Honor Memory Of "Lost" Fishermen

LUNENBURG, N. S., Sept. 18—(CP)—Flowers thrown on the storm-tossed waters of the North Atlantic today marked this fishing town's annual service in memory of its sons who have died in pursuit of their calling at sea.

Despite heavy rains, hundreds of Lunenburgers lined the waterfront as Mayor A. W. Schwartz threw a floral anchor, official tribute from the town into the sea.

Unfavorable weather prevented holding of an open air service, but an indoor service in one of the town's churches was well attended. Even as plans for the service were laid, the fishing centre mourned the loss of Captain Hezekiah Conrad, Wade Bowers and Emmerson Bowers, of the Lunenburg schooner Nelson L., who were drowned last night off Port Bickerton, N. S.

Elmsdale and Vicinity

The Elmsdale Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Lottie Forsythe for the September meeting, with a fair attendance of members and a large number of visitors. Meeting opened by the singing of the Ode and It's a good time to get Acquainted. After the business was finished a Musical Contest was put on by Miss Annie O'Connor. A dainty lunch was served by the Committee and meeting closed by "O Canada."

Three largely attended services on Sunday last marked the reopening of Elmsdale United Church after its recent renovation. The church was moved some yards forward, a chancel built, the vestibule re-built, and both the interior and exterior of the church re-painted. The morning service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Godfrey, a former pastor of this congregation, the Elmsdale Choir rendering appropriate selections. The afternoon had as its guest speaker Rev. Mr. MacLeod of Springfield, also a former pastor. The music for this service was furnished by the O'Leary Male Choir. Rev. Mr. Godfrey conducted the evening service, assisted by the Lot. 14 United Choir. The church at each service was filled to capacity. Congratulations are extended to Rev. Mr. Paterson and his congregation on this successful issue of their courage and zeal.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Hardy on the arrival of their first born babe a lovely boy, on September 3rd.

The work on the pavement is now being completed for this season, and the general opinion seems to be that it is a great asset to the people. It has eased the unemployment situation considerably, and given the public something worth while.

Many friends in this community regret to hear of the death of Mr. Jesse Coughlin of Fortune Cove, who for many years hoisted the old time fertilizer —mussel-mud, from Mill River. Mr. Coughlin was a very successful farmer, his chief diversion being music, as he was a talented violinist. The sympathy of this community is extended to his widow and family.

Another well-known farmer passed away on September 3rd in the person of Mr. George Murray of Elmsdale at the age of 71 years. He was a prominent farmer who spent his life here. He was the fourth member of the family of the late Jacob Murray, to die within eighteen months. He leaves to mourn three sons, James, William, and Everett, all at home. Funeral service was conducted at his home, Rev. Hart Davis of Port Hill, officiating .Interment took place at Alberton, Pall-bearers were, Messrs. Jacob, Keir, George and Thomas Murray, Irving Ramsay and James O'Brien.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Adams on the arrival of a son on Sept. 10th.

Mr. John C. Matthew, left on Monday morning for Sackville, where he accepted a position on the staff of the Mt. Allison University. He was a very successful teacher, having the gift to impart his knowledge. His many friends wish him every success in his new undertaking.

Mrs Hammond Johnson, North Wiltshire, is spending some time with her mother, Mrs. Robert Matthews.

The sympathy of the community goes out to the relatives of the late Mrs. Robert Carruthers, O'Leary, who died recently.

What might have been a serious accident occurred near the cross roads at Elmsdale recently, when a vehicle which had four accupants was struck from the rear by an oncoming automobile. The glare of an approaching car seemed to prevent the other driver from seeing the wagon. Fortunately although the occupants of the wagon got a bad shaking up, no one was seriously injured.

Mrs. Hazel Cameron, the genial post mistress of Elmsdale was the sole representative from "the Island", attending the convention of the Canadian Postmasters' Association at Digby, N. S. on Sept. 7th-8th. The programme was a varied one, much business was done, and executives for next year appointed. Mrs. Cameron being elected on this committee.

