Y. M. C. A. MEETING

The Territorial Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association for the Maritime Provinces met on Tuesday, June 17th, at Truro, N. S. A good representation was present. Mr. J. K. Ross was the delegate from P. E. Island. The chairman of the committee, Mr. J. Fred Fraser of Davis and Fraser, Halifax, N. S., is also an Island man. The various departments of the work for the Maritime Provinces were discussed and committees appointed among whom are the following: P. E. I., Mr. C. J. Reilly; Militia and Boy's Work, Dr. I. J. Yao; McEwen, Railway Work, Mr. J. K. Ross; Religious Work, Dr. J. H. Ayers; Foreign Missions, Mr. C. H. B. Longworth; Finance, The new Maritime Secretary, Mr. A. S. McAlister. A good grasp of the Maritime needs and opportunities for development of the Y. M. C. A. movement, and is in hearty accord with the newer phases of the work, as demonstrated by Mr. John Bradton in his able and interesting addresses delivered recently in Charlottetown. Mr. McAlister has taken an office in Halifax and will devote his entire time to supervision of the field and co-operation with the local secretaries in carrying out the progressive policy and broader type of work the committee has in view. A great need exists for men of the right stamp and training and one of the tasks before Mr. McAlister is to find them and induce them to take up the work. An important feature of the Maritime Work for the summer months is the effort the Y. M. C. A. is making to help the men when under canvas in the Militia camps. Much success has attended this movement. Mr. C. J. Reilly, the efficient local secretary, is charged with supervising this department of work when the Island Camp assemblies here on the 20th of this month.

SPORTING

LOOKS VERY BLUE ON THE THAMES

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 19.—The annual varsity race between the crews of Yale and Harvard will take place on the Thames River course here to-morrow. The big event will be preceded as usual by the varsity four-oared race and the freshman eight-oared race. The four-oared race will be rowed upstream at 9.15 o'clock in the morning, over the lower two miles of the course. As soon as possible after the finish of that race the freshman eights will row upstream over the upper two miles of the course. The big race of the day will be started at about 3.30 o'clock in the afternoon at the Harvard quarters and will be rowed over the four-mile course downstream, finishing at the railroad bridge.

In anticipation of the big regatta New London is wearing its holiday garb which it dons but once a year. The advance guard of visitors has already put in an appearance. But the main army of the enthusiasts will not arrive until early to-morrow morning, when they will pour into town by train, by boat and by automobile, from Boston, New York, New Haven and many other points.

It is one of the traditions of Yale-Harvard rowing that the crew which shows the better form two weeks before the regatta will win. Basing their judgment largely on this tradition, the majority of critics predict a victory for the Blues in the big race to-morrow. The Yale crew has made a distinctly better showing in its practice work. This is the first season since Harvard began her winning streak in 1906 that Yale has been the favorite. But the fact that the Crimson crew has come to the Thames this year with a record of defeat by both Princeton and Cornell earlier in the season has served to almost entirely reverse the conditions that have prevailed on the eve of the Yale-Harvard races of late years.

If Yale does win to-morrow it will be one of the most remarkable achievements in rowing history. The difference between the English stroke which Yale is rowing this year, and the Americanized English stroke such as has been taught by nearly all of the professional coaches is very marked. But it is believed that any disadvantages resulting from the change of stroke will be more than offset by the facts that the Yale crew is largely composed of veterans and that their opponents seemingly are the weakest crew that Harvard has sent to New London in years.

Some additional interest is given the race this year by the fact that it is in the nature of a "rubber." Since the annual classic had its inception on Lake Winnepesaukee, sixty-one years ago, Yale and Harvard have each been credited with twenty-three victories, the duels being fought out on the original course, then at Worcester, New Haven, Springfield and finally on the Thames at New London. There have been many interruptions since the first struggle in 1852, so that the regatta this year is the forty-seventh meeting of the two oldest American universities in what many graduates regard as the American sporting classic.

BEER-DYSTANT

The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Beer of Coleman was very beautiful last evening, decorated with potted plants and ferns in honor of the wedding of their daughter, Miss Millie L. to Mr. Louis Dystant of Ellerslie. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Robert Murray of O'Leary, assisted by Rev. Dr. John Dystant of Cheboygan, Michigan, brother of the groom. In the presence of the near relatives of both parties. The bride, unattended, was gowned in ivory satin and wore a bridal veil caught up with lilies-of-the-valley. She carried a bouquet of white roses and maiden hair fern, and was given away by her father. Mrs. Jacqueline Dorian played Lohengrin's wedding march. The groom's gift to the bride was a pearl olive necklace and to the organist a gold brooch. The happy couple will leave this morning on a honeymoon trip to New York, Boston, and other American cities. On their return they will reside at their new home in Ellerslie. Many beautiful presents were received from the numerous friends of the bride and groom with whom the Guardian joins in best wishes for future prosperity. J.
