MR. KING'S VISIT

irrespective of politics, the people of this Province, as our contemporary says, will await with interest the visit of Mr. Mackenzie King, who is scheduled to speak in Charlottetown on Thursday evening, Sept. 5. Both on his own behalf and as federal leader of the Liberal party, Mr. King will be assured of a courteous hearing and a cordial reception.

The last time Mr. King visited the Maritimes was in the election campaign of 1930. On that occasion he was reported by the Canadian Press as having stated "I stand here tonight and say to the Maritime Provinces that there is not a major recommendation in the Duncan Report, not a recommendation of any real significance today, that we have not carried out in letter and in spirit."

Since that time, through co-operation between the MacMillan Government and the Bennett Government, this Province obtained transference of the car ferry account to the Consolidated Revenue Fund, a substantial all-year-round reduction in automobile rates on the car ferry, and, lastly, a subsidy increase of $150,000 a year for all time—all based on recommendations of the Duncan Commission which the King Government neglected to implement.

It will be particularly interesting to hear what Mr. Mackenzie King has to say with regard to his previous assertion on this point.

STRIKING FIGURES

There has come to Ottawa, during the past few days, an analysis of world trade figures by the statistical bureau of the League of Nations. Representing a careful study which the League's economists have been carrying on for several months this is what it shows:

1—That during the past four years of depression Canada's record in maintaining her foreign commerce has been surpassed by only one of the great world-trading nations, namely, Japan.

2—That while world exports in the past four years have declined 57.1 percent, on a gold dollar basis, Canada's exports on the same basis declined by but 49.9 percent.

3—That whereas Canada's exports, on a gold dollar basis, have shrunk by 49.9 percent, those of the United States have diminished by 68.9 percent, of the United Kingdom by 57.2 percent, of Germany by 65.8 percent, of France by 58.4 percent, of Italy by 58.1 percent.

4—That, in volume of goods, apart from gold dollar values, Canada contributed 3.71 percent of the total world exports in 1929 and 3.99 percent of the total world exports in 1934.

Figures such as these can't be dismissed by election oratory. What they show, and incontrovertibly, is that in the matter of trade, which is the foundation of employment, Canada in these years has been doing better than any other nation in the world, with one exception, Japan, where low wages create especially favorable opportunities for exports, has surpassed us, though only slightly. What they show also is that in volume of sales, in the quantity of goods moving, decline in our trade is much less than is assumed. In that respect our record, comparatively speaking, is even better than when tested by values.

SEEKING SECURITY

Invoking of "sanctions" against Italy is frequently mentioned in press reports of Britain's policy to avert war in Ethiopia. The word "sanctions" came into use after the World War. Security was to be sought not in limited agreements between small groups of states to fight together when any of them should, for whatever cause, be involved in war, but in common agreements among a greater or smaller number of states to act together when—and only when—the established rights of one of them had been violated by force. Security, therefore, must be found in "sanctions" against the wrong-doer.

The first step towards this end was taken through the Covenant of the League of Nations. Article 16 imposed obligations upon every member of the League to adopt common coercive measures, including especially a financial and economic boycott, against states which, in violation of the undertakings of the Covenant, resort to war.

Decision to impose sanctions can be taken only collectively, that is to say by the League of Nations Assembly. In other words, before any action could be taken by Britain, or, therefore, by Canada, the Assembly of the League would have to meet and decide that sanctions should be imposed. The Assembly meets on September 9, and what the British Cabinet is presently discussing it unquestionably the position Britain should take on that somewhat critical occasion.

Canada, of course, will be represented at this Assembly meeting, chiefly by Colonel W. H. Woods, C.M.G., publisher, editor, world traveller, a former president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. Col. Woods combines practical experience with a certain idealism. He may be depended upon to speak for Canada creditably and with common sense. Col. Woods is now in Ottawa preparing a brief.

ONE REASON WHY

Perhaps one reason for Thursday's election results in Alberta, suggests an exchange, is to be found in the fact that the province has never had a Conservative Government. When Sir Wilfrid Laurier carved it out of the Northwest Territories in 1905, he furnished it with a Liberal administration, headed by Hon. Alexander Rutherford. Sustained at the polls, Mr. Rutherford continued in office until 1910, when he was succeeded by another Liberal premier, Hon. A. L. Sifton. Mr. Sifton ruled until 1917, when the third Liberal premier, Hon. Charles Stewart, took over and continued to carry on until 1921.

Then it was that the United Farmers of Alberta came into power, with the Hon. Herbert Greenfield as premier. The latter carried on until Hon. J. E. Brownlee took over office in 1925, and he in turn was succeeded by Hon. R. G. Reid, whose administration went down to defeat on Thursday.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Even the threat of war entails an enormous waste of money.