Mrs. Donald McKenna, had as her recent guests, her mother Mrs. Alexander Cameron and sister, Miss Kathleen of Summerside.

Miss Eileen O'Brien, B. A., has resumed her duties as principal of Elmsdale school, after spending her holidays in Montreal.

The teachers in this vicinity regret to hear of the sudden death of Mrs. Edward Pendergast, of Kensington. —E.

Miss Olive Raynor acted as president, with Miss Bertha Doyle as Secretary. The president made some very brief remarks, touching on the purpose and object of the convention, after which he named, Resolutions, nominations and Press Committees.

Miss MacLean addressed the meeting on Red Cross work, and introduced the new Red Cross organizer, Miss Verna Darrah.

Inspector Callaghan then gave an interesting address, advising the teachers to study not only their pupils, but also the district parents, and home movement of the pupils.

Miss Mabel Matheson behalf of the P. E. I. Teacher's Federation and [illegible] MacDonald, President of the P. E. I. T. F advocating higher salaries for teachers, and by C. F. Hine, the teacher's aid service.

Prof. H H. Shaw, Supt. of Education, gave a short address dealing chiefly with our School Curriculum.

Mr. Chandler in a brief talk, concerning the P. E. I. libraries, stated that several thousands pictures had been added to the supply of books, available for the schools.

At the afternoon session a very interesting demonstration of how to teach a history class was given by Sister St. Agnus of Tignish Convent. This was followed by an address by Mr. Heber Matthews. In his talk Mr. Matthews gave some very interesting suggestions and criticism of the Curriculum. The meeting was then honoured by a few remarks from Rev. Father Trainor. Father Trainor reminded the teachers that they themselves must be educated before they attempted to impart any phase of their knowledge to their pupils.

The teacher's duty as a teacher in a district, was dealt with in a very interesting talk of Supervisor Arsenault.

Then with a few remarks by Augustin Gallant, on our School Curriculum, the meeting adjourned.

"OUR SUMMERSIDE SONG"

Our home town 'tis of thee
Fair Summerside by the sea
Of thee we sing,
Town that our natives love
Blest from the land above
No matter where we rove
Fond memories cling.

Our native Town to thee
Where all who dwell are free
We swell thy praise.
We love thy shores and rills
Where scenes with rapture thrills
And hearts with honor fills
All of our days.

Where joy and peace abide
Good will sweeps every tide upon our shore
Where kind hearts lend a hand
Our friendships to expand
And strangers love to land
To know thee more.
Let music swell the breeze
And ring out loud and clear
Our Summerside Song
Let all good tourists awake
A trip now plan to take
Right soon and long——

SAMUEL ALEXANDER LOGAN

PUGWASH, Sept. 19—The death occurred suddenly, on Tuesday night Sept. 6th, of Samuel Alexander Logan formerly of Victoria P. E. I. But who had made his home with his sister, Mrs. Charles J. Chapman of this place for the past two years. The deceased was apparently in the best of health and his passing, which was caused from a heart attack, came as a quiet shock to his relatives and many friends.

He was a man of sterling qualities, and was never known to refuse a helping hand to those in need. Mr. Logan was in his 73rd year and was born at Spry Bay, Nova Scotia, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Logan. But he spent the greater part of his life at Victoria P. E. I., where he conducted a plumbing and tinsmith business. Mr. Logan was well known as a very skillful industrious workman, and while employed in Boston, he received recognition from the Boston Technical College, he also was engaged with the Roger's Miller Co. of Toronto in the construction of the company's terminal at Borden. Besides his wife he leaves to mourn their loss of a kind and loyal father, two sons, Garnet A. in Charlottetown and Charles W. in Pugwash one daughter, (Mildred) Mrs Frank Howatt of Carleton, P. E. I. and one sister, Mrs. C. J. Chapman of Pugwash, N. S. A short service was held at the home on Thursday evening at 7.30 with the Rev. J. H. Groven officiating, assisted by Rev. R. C. White.

