YOU CAN "LENGTHEN" A ROOM WITH MIRRORS

A large mirror adds width, height, and length to any room. It is particularly good used on an unbroken wall. If you have a long narrow room, and a large blank wall on one side, put a full-length, rectangular mirror on that wall. It will make your ceiling appear higher and your room wider.

Lincoln-Zephyr Pioneers New Styling

A FRESH approach in the development of the modern stream-line design is offered in the new 1938 Lincoln-Zephyr V-12 cylinder motor cars. The sedan with four doors is pictured above. The "tear drop" front end suggests the highly streamlined front of a racing plane. The "air stream" treatment is carried out smartly in the long sweep of the hood, the rakish tilt of the windshield, the graceful body contours and the new massive fenders and lamps. Inset, the front compartment which has been enlarged and the gear-shifting lever moved out of the way of driver and front seat passengers. Among the new engineering features are an increased wheelbase length, now 125 inches, and the use of hypoid drive in the rear axle. The 110 horsepower V-type 12-cylinder engine operates more quietly, yields a smoother flow of power and functions with maximum economy.

We are closing our books for the end of our fiscal year on January 25th. All bills are now in the mail and we shall deem it a special favour if you will call and pay same before the above date.

Scout News and Notices

The Origin of Scouting

All normal, healthy boys have an urge for adventure, something that calls for a test of skill against skill, wits against wits, strength against strength; something involving the hardy man-proving romance of exploring and pioneering. It was the spontaneous response of English boys to such play adventure, set forth on a book of field scouting for young soldiers, written by a young army officer, Colonel Robert Baden-Powell, some years before the South African war, and taken up by educationists, that gave us Boy Scout Movement its birth. To the boys it was the play-adventure that appealed; to the educationists it was the unique effectiveness of the character training involved.

1st Charlottetown Troop

The 1st Charlottetown Troop is now open for more boys. We have reorganized and formed a Demonstration Patrol of senior Scouts which allows for about ten more boys between twelve and sixteen years of age in the other Patrols. Arrangements are under way for summer camps and Patrol-Hikes. Old Scouts and past members of the Troop are invited to a reunion meeting Monday, January 17th, 7.00 p. m. to consider our Annual Plan.

The Plan in Scouting

Colonel Baden-Powell's plan, departing from cut-and-dried standards, was aimed to develop four things, viz: character in the individual, practice of personal health and cheerful happiness; handicraft; and sense of duty to one's neighbor and to the community. These young men were taught to be observant, to use their eyes and ears at night in glorified hide-and-seek competitions, and to find their way by the stars. They had to make long mounted journeys in pairs, or, in the case of particularly intelligent men, alone, piloting themselves by the map and keeping themselves unseen by the people of the country; and they had to report upon what they had observed and heard.

3rd Charlottetown Sea Scouts

The Sea Rovers held a meeting last Thursday evening and decided to hold classes in Navigation and other nautical subjects. These classes will be for the benefit of all members of the Ship's Company. The Rovers are holding one special meeting each month at which they request a full attendance and full uniform must be worn. At these special meetings classes in instruction will be held and other social and intellectual activities will play an important part.

Scouting Claims Your Support

Here is a constructive cause which is commended to the enthusiastic and practical support of all thinking citizens. Busy men and women will find much of the work in a sense petty, and many of those with whom they have to deal somewhat trying, and they should be prepared for such things; but the results over a period of time will repay them for the part they are taking in building a better and more united Canada—a better and happier world.

8th Charlottetown Troop

This Troop held a meeting last Tuesday evening with a good attendance. Mr. Boyle has taken over the Duties of Assistant Scoutmaster and will assist the Troop in their Scouting activities. The Troop is holding a meeting next Monday evening and are preparing for an inspection by the Provincial and District Commissioners in the near future. A full attendance is requested for Monday evening.

"Playing The Game"

The Scout Movement embraces all that is best in British traditions of "Playing the Game". From the boy's point of view, Scouting puts them into fraternity games, which is their natural organization, whether for games, mischief or loafing. It gives them a smart dress designed for utility, for there is nothing in the Scout Uniform that has not a definite purpose; nothing is for effect or for swank, except to appeal to a boy's sense of romance and make-believe, or wonderment and imagination.

Georgetown

During the Christmas holidays Mr. Gordon Douglas held several meetings of the boys and older people in Georgetown, after his return from Winnipeg. He states that the people in Georgetown are very enthusiastic in Scouting. We hope to have Scouts in this district within a few weeks.

Free-Time Programs

Scouting is a "Games Program", and in teaching it the endeavor is to bring out all that is best in the boy. It is carried out in his free time and does not encroach upon or interfere with school, home or church life. It is believed that Scouting is the best scheme offered to the churches in the interest of the boys; it teaches tolerance towards other forms of religion, and the practise of one.

