranchers throughout the Province who were there in large numbers. To all who in any way assisted to make the Borden Fox Show such a marked success, the Committee in charge extend their united thanks and now announce that the 1934 show will be conducted along the same fair and equitable lines.

Help Crippled Children

In 1933 Five Hundred Dollars of money raised at the annual Tuberculosis Christmas Seal Sale in 1933 was used directly to help crippled children in Prince Edward Island.

The work that is being done to aid in restoring the health of crippled children in this Province is one which is a credit to the people who support it. Certainly no Christmas present could cause the giver greater pleasure than to know he or she was helping to restore the health of some crippled child.

The aim in the crippled children work is that every crippled child in the Province shall be found and everything humanly possible done to restore them to normal health. This is an ambitious programme but what a worthy cause for anyone to be associated with. Many are the misfortunes that crippled children and many are there of those who have lived lives of suffering.

Through a contribution by buying Canadian Tuberculosis Christmas Seals some little boys or some little girls' life is going to be happier and a life of suffering avoided.

LIGHT DOCKET AT OPENING OF SUPREME COURT

Absence of Serious Crime Commented Favorably on By Grand Jury.

The November term of the Supreme Court for Prince County opened yesterday morning at Summerside, His Lordship, Mr. Justice Arsenault presiding.

There was only one criminal case on the docket, that of Raymond Arsenault, sent up on a charge of breaking and entering the store of Hugh Daley and stealing several articles, in which case the Grand Jury subsequently found no bill.

His Lordship in his address to the Grand Jury instructed them that he could find nothing in the evidence submitted to him to connect the accused with the crime, the goods having been found on another person.

In his opening remarks His Lordship referred to the serious accident of His Honour Lieutenant Governor Dalton, and stated that his condition this morning was a little improved.

He congratulated Hon. H. F. McPhee on being appointed to the office of Attorney General and said he felt sure that Mr. McPhee would discharge his duties with honour as he enjoyed an excellent reputation as a lawyer and a gentleman.

His Lordship congratulated the County on the absence of serious crime at this session which was a very desirable state of affairs.

He referred, however, to the fact that since last June there have been 12 cases of auto drivers driving to the common danger, which is a very serious thing. He stressed the great need of careful driving, especially at night; the importance of having one's lights in good shape and added that all carriages should carry lights or reflectors for their own safety.

It was a very important part of children's early training that they should be taught how to take care of themselves on the street; not to coast or hang on to cars. This practice was a very dangerous one.

His Lordship also considered that some part of children's education should be to teach them the proper way to drive a car. He closed with the optimistic statement that the world in general is nearing the end of the years of depression and that conditions are becoming normal again.

Following were the Grand Jurors: Foreman, James Pendergast, Kensington; Thomas Nesbitt, Tye Valley; Emanuel Arsenault, Wellington; Wm. N. Huestis, Summerside; James A. Morrison, Conway; John P. Report of Grand Jury

To His Lordship, the Hon. A. P. Arsenault, presiding Judge. May it please Your Lordship. We the Grand Jury of Prince County at the November, 1933, sitting of the Supreme Court, do hereby leave to report as follows:

We wish to express our sincere sympathies for the representative of our Sovereign in the unfortunate accident which he sustained a short time ago and we ear pray for his speedy recovery.

We are pleased to note the comparative absence of any criminal cases at this session of the Supreme Court. While we notice considerable improvement in the precaution generally exercised in the driving of motor cars in this province, yet we view with apprehension the liability to accidents, which might be caused by drivers of motor cars not taking sufficient precaution particularly passing standing cars at night. We further recommend that on our country roads a specific rate not exceeding twenty miles per hour be observed by drivers of motor cars in passing other cars not in motion. We also strongly recommend that children be educated in school and home to exercise great precaution while on the streets and public roads to guard against danger of being injured or killed by motor cars.

We have inspected the jail and found everything in good condition with the exception of the kitchen ceiling which needs replacing as soon as possible. We also recommend that the kitchen floor be

N. B. Rhodes Scholar Writes From London

The following appeared in the Moncton Times recently:

Earnest P. Weeks, Mount Allison, 33, son of Rev. E. S. Weeks, Salisbury, N. B., and last year's New Brunswick Rhodes Scholar, recently wrote an interesting letter to one of the University authorities, in which he gives his impressions of the Englishmen with whom he has been in contact and of English life to which he is rapidly becoming accustomed. He states that the English chaps are rather distant at first but are very genuine when one gets to know them. They seem to be, he says, remarkably well informed and can discuss intelligently almost any subject. His opinion is that English sport as he sees it at Oxford University is run on a very admirable system. As he says, "There is a game for every conceivable taste and every afternoon from one-thirty to four is devoted to exercise of some sort."

