Indoor Life

Spending more time indoors makes women far more subject to constipation than men. The liver becomes sluggish and torpid, the bowels constipated and the system poisoned by impurities. If you would get away from the myriads of ills which result from constipation, it is only necessary to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. The benefits from their use are as lasting as they are prompt and certain. Mrs. John Barry, 18 St. Amable Street, Quebec, Que., writes: "This is to certify that I was troubled for years with constipation and tried all kinds of medicines without relief. At last my husband suggested that I try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I did so, and must say that they have given me more relief than all the medicine I have taken during the last fifteen years. I may also add that I have used Dr. Chase's Ointment for piles with excellent results." Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25c a box, all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

Probable Reduction In Freight Rates (Special to The Guardian.)

OTTAWA, Nov. 17.—It is probable that the question of a reduction of freight rates on Canadian railways will shortly be taken under consideration by the Dominion Board of Railway Commissioners. An immediate reduction of ten per cent has been ordered effective on the United States railway by the executives of the roads. The reduction applies to carload lots of farm produce and is for a period of six months.

Irish Situation A Deadlock

LONDON, Nov. 16.—All parts of Ireland with the exception of the Nationalists who, however are now largely incorporated with the Sinn Fein have had their say in the negotiations regarding the failure of the Southern Unionists who opposed a dual parliament for the island saw Mr. Lloyd George today at Middleton who is stating the case for them while the Ulsterists had before them the government's refusal to their counter proposals for a settlement of the Irish question. It is understood the government's reply to Ulster contained no new suggestions or proposals leaving the situation apparently dead-locked.

Girl All Night In Wilderness

HOULTON, Me., Nov. 16.—Verda Brown, seventeen-year-old daughter of Mrs. Annie Craig, is in the Aroostook County Hospital suffering from frost-bites and exposure from being out in a heavy snow storm one night and part of a day. It was a terrible experience and almost death is expected to recover, she remains in a comatose condition and has not spoken since she came to the hospital. She started from her home here on Saturday morning to walk to her grandmother's home in Cary, about twelve miles, partly along the main road, then upon cross-roads and short cuts through woods and fields. She was overtaken by the snow storm and became bewildered and so chilled that she could hardly walk. She took off her shoes and wrapped her skirts around her feet, which became swollen so she could not get her shoes on again. She was utterly lost when it grew dark and crawled into thick evergreen growth where she spent the night. How she escaped freezing to death is almost unexplainable. At daylight she could not walk except for a little way at a time and no doubt would have perished had not a young man making a short cut through the woods found her about 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon and carried her to her grandmother's, about ten miles. She was brought to the hospital here last night. The Popular Bluff American believes that women weep at weddings because it reminds them of the day when they made the same mistake. Ask for Minard's and take no other.

The Campaign In Prince County

Canada and it is impossible for us to negotiate a treaty with them unless they are willing. The Progressives started out with the ultimate goal of free trade—first it was to be within five years; now they do not state any definite term. But they did undoubtedly advocate free trade and direct taxation. They say now they are not going to tax land values but if they are going to put on direct taxes they must get down to this. The revenue of Canada cannot be altogether raised from the incomes of rich people and if they apply direct taxation there is no doubt that they must tax rich and poor alike. Would it not be better to have a low tariff, say ten or twelve per cent, that will yield a certain amount of revenue to Mr. McLean referred to our claims to the natural resources of the west and emphasized the fact that Mr. Crerar's attitude towards Eastern Canada in this matter was flatly antagonistic.

Mr. Jas. A. McNeill

Mr. Jas. A. McNeill, reviewing the trade policies of the various political parties, said: "We start out in the campaign with two free traders in Prince County. At least Mr. Wright was a free trader and is yet. Mr. McLean is not altogether a free trader but in the west his leader, Mr. King, is a free trader; in Quebec he is a high protectionist and in the eastern part of the province anything that will come out of the free trade suit." (Laughter.) The speaker was glad to see that Mr. McNeill was coming round to protection, even if it was a "medium" protection.