The funeral was held from St. John's Anglican Church, Crapaud, with Rev. C. Mitchell assisted by Rev. J. H. Groven officiating. Interment was in the Family plot.

Sees European Parley Likely To Follow Crisis

(The following illuminating comment was wirelessed on Sept. 15 from Paris by P. J. Philip, special correspondent for the New York Times):

PARIS, Sept. 15—Today's meeting between Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Chancellor Adolf Hitler at Berchtesgaden, Germany, is going to be only a preliminary contact, according to all information and opinion here, in a series of meetings that may develop into another peace conference. This conference, if it ever takes place, will be between equals and will not be an imposed peace of victors on the vanquished.

Toward it the first step will be most probably an almost immediate interview between Mr. Chamberlain and Premier Edouard Daladier of France. London on Saturday is being mentioned as the probable place and time of the meeting. That would be a logical outcome of today's meeting. Its alternative is war.

Of what actually happened and was said at Berchtesgaden little, almost nothing, has been allowed to leak out. It has been, however, possible for those who know what has been in both Hitlers and Chamberlain's mind to reconstruct their conversation in broad outline. As a basis they set these ideas.

War Views of the Two Men

Mr. Chamberlain does not want his country or any country involved in a major war. Hitler does not want to engage in a war into which Great Britain might be drawn. Both men are forthright in speaking their minds, and there is no doubt Hitler was flattered by the British Prime Minister's visit.

It removes the German Chancellor from any possibility of being regarded as a political outcast from the European concert. Mr. Chamberlain went to him as an equal, and that has been in these past twenty years what Germany has wanted more than anything else.

There is no doubt also that both men were concerned with the wide problem of peace more than with what is in reality the detail of the Sudeten's quarrel with the Czechoslovaks in Czechoslovakia under the Treaty of Versailles.

There is no doubt—and Jules Sauerwein, foreign editor of the Paris Soire, on the telephone from Berchtesgaden confirms this belief from German sources—that Hitler was frank in his insistence that after this morning's declaration by Konrad Henlein, Sudeten Nazi leader, and his party that there is no possibility of continuing the old Czechoslovak regime and expecting peace.

Even if it came to war and Germany were beaten, the problem would remain. So, Hitler argues, what is the use of fighting? The Chancellor did not insist on the Sudetens' attachment to Germany. He left their fate open for their own decision in part and, in major part, for the decision of that second peace conference toward which today's meeting is being directed.

Report on Next Meeting

One significant detail that might be added to the official communication that another meeting will take place shortly is that it was reported at Berchtesgaden this evening that Hitler declared he would not wish the British Prime Minister to make a second long voyage to such a remote corner as Berchtesgaden and that he would gladly meet Mr. Chamberlain in some more convenient town in Germany.

Will that second meeting take place and with what result? It will depend on the British and even more on the French reaction. It should not be overlooked that while there is no war party here—except, perhaps, the Communists, who take their instructions from Moscow—there is strong army sentiment that if there is to be war it must be now or never.

There's another factor, perhaps more important. The vast majority of the French people do not want war. There is no excitement and no cries of "Viva Czechoslovakia", such as have always been a prelude to any wars in which France has engaged. From the outset the French Government has exercised steady pressure on Prague for moderation and concessions.

Then again France cannot any more than any other country, and less than most, continue to live under the nervous and financial strain of the present situation with Germany. She must either fight or make terms. Perhaps, it is being argued, this is the moment for the latter more than the former.

Daladier Is a "Realist"

Premier Daladier has always been a partisan of more normal relationships with Germany. He belongs with Mr. Chamberlain to the "realist school." In the past his efforts have not been successful, but things have changed since the days of the projected four-power pact. During these past few days the problem here has often been presented this way:

"Will Prague and Paris drag Britain into war, or will London and Berlin drag France and Czechoslovakia into peace?"

