

Nothing Tastes Good

And eating is simply perfunctory—done because it must be. This is the common complaint of the dyspeptic.

If eating sparingly would cure dyspepsia, few would suffer from it long.

The only way to cure dyspepsia, which is difficult digestion, is to give vigor and tone to the stomach and the whole digestive system.

Hood's Sarsaparilla cured Mrs. Frances Blondin, Pembroke, Ont., Benj. Webb, Clinton, Ont., and W. A. Nugent, Belleville, Ont., all of whom suffered greatly from dyspepsia. Mrs. Blondin writes, "I am fully cured"; Mr. Webb, "It worked like a charm, restored a healthy appetite and toned my whole system"; and Mr. Nugent, "I cannot praise it too highly for the good it has done me."

Hood's Sarsaparilla Promises to cure and keeps the promise. Don't wait till you are worse, but buy a bottle today.

THE COTTON COMBINE.

The Dominion Cotton Company, or as it was then commonly called the Cotton Trust, was formed in 1891 with a capital of $1,500,000. It included nine large cotton mills, located respectively at Hochelaga, St. Anns, Magog, Halifax, Moncton, Windsor Brantford, and Kingston, besides a print mill at Magog. In 1892 the stock was "watered" almost 100 per cent, that is $1,500,000 of new $100 shares was issued to the old shareholders at $10 per share. In the first four years the profits earned made a total of $1,770,330 or over $100,000 in excess of the actual capital—which was $1,500,000, with the $150,000 paid for new stock at "watering time"—$1,700,330 profits on $1,500,000 in four years!

Since 1895 the public have not been informed as to the precise dividends earned by the trust. But generally speaking the stock-holders had received 6 per cent on their stock—almost 12 per cent on their actual investment. In 1901 the watered stock maintained a market value of 100. It has since fluctuated downward and a few days ago fell to 50 as noted in our despatches at the time. The precise cause of the collapse is not clear, but seems to be due to manipulation. A Montreal paper mentions that a large floating debt had been incurred in remodelling the mills, and that the Bank of Montreal insisted that dividends should be suspended till this floating liability had been reduced.

Hon. A. G. Jones, Lieut. Governor of Nova Scotia, refused the offer of Knighthood during the recent visit of H. R. H. the Duke of Cornwall. Governor Jones is a Liberal of the old school, and like Edward Blake and Alexander Mackenzie does not approve of introducing imperial titles in Canada. He is content to remain a plain Mr. Jones, and thus share something of the distinction of his former Canadian leaders and the greatest of English Liberals, Mr. Gladstone.

The Patriot, still ill-natured, charges THE GUARDIAN with being determined "to divide the Liberal party." THE GUARDIAN has neither the desire nor the power to divide the Liberal party, being quite outside of its councils and independent of it in every way. But the fact remains that the party is divided by the malignant and bitter attacks of Mr. Farquarson's personal organ, made upon those Liberals who were not of its way of thinking. The Patriot now says "all differences are settled." We beg to assure the Patriot that differences still exist and will remain until it apologises to the Liberals whom it has needlessly and outrageously offended. It has handicapped its own candidate and at the same time forfeited the right to speak for any more than a section of the Liberal party. There are many hundreds of Liberals who will hereafter refuse to dance to the Patriot's piping.

This is the way the St. John's N. F. Telegram speaks of the Royal visit after the distinguished guests had departed:

We have had a glorious time, without a single hitch anywhere, or jarring note to mar our song of jubilation. Our pyrotechnical display (we speak on the authority of one of the Ophir's officers) surpassed, in brilliancy and variety, every other similar feature witnessed by the Ducal party since they left England, whilst the loyalty and enthusiasm manifested by the people of Newfoundland will be amongst the happiest recollections of the Royal tour. The decoration of our returned soldiers with South African medals, the presentation of Address and Gifts to their Royal Highnesses at Government House, the charming Children's Demonstration at the Prince of Wales' Rink, the laying of the Commemoration Stone at the Court House,—all these functions were carried out in such a pleasing manner, and with so much captivating graciousness on the part of the Duke and Duchess as to fill to overflowing our love for Their Royal Highnesses and our loyalty to King and Empire.

There was a funny article in the Toronto Globe the other day in reference to Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his trip through Canada with the Royal Party. Sir Wilfrid appears to have had, according to the Globe, considerable difficulty in not becoming the principal figure in the party. We quote:

"It was necessary that he should be present at all points where a lengthened stop was made, and he no doubt found it some what difficult to be present and not be present at one and the same time. His striking features, so well known from one end of the Dominion to the other, made it impossible for him to travel without recognition, and as a consequence there was a disposition everywhere to make him a leading figure in the remarkable journey. To resist the generous advances of admirers is a somewhat embarrassing and even ungracious task, but those toward whom it had to be employed will recognize on reflection that there was no other course for the Premier under the circumstances."

When it Hurts To Cough

The cough that hurts, the cough that gets tight in the chest is daily getting deeper and deeper into the bronchial tubes and is making directly for the lungs, to become pneumonia, inflammation of the lungs or consumption. Such coughs are sometimes referred to as "graveyard coughs," because they usually bring their victim to that last resting place.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has long been known as mother's favorite remedy for croup, bronchitis, coughs and colds. It gains in popularity every day and now has by far the largest sale of any similar preparation.

It loosens the tightness in the chest, allays the inflammation, cures the cold and prevents pneumonia, consumption and other lung troubles. 25 cents, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.