Vernon

It is our intention to have at Troop of Scouts formed in Vernon in the near future. Mr. Gordon Murray has consented to act as Scoutmaster of this Troop and if any boys in the district are interested in joining the Scouts he may do so by communication with Mr. Murray.

Prov. H.Q. has just received the annual statement of Census Oct. 31, 1936-Oct. 31, 1937. The increase of Scouts in this province was 149, a very fine showing and ranks favorably with the other provinces.

Says Democracy Threatened By Press Control

(By The Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, Jan. 13—A picture of Canada lining up with the dictatorial countries of Europe and Asia in forsaking democracy if the provincial legislatures were permitted to interfere with the freedom of the press was painted in the Supreme Court of Canada today by Hon. J. L. Ralston. As counsel for the daily and weekly newspapers of Alberta, he was arguing against the Alberta Legislature bill "to ensure the publication of accurate news and information," one of three referred to the court for an opinion as to whether they were within the legislative competence of the Alberta House.

The other measures were a bill to impose taxes on the paid-up capital, reserve funds and undivided profits of banks and a bill to regulate credit institutions and the business of dealing in credit. Earlier W. N. Tilley, counsel for the chartered banks of Canada and the Canadian Daily and Weekly Newspapers Associations, argued all three bills were unconstitutional.

Col. Ralston referred the court to a report prepared by Carl W. Ackerman, dean of the Columbia University Graduate School of Journalism, on restrictions on the freedom of the press. The report described curtailment of press freedom as "the black plague of the 20th century" and listed countries in which to a greater or lesser degree the press was controlled by the government.

Wherever the press was controlled there was no democracy. In democratic countries including those in the British Empire, France, Norway, Sweden, Finland and others there was no control. He was sorry to note, said Mr. Ralston, that the Canadian provinces of Alberta and Quebec, by reason of recent enactments, were listed by Dean Ackerman with the countries in which partial control was exercised.

BOOKS, ART, MUSIC

Millan, conductor played very important parts in all of them. Garbed as Santa Claus he was seen going down a chimney on an elevated stage back of the orchestral platform and later made an entry down the main aisle on a sled drawn by improvised reindeer. The orchestra entered with violins playing "Big Bad Wolf" against the brass in "British Grenadiers." Mr. Heins was dressed as a nurse in charge of two frolicsome little girls who in private life are the duo-piano team.

Winnifred Mazzolini and Kathleen Irwin. Scenes from "Hansel and Gretel" were beautifully presented, and Saint Saens' "Carnival of the Animals" made a great hit. Animals wild and domestic—sixteen pantomimists—appeared on the stage, as well as some real chickens. The dancing elephants were the stars as far as the children were concerned.

Both conductors, and the musicians entered into the spirit of the occasion and held their large audience spellbound.

Hector Charlesworth who was present for the first time at "The Christmas frolic of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra" writes most interestingly of some of the music performed. To quote brief portions. "The other purely orchestral offering was a Potpourri on airs from Sullivan's 'Mikado'... Sir Ernest's buoyant rhythmic interpretation was a delight, and I recalled that nearly twenty years ago he conducted 'The Mikado' under far different circumstances. It was when he was a war-prisoner in Ruhleben Camp, Germany and many gifted musical students, similarly placed, were co-operating with him. The real romp began with a rendering of Mussolov's modernistic 'Iron Foundry,' a work in which weird noises are co-ordinated to rhythmic effect. The orchestra came in in caps and overalls, Sir Ernest smoking a pipe and conducting with a monkey-wrench. Mussolov's assemblage of noises was augmented by a crew breaking up packing cases on the back stage, and another crew taking out the pipes of the organ up near the ceiling. The humour of the number was augmented by the seriousness with which everyone went about his business.

And about the presentation of the well-known "Chopsticks"—"This work has an interesting history. Years ago, Rimsky-Korsakoff, Caesar Cui and others of the Russian national group used to be entertained at St. Petersburg by a hostess who regretted that she could not participate in their musical numbers because when studying the piano all she had been able to master was the trivially called "Chop-Sticks." The composers thereupon made a little salon piece enabling her to take part. Some time ago Donald Heins learned that Paul Whiteman had presented an extended score of the original. He telephoned Deems Taylor and asked him where this score was obtainable and learned that the only copy in existence was in possession of Whiteman who made it himself. The modernistic conductor was caught by phone at Chicago, and generously consented to send it to Toronto. It is a very jolly affair winding up with a Liszt rhapsody, and was efficiently rendered in comic spirit
