BRYAN'S CAMPAIGN.

Mr. William Jennings Bryan, the Democratic candidate for the Presidency of the United States is making a second campaign of oratory after the manner of that of four years ago and his supporters and party managers count confidently on his winning votes in that way. In the last Presidential contest Mr. Bryan delivered 500 addresses at as many different points in the United States, speaking from one minute to two hours at a time and it is estimated that in the course of the campaign five millions of people saw his face and heard his remarkable voice.

As is well known, in all oratory the voice of the speaker counts for much and Mr. Bryan is well equipped in that regard. His auditors tell of having heard his resonant accents clearly at a distance of a quarter of a mile from where he stood at is out-of-door meetings. This strength and penetrating power of voice enables him to be heard by many thousands at one meeting, and at the same time his tones are pleasing and persuasive. What is quite as remarkable is the endurance which enables the orator to continue travelling, and speaking four or five times a day for months in succession.

He and his party travel by special train filling a regular schedule of appointments along the route. Each meeting is advertised as extensively as a circus performance, and the people gather from far and near to see and hear the silver-tongued orator. Friends and opponents, men, women and children throng his meetings. Very frequently at the smaller centres a brief address of two or three minutes is delivered from the rear platform of the train. There is usually abundant applause, some hurried hand-shaking and then the train rolls on at a fifty mile rate to the next stopping place.

The Democratic candidate has placed himself quite outside of British and Canadian sympathies by his Anglophobic and pro-Boer speeches and platform, while the free silver or anti-expansion planks do not meet the approval of Canadians generally, so that any interest we might take in his success would berather be made up of the fear than the hope of his winning. But there is now, as there always has been a power in oratory which must be taken into account. At present the probabilities are strongly in favor of a second term for Mr. McKinley, but elections are proverbially uncertain and in this case it is still possible that the unexpected may happen.

HOTEL ARRIVALS.

SEASIDE HOTEL.

In pursuance of announcement the Methodist Church at Kingston, which has been closed for several weeks undergoing repairs and alterations, was re-opened on Sabbath last with impressive services. Rev. Mr. Thomas, the local incumbent, preached at 11 a. m., Rev. Mr. McIvor (Presbyterian) at 3 p. m., and Rev. A. F. Browne (Baptist) at 7 p. m. All three sermons were exceedingly interesting and very appropriate to the occasion, and each duly emphasized the significance of the event. The special music by the efficient choir added materially to the enjoyment of the services and many could not get even standing room in the capacious church. The cost of the work of renovating the edifice, although amounting to the large sum of $650.00 is nearly covered by subscription, and the congregations on Sunday being as liberal as they were large, the unprovided for deficiency is almost met by the large collections taken during the day, so that but a small debt still remains on the church. Apart from the towns, this time-honored sanctuary is now one of the most beautiful, as well as one of the most comfortable, meeting houses in the Provinces. Both interiorly and exteriorly it has been thoroughly renovated. An arched ceiling tastefully finished in stained wood has superseded the old plaster one; the walls to the height of four feet have been wainscotted in the same material as the ceiling, and the intervening space papered in a quiet shade of green that harmonizes well with the rest of the mural fittings; a complete set of new pews of polished birch and ash has been put in, and two lateral aisles replace the old one; the platform has been re-arranged and re-carpeted and an elegant desk supplied, along with new and comfortable chairs for the choir; new matting for the aisles and beautiful pendant lights have also been provided. The exterior of the church has been repainted in good taste, and its appearance further improved by the remodeling of the too scanty eaves. Everything has been done in a manner which reflects credit upon the skill and aesthetic taste of the contractors, Messrs Schurman, Lefurgey, Clark & Co. We hope that the re-dedication of the beautified church at Kingston, happening as it does synchronously with the advent of a new pastor on the circuit, will usher in a new era of prosperity—

Blood Disorders

are simply kidney disorders. The kidneys filter the blood of all that shouldn't be there. The blood passes through the kidneys every three minutes. If the kidneys do their work no impurity or cause of disorder can remain in the circulation longer than that time. Therefore if your blood is out of order your kidneys have failed in their work. They are in need of stimulation, strengthening or doctoring. One medicine will do all three, the finest and most imitated blood medicine there is.