It is the attitude of those who view the problem "realistically" that the only way out of the present tension is by bargaining around a conference table. Germany is the petitioner. She wants equality, whinh the Nazi regime has retaken and legalized. She wants outlets, perhaps colonies. She wants a healthier economic life than the one she has been leading.

What she has to offer is that this perpetual reign of terror, both within and outside her frontiers, should cease.

That is how the problem is seen here by very many persons. Toward its solution Mr. Chamberlain's first effort must be to take his own Cabinet and people along with him. It is for that that he is returning to London. His second effort must be to take the French with him. On that Hitler is said to have been hopeful.

It was probably as a contribution toward such success that he did not insist, according to all account, on attachment of the Sudetens to Germany, but left that issue open. The French are bound in their treaties with Prague to help Czechoslovakia only if her territorial integrity is menaced. It would be a mistake on Hitler's part, especially at this juncture, to admit that he had any such intention. What the future status of the Sudetens will be depends upon the terms of the general settlement that it is insisted by those who are living here nervously from day to day, is the only alternative to the horrors of a war in which, even if Germany were defeated, Paris would run the risk of being nearly wiped out from the air.

First Air Express From Pacific Coast

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 20—Commerce took to wings across Western Canada last night as a Trans-Canada lockheed 14 airliner took off for Regina and Winnipeg with the first air express from the Pacific coast.

Premier T. D. Pattullo commemorated the occasion with a box of red roses for Premier John Bracken. The Board of Trade sent a box of assorted British Columbia fruit to E. C. MacKay President of the Winnipeg Board while the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs said it with flowers to the sisters organizations of the prairies. Most interesting first shipment perhaps was a box of extra fancy McIntosh red apples sent by the associated growers to the Winnipeg Kiwanis Club for their annual apple week. It is the first of the 1938 crop to reach the Manitoba capital.

Vancouver newspapers sent matrices to the Winnipeg press in an exchange of news pictures and one local sports wear firm air expressed the first shipment this season of ski wear to its Winnipeg agents. There were a number of personal shipments to friends and relatives. Before the giant airliner took to the skies the Board of Trade held an appropriate ceremony as the first air express package was loaded.

Some thirty airminded citizens gathered to witness the night take off this morning acting Mayor Thomas Kirk will formally received the first air express from the Prairies to Vancouver.

At a recent meeting of the General Committee of the 7th World Poultry Congress, which is to be held at Celeveland, Ohio, from July 28 to August 7, 1939, a resume of the general plans for congress was made. Canada will be well represented both by scientific representatives at the Congress meetings and by outstanding exhibits of Canadian poultry and associated commercial industries.

The first one had The Hague ,Holland, as its rendezvous; the second at Barcelona, Spain, in 1924; the third in Ottawa, Canada, in 1927:; the fourth in London, England, in 1930; the fifth in Rome, Italy, in 1933, and the sixth at Leinzig, Germany, in 1936

"THE PICNIC AT THE SHORE"

In our glee we piled into our wagons
With plenty of eats packed away
The old horse trotting off as if happy
We're off to the shore for the day

We shout as we view rippling waters
As it mirrors the bright shining sun
And we scamper away on the sand bars
Where else could there be so much fun?

With freedom and ease all around us
And naught but enjoyment in store
While we dive in the placid waters
Of our beautiful Islands shore. ....

Small faces are laughing and happy
And grown us seems children once more
When fond memory recalls other picnics
Enjoyed on the P. E. I. shore.

PUT INDIAN SUITS ON PRIZE FIGURES

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 20 — Indian-head dresses and loin cloths now adorn Three Rivers, a prize-winning group of nude Grecian figures representing Pittsburgh's three great streams.

Mrs. Johanna Hallman, art patron who sponsored the statuary that won the $2,000 Prix de Rome last year in New York, ordered George M. Koren, youthful Pittsburgh sculptor, to alter the work for her garden.

"After all," she explained, "the figures should be Indians, for the rivers have Indian names. I don't want a Greek statue of Indian-named rivers."

The group, two males supporting a female, depicts a junction of the Allegheny and Monogahela to form the Ohio.