School Fairs will be the next community attraction.

The roads in certain sections can stand repair after the long drought.

All interest is now centred on Premier Bennett's opening campaign speech on Friday, September 6.

Snow in South Africa, earthquake in the West Indies, rain and wind in Maritimes—was last week's weather experience.

If a holiday, yes, Monday is preferable; if a holy day—then naturally, the churches prefer the selection farther away from Monday. Premier Bennett consulted the churches about Thanksgiving, and was told Thursday was most suitable.

Congratulations are due to Mrs. Arthur Roper who has been selected as one of the 25 most outstanding men and women in drama in Canada by the British Columbia Drama Festival Association Inc. This, of course, is not to be confused with the new Federal organization fathered by the Governor-General, the Earl of Bessborough.

This Province is again to the front, with one of its distinguished sons as the representative of the Roman Catholic Church at the conference of churches to be held this week to consider Italy's threat of war. Archbishop McGuigan has been nominated by Cardinal Villeneuve for this important office, and the League of Nations Society fathers the conference.

Rt. Hon. Mr. Bennett has the other party leaders on the hop. Mr. King had commenced his grand tour, but had only finished Ontario when the postponement of the election sent him back to Ottawa where he now is kicking his heels. Mr. Stevens, similarly, was discomfited, as he planned campaigning here this month before returning to Quebec and Ontario. He also returned to Ottawa bemoaning the upset. Mr. Woodsworth abandoned his Western visit, and is confining himself to a revision of his plans. Each of them, no doubt, is guessing what "R.B." has up his sleeve with which to astonish and capture the electorate.

If there is any doubt in your mind about the value of birds to man we recommend to your attention the following: "A birdman who ought to know says that the stomach of a single cedar-bird contained 100 canker-worms; that one cuckoo had eaten 150 tent-caterpillars; that 454 plant-lice were found in the stomach of a chickadee; that a flicker had devoured 1,000 chinch-bugs; that a scarlet tanager was seen to eat 630 gipsy-moth caterpillars in eighteen minutes, or at the rate of 2,100 an hour; and that a Maryland yellow-throat ate 3,500 plant-lice in forty minutes.—Youth's World.

October, 1917—and a German-Austrian offensive "produced in twelve hours a complete and decisive defeat of General Cadorna's army." But let Churchill the historian tell it in three sentences: "By nightfall more than a million Italians were in full retreat. A large portion of the army passed into dissolution." In three days 200,000 men and 1,800 guns were captured, and before the long retreat was finished and the Italian front had been reconstructed 80 miles to the westward along the Piave, upwards of 800,000 soldiers through death, wounds, sickness, capture, desertion, and above all disappearance, had been torn from the Italian standards. The "astounding disaster" that "required immediate exertions by Britain and France." The gigantic tragedy of Caporetto is recalled at this time with a thought that no army is invincible and that recollection of such a disaster to Italian arms might be expected, in this hour of menace, to touch with some humility the heart of a Dictator whose vainglorious boasts fill the ears of all peoples today.

Forty-five persons were drowned or killed in motor car accidents in Canada over the past week-end. Probably the victims, or most of them, had read of the drownings and accidents during the previous week-end, and the week-ends before. And some of those who are shocked by the tragedies of the past week-end will in all likelihood meet a similar fate during the coming week-end.

Miss Mary Cook, of Bishop Auckland, was a housemaid. Now she is a student at London University with a £400 scholarship in economics and social science. That, girls, is better than imitating Garbo's make-up—much more difficult, and, in the long run, much more profitable. Cinderella set a bad example when she won that beauty prize. If all those who do not really need to earn their living were to create employment by retirement for those who do need work, the whole of the Dominion would be considerable in the aggregate. The chain of openings created through the civil services or in large corporations would result not only in younger men receiving promotions carrying higher salaries, but many thousands getting their first jobs.—Edmonton Journal.

The Red Cross announcement that 15,000 first aid stations will be set up along principal highways to aid victims of motor accidents is a confession of a world that shames modern civilization. The Red Cross action is timely and necessary; its wisdom is clear; but the shame lies in its necessity. It recognizes the motor car as a destructive force and its destructiveness lies not so much in the weight of its metal body and the powers of its cylinders as in the carelessly used or reckless misuse of the finely adjusted control mechanisms that have accompanied every development of weight and power.—Rochester Democrat Chronicle.

The overseas delegates to the conference of the Empire Parliamentary Association have returned to their homes. In wishing the delegates "bon voyage," the British spokesman said they had received a truly national as well as a parliamentary welcome. The thing of which they all agreed was that the forces which create wealth was to endure its permanent strength must be based upon mutual understanding, mutual sympathy, and a growing sense of their responsibility towards each other's welfare. Nothing could contribute so much towards that end as the meetings and discussions they had had at the conference.

