A pure catsup, like Aylmer, is wholesome eating for the children, say nutritionists. For Aylmer makes it "home-style" . . . from Canada's finest, red-ripe tomatoes. Children love its "true tomato flavor" and need Vitamin C. 74

Memorial Service At Kensington

The sacrifice of those who gave their lives for freedom was commemorated on Remembrance Day at Kensington, by services at the Roman Catholic and Anglican churches. The parade of ex-service men and school children with their teachers was led by Comrade Robert Howard, a veteran of World Wars I and II, and Captain McDonald, veteran of the South African and First World War, and Comrade C. C. Heschel, as standard bearer. The service at St. Mark's opened with scripture reading, followed by the two minutes silence and the hymn, "Lest We Forget." The old testament lesson from Psalm 145 was read by Rev. J. A. McGowan and was followed by prayer by Rev. G. S. Stevens, and the hymn, "O Valiant Hearts." Rev. L. M. Murray read the New Testament lesson from Revelations 21, and Rev. D. A. Campbell led in prayer. Also included were the hymns "O Canada" and "O God Our Help In Ages Past", the National Anthem, the Lord's Prayer in unison, and the benediction. The preacher, Rev. S. J. Davies, spoke briefly to the children, exhorting them to identify in their young minds this observance of Remembrance Day, with the history of the wars of 1914-1918 and 1939-1945, as studied in school. Taking his text from Psalm 128, verse 5. They that sow in tears, shall reap in joy, he reminded his hearers in forceful tones and stirring words, that "we have come together before the face of God to ask, not of men, but of Him, what is the lesson that we have to learn? God wants to speak to us . . . but it is only by faith, and by taking our guidance from His word, that we shall hear the hidden message. God is the great sower. Men can only sow in His name. But sowing the sowing of God is a work that implies tears. Why? Because the soil needs breaking up. Because our hearts are so often closed against the word of God, until we let them be broken open. That is why the history of God's plan in this world, is a history full of suffering, and full of tears and full of judgment. Only those who are willing to suffer the full price of partnership with God—who are not afraid of the Cross—only those can be soil for God. This would give us a pessimistic view of life, if this were the end of the story, but thank God, the Christian message is that right through the tears, we can see from afar, some times quite near, the joy of the harvest time. The reaping is with joy . . . the last victory already throws its light into the present. What has this to do with the days in which we have been living? This—that seen from the perspective of God, years of war, 1914-1918 and 1939-1945, are years of sowing, periods in which there was a great breaking open of the hard soil of our modern life, a time of judgment, a time therefore, in which there was much suffering, in which many tears were shed. How deep the plow went through the soil of some countries! But thank God, it has not all been wholly in vain! The worst thing is not to suffer—the worst thing is to suffer in vain. There are many who have suffered "meaningfully". These are the ones who have a message for us. There can be no true joy of the harvest, until there is a ploughing and sowing in tears: there is no reaping with joy, unless in some way our hearts are disturbed. The harvest of human fellowship in time of sorrow, is much more sincere and real, if we ourselves, have experienced a "sowing in tears." Once again we have entered into the presence of God, to honor before Him, the memory of relatives, friends and comrades. They have sown—yes sown in tears, and yet their sufferings have not been in vain. "From their shed blood the peace of nations grew." If it had not been for those who "dared and died", and the thousands who did not die, but still suffer from the wounds and scars of battle, and for those who have returned unharmed, our world would be very different, today—what we see happening in lands where tyranny rules would be our lot here.