He is enthusiastic about the English tutorial system and indicates that each day is organized in a very systematic manner. He mentions that many of the boys use the bicycle as a means of locomotion, and considering the proximity of different towns on this small English Isle, this means of travel is most efficient.

Mr. Weeks states that the English cathedrals are very impressive and present an idea of dignity and majesty to one who is visiting the land for the first time. He describes his rooms as very comfortable and all in all the tone of his letter indicates that he is enjoying his new college life.

(Signed for self and follows)—James Pendergast.

The Grand Jury returned "no bill" in the only criminal case on the docket, that of the King vs. Raymond Arsenault, for breaking and entering.

Civil Docket

There were several appeal cases on the civil docket, three of which were laid over until the next term on account of the illness of the appellants. They were as follows:

Foster Skerry, an appeal against conviction under the Prohibition Act; Leo Gaudet, also an appeal against conviction under the Prohibition Act; Henry Orenstein, an appeal against conviction under the Peddlers' Act.

The Court then engaged itself with the next appeal case of Ellsworth Gillis, appellant, vs. Nell McLeod, Fisheries Inspector, respondent. This was an appeal from the decision of Magistrate H. J. Massey. The appellant had been fined $30.00 and costs for fishing quohaugs in Bideford River without a license. From this decision he appealed. The evidence was all heard and the case was adjourned to Charlottetown at a later date for argument. Thane A. Campbell, K.C., for the appellant, Heath Strong, K. C., for the respondent. In the afternoon the court was occupied with the appeal of Vernon Gallant who was appealing against the decision of the magistrate who had dismissed a case under the Prohibition Act on which he had been the informant. The evidence was all heard and the case will be argued this morning. Counsel appearing were Hon. H. F. McPhee, Attorney General, W. Henry Noonan, Assistant Attorney General, Heath Strong, K. C., Thane A. Campbell, K. C., J. W. McNaught and C. D. McCallum, S.

2ND CHARLOTTETOWN CO. (ST. PAUL'S)

Last Friday's surprise inspection was for posture, for which the Company had never been inspected before. It was found that at least three Guides need to show a great deal of improvement before they can pass this test for their Second Class Badges.

The members of the Bluebird Patrol had prepared an interesting original game which was thoroughly enjoyed by the Guides. This game was called "Train Signals" and was won by the Oriole Patrol.

Anna Hughes and Helen Tidmarsh kindly lent a large doll's bed and bedclothes which were used to demonstrate the correct way of making a bed. The Guides are now working on this test at home.

At the campfire the Company heard the legend of Saint Andrew and several new songs were welcome.

During the meeting Mrs. Raymond brought in some delicious sandwiches, cookies and cake which were passed around after campfire by the Patrol Leaders. The Guides were very grateful for this treat.

Next Friday is to be Badge Presentation Evening. The four recruits who joined in October will be enrolled. These girls are Lillian Block, Hope Dingwell, Jean Macdonald and Vivian Rix. Two Second Class Badges will be presented to Sylvia Block and Avis Higgins who will also be formally invested as Patrol Leaders. Nine more Guides have completed one year's service in the movement and will receive their first service stars, namely, Helen Agnew, Eleanor Barnall, Sandy Brehaut, Evelyn Carmody, Mely Darrach, Mary Doyle, Janet McLaren, Marion Robertson and Janet Stewart.

The parents of the girls to be enrolled are invited to visit the meeting. Any other visitors will be welcome, but are each asked to kindly bring a donation of one toy, either new or partly used, which the Company will give away with its Christmas baskets.

The members of the Orchid Patrol are preparing an original game in the form of a patrol competition which will be played at this meeting. Patrol Leaders will please have their roll call books ready. If all five Rollers are present there will be a Court of Honour after the meeting.

Nazi German Church Leaders Resign Cabinet

(By Rudolf Josten, Associated Press Foreign Staff) BERLIN, Nov. 28.—The militant leader of the Nazi German Christians and a colleague resigned under pressure today from the German Church Cabinet, governing body of Protestant groups.

The two, Bishop Joachim Hoesenfelder and Dr. Friedrich Werner, the cabinet's legal counsellor, took the broad hint of the Minister of the Interior that their aggressive policy of dragging politics into the church and tolerating "flagrant heretics" threatened to wreck the evangelical church.

Both have been accused of ousting Jews from Protestant Church offices, condoning the recommendations of some Hitlerite German Christians that the Old Testament be eliminated and the new revised, and of creating Nazi-controlled authority.

Dr. Mueller was said to be inclined to fill the vacancies in his cabinet by the appointment of churchmen known as "positive Christians"—those who fully endorse Holy Writ in its entirety.
