

Rotarians Hear Practical Address

At Rotary Club yesterday Mr. Thomas Olsen, packing house expert for Davis & Fraser, gave an interesting address on the subject "From Pig to Pork." Mr. Olsen first spoke of the packing house link between the producers and the consumers and said that the packing business succeeds by having quality product, good service, and economic operation; and falls if it has poor goods, inefficient service and high operating costs. He then spoke of the arrival of the pig at the packing house. In the pens there is a class distinction even as rigid as that in human society. The pigs are divided into eight different classes, the highest being known as select.

MUDS AS A SOIL AMENDMENT (Experimental Farms Note)

Muds are deposits formed by tides or found in the beds of ponds, lakes and rivers. Their composition is extremely variable and dependent to a large degree upon their origin and method of formation; they consist largely of ground up rock matter, clay and sand, together with shell, more or less broken up, and organic debris (the remains of plants and animals) in variable quantities.

The percentages of plant food in muds are, as a rule, not high. In many cases they do not exceed those of good soils. Certain muds, however, contain notable amounts of nitrogen and organic matter and these, more particularly, are of value as soil amendments. Possibly the value of most "muds" has been found to be in improving the mechanical condition of worn and exhausted soils. Muds characterized by a high lime content, as for example "Mussel Mud" and "Oyster Shell Mud," will be found useful amendments for acid soils and soils in need of lime, furnishing fairly high amounts of carbonate of lime. While the lime contained in the shells of these classes of mud acts somewhat slowly, the results are lasting, and these materials have been used with good results for the correction of soil acidity on many farms of the Maritime provinces. Muds, even good quality, cannot, however, be expected to take the place of manure and fertilizers.

Of late years the practice of "mudding" the soil has become less popular and apparently is gradually dying out. This is probably due to the fact that recent advances in scientific agriculture have made it possible to more economically increase the productivity of the soil by improved methods of farming, including the rational use of manure and fertilizers, than by the application of this class of soil amendment.

While there are many soils which may no doubt be temporarily improved by a dressing of good mud, care should be taken to obtain information in respect to the composition of the mud, cost of labor for digging, hauling etc., followed by field trials on a small scale before any great expenditure is made. PREACHES FAREWELL SERMONS—Concluding a ministry of four years at St. Andrew's Church, Saint John, Rev. J. S. Bonnell delivered his farewell sermon Sunday, preaching before thronging congregations. The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was observed at the morning service. Mr. Bonnell said he wished his last word in Saint John to be an appeal for greater tolerance and sympathy and brotherhood among all bodies of Christian Churches. With his wife and family he left yesterday for Winnipeg to take up his duties as minister of Westminster United Church there.

N. E. POTATO MARKET—Just now the potato growers of New Brunswick are in a very fortunate position because they are getting high prices and there is a lively demand. The situation will be less favorable after the very high Cuban duty goes into effect the first of November. The Provincial and Federal Governments are being urged to endeavor to have this duty reduced, but it will not do to reckon on success in that direction. In the event of smaller winter exports to Cuba, the next best thing is to take the fullest advantage of the markets in the central provinces and the west, and no doubt the shippers are alive to the importance of making the necessary connections to provide for handling large quantities of their produce. It is yet too soon to make predictions as to the result of the marketing of this year's crop, but at the moment the outlook remains fairly good.—St. John Telegraph-Journal.

FINAL DANCE AT BEACH GROVE—The final dance and dinner of the season given by the Gyo Club took place last night at the Beach Grove Inn with the orchestra in attendance. Both functions were a stupendous success. There were about 90 present at the dinner and 300 at the dance. After the speech making at the dinner, a presentation was made to Mr. R. H. Sterns, proprietor of the Inn. Various stunts were a feature of this part of the evening. The hall room was elaborately decorated and dancing continued till a late hour. The special novelties which accompanied the various numbers of the program added pep to the entertainment.

Even. At the time when he entered the service the rolling stock and locomotives were very small. The box cars and flat cars had a capacity of 8 tons, and locomotives had a hauling capacity of 125 tons. The Island system at that time was a narrow gauge road with an extremely light rail, poor ties, and no ballast. The road condition was not improved to any extent until after he took charge as superintendent. At the present time, while we have not got what is looked upon as a standard roadbed we have our road equipped between Emerald Junction and Charlottetown with heavy 85 pound rails, and between Borden and Tignish with 67 pound rails. This portion of the road has been fairly well ballasted and is supported with good ties. Between Royalty Junction and Georgetown the road is equipped with 85 pound rails. A portion of this track is well ballasted and all furnished with good ties, so that we have a roadbed capable of handling, and does handle, cars having a capacity of 75 or 80 tons, and engines ranging from 580 to 800 tons over difficult parts of the road. The passenger equipment has been brought up in line with the freight service, and at present we are handling fully as good passenger cars as are in use on the mainland with the exception of a few of the first class heavy passenger trains that handle all steel equipment. The only part of the road now to be changed from narrow to standard gauge is the Murray Harbour sub-division, and this change will, no doubt, be brought about next year. The most trying experience in railroad operation was during the period of 1916-18 when the third rail was placed in connection with the narrow gauge between Charlottetown, Borden and Summerside for the purpose of handling standard gauge cars as well as narrow gauge cars. This was a very complicated arrangement in the system of switches and other equipment especially during the winter. Prior to the installing of the third rail it was necessary to transfer all the freight at Borden from standard to narrow gauge cars.

In answer to the query as to how the road is equipped for snow fighting Mr. Grady said: "At the present time I think there should be no trouble in taking care of our worst snow storms. We are supplied with the best of modern equipment, such as steel drop nose wing ploughs, flangers, and a first class rotary plough, all of which will be capable of taking care of our heavy snow." Mr. Grady wishes to thank all patrons and shippers for the very great kindness which they have extended to him during the time he has been here in connection with the railway, and for the assistance and cooperation which they have given during the fall movement of live stock and potatoes. To show the industrial progress made by the Island in the last decade Mr. Grady cited the gross earnings of 1929 at about $2,000,000 compared with $480,000 for 1918. As a successful railway man Mr. Grady has made a life study of his work and has made a special effort to know every phase of every situation. In his connection with his em-

LONGAPHE GETS DECISION OVER STEELE

The boxing bout between the best amateur exhibition ever given in this city but Steele had to concede several pounds in weight to his opponent who was much younger. Although losing the decision Steele fought a great battle, and at one time the referee was counting out the other boxer who also gave a splendid exhibition of boxing and gameness, and showed promise of developing into one of Charlottetown's leading welterweights. At the conclusion of the bout Steele showed excellent sportsmanship by congratulating Longaphie on his well earned victory.

The mysterious man who has always been in the building during the show has not yet been captured. The holder of the lucky door ticket was Mr. Arthur Worth, who received a five dollar gold piece. There will be special attractions each night during the week. Part of the proceeds is going towards the Sanatorium Building Fund.

players he has never sent a man to do a job which he himself would not be willing to undertake. "In retiring from the service," Mr. Grady states, "there is not a man employed to-day who was in the service when I entered it." Mr. Grady intends going to Florida for a well-earned six months' rest. He proposes spending the winter in the South and returning to the Island in the spring.