Referring to Mr. McLean's criticism of the railways, Mr. McNeill pointed out that it is the brotherhood of railway employees who set the wages on the roads, and the them. The railways cannot be stopped, at whatever expense. The economic management of them is a big problem and demands settlement and it will be settled by the experienced men who have guided Canada through the war and war's aftermath. (Applause.) The railway trouble started with the building of an additional line by the Liberals twenty-five years before the time of the free trade. The cry of "extravagance" was an easy one to raise. Two years ago the Liberal candidate (Mr. McLean) was finding fault with the local government for its extravagance. The party he supported the speaker what has been the result? (Laughter.) Mr. King is also very loud in his criticism of the government but these complaints should have been made in the proper way on the floor of parliament.

Mr. McNeill, continuing, pointed out that Mr. Horace Wright is telling the farmers to get together and put out "these fellows" who are lawyers, doctors and merchants. In the local government, he said, there are 30 members, 24 were farmers. What has been the result? (Laughter and applause.) I would ask you farmers here tonight: Where do the lawyers, doctors, druggymen and merchants come from? Do they come from the farms? I will warrant you that the parents of those men are proud of them and the ability they displayed.

In reply to Mr. McLean's criticism on the Roumanian loan the speaker thoroughly reviewed the history of the granting of this loan to a loyal ally of Great Britain during the war at a time when she was very much in need of it. "Taking up the tariff issue he asked: "If protection was a good thing in Sir John A. MacDonald's time (as Mr. Horace Wright admitted) why is it not good today when we have a tremendous debt to face? How are we going to pay this debt with free trade? It must be met with direct taxation." Mr. McLean says he will regulate the tariff to 10 or 12 per cent. What nonsense. Both Mr. McLean and Mr. Wright must be governed by their leaders. Those leaders say that protection is no good—that the policy which has brought Canada out of bondage is no good for us in this province. They cite the decrease in population. This is due, not to protection, but to lack of manufacturing industries. Encouragement of factories in this province would double the population. Our manufacturers in this country use from 70 to 80 per cent. of our produce, clear of wheat.

Free trade would drive our working people to the States and depopulate to an even greater extent our cities. Germany and Japan can manufacture so much cheaper on account of their cheap wages and long hours that with free trade they could swamp our markets. Nearly every good thing that this province has secured from the Dominion Government has been procured under "conservative" rule. The speaker concluded, instancing the benefits of water, gas, electricity, the car ferry, and the fixed representation at Ottawa.

Mr. Horace Wright maintained that he was not advocating "class government." The manufacturers have been dominating the country and this has been the result, responsible for what might be called "class government." He was not opposed to mergers or to companies coming together and doing business in a large way, but he objected to exploiting the public; to the issuing of water rights and to compelling the people to pay dividends on that stock. It is not necessarily "loyal" to our country to buy Canadian made goods, he maintained, citing an instance of a woman buying in Canada at high prices. For the tariff work he claimed that both Liberal and Conservative parties were responsible. The national policy is such a burden to the producers of the natural wealth of the country that they cannot exist under it and are going to other lands, he continued. Referring to criticism of some of his previous remarks in the Guardian, Mr. Wright maintained that he never made the statement that ladies' shoes were made from cow-hides. He merely mentioned the fact that shoes were higher than they should be and that cow-hides were low. The Progressive policy is ultimate free trade, the speaker admitted. For necessary revenue his party would advocate direct taxation, exempting poor men up to a certain amount on a sliding scale system.

In regard to Mr. Crerar's stand on our claims to Western lands, Mr. Wright argued that Mr. Crerar was a representative of a western constituency at the time he spoke against the interests of the eastern provinces. When he became Premier of Canada, the speaker thought he might take a different attitude.

Major Townsend delivered a half hour address in support of the Liberal candidate. He was followed by Mr. Heath Strong, of Summerside, who ably supported the government policy, and Mr. McNeill and ridiculed the pretensions of "purity" and high morals" professed by Mr. Wright and his party. The Liberal candidate had maintained that his policy was similar to the Progressives. This was something new, said Mr. Strong. Mr. King said his policy was the same as that of the Progressives. A chart merely, by which he would guide the ship of state. Gouin says: "We are going to get the policy of Laurier in this country." Either the Liberals must get on or get off their platform. They cannot not have it both ways. (Appl.)

Mr. Horace Wright was given ten minutes at the conclusion of the meeting, and was followed by

Mr. John Proffitt, of Freetown, who received a poor hearing in his attempt to support the Progressive candidate and set down abruptly against the interests of the eastern provinces. When he became Premier of Canada, the speaker thought he might take a different attitude.