Of course everybody wishes to be happy. A great many search for happiness. These, however, rarely gain it to the extent that they desire. Happiness is something that floods the heart with light, as does the sun the earth, after a period of clouds. Happiness usually comes in all its glory when we are searching for something else—especially when we are trying to make someone else happy, or giving our time to the work at hand.—Ex.

cent has made a name for himself not only locally but throughout the Maritime Provinces. The son of a distinguished divine, he underwent long and arduous preparation before commencing his ministry, and it will be recalled, the church here waited for him, believing him to be both the man they wanted and needed. His revered father, occupying the pulpit in the interim, asked the congregation to be patient with him in his early ministry, but from the outset Dr. Vincent had made good, and the congregation had, and have, every reason to congratulate themselves on the wise choice they made.

THE LIVER DIET HELPS THE WHOLE BODY

It is now generally known that eating liver regulates the blood and greatly enriches them with iron. This condition, pernicious anaemia, which formerly was always fatal, can now be held in check by the great majority of cases just as can diabetes by the use of insulin. Further, just as insulin allows the patient to eat the ordinary amount of starch foods—potatoes, sugar, bread—so it has been found that no matter what other foods the pernicious anaemia patients eat or does not eat, the liver diet has this building up effect upon the blood.

Another valuable point is that it is not necessary to eat liver three times a day in amounts of one-quarter to half a pound at each meal, but if a little over a quarter pound 5 to 6 ounces—is eaten in the 24 hours, the results are just as satisfactory as when the amount is much larger.

Naturally as the blood improves so do other conditions in the body—the kidneys filter out wastes and preserve useful substances, and the intestine does not allow materials to be thrown out as wastes which are useful to the body when properly digested.

In some studies by Dr. S. I. Sherman, Leningrad, and his associates, it was found that after the use of liver for three months the fat that is digested 100 per cent, while its absorption amounts to 57 per cent as compared with 8 per cent before the liver diet was given.

Digestion and absorption of muscle tissue by liver has been improved in three months use of liver from 30 to 60 per cent. The blood itself was able to make more use of sugar throughout the body during the time that liver was being taken.

Another valuable help obtained from the liver was an improvement in the symptoms of spinal cord trouble—nervous reactions, halting or unsteady gait, lack of muscular control.

The thought then is that liver—calf's, pig's, cow's or beef's—is not only the condition of the blood but has a general helping effect upon the whole body.

And only a small quantity daily is necessary.

Trade And Commerce

(By Exporter) No one (possibly excepting the long King) will claim that the League of Nations is an institute of Conservatives with leanings towards Premier Bennett, or toward against Hon. Mackenzie King. The world at large, with above possible exception, will take their computers of trade and commerce as absolutely dependable.

They have a reliable Bureau of Statistics, impartial and non-political. This Bureau has recently issued a report of a careful study of incomes by trade figures which cannot be questioned, which has landed like a veritable bombshell into the camp of Mackenzie King and his leading lieutenants.

It is a complete answer to the Liberal's cry that the Bennett government is a "protectionist" and "filling and persistent attempt to befoul the splendid record of Canadian effort to defeat depression is a disgrace and a reproach to any party.

The report deals with the world's trade on the basis of percentage, and, although the gold dollar in its weight value (a disadvantage) is the monetary standard, Canada is the leader of the greater nations, in resisting the ravages of depression and maintaining first place position in foreign trade.

The force of this blow to Mackenzie King and his cohorts, who have so persistently tried to lead the people to believe that the Bennett policies have strangled and hampered the commerce, and particularly the foreign trade of Canada, is here set forth with a force that even the Liberal genius of sophistry will not be able to contradict.

If, as King has so often asserted, the tariff policies of Hon. R. B. Bennett has crippled Canada's trade, preventing interchange of commodities by restricting imports, how has this happened, that our exports exceed in percentage that of every major country in the world (except Japan), and that both our import and export combined have a better showing than the wealthiest foreign countries?

PUBLIC FORUM

This column is open for the discussion by correspondents of questions of interest. The Charlottetown Guardian does not necessarily endorse the opinions of correspondents.

THE MARKETING ACT

Sir,—The Marketing Act of the present government places the whole of its operation under control of those interested, producers and consumers. This is democratic. The people rule. Mr. King, so his organ declares, is going to take it out of their hands and put it under control of a bureaucratic parliament, of which he expects to be the "dictator." To make the same bungling thing else has laid hands on, would assuredly be jumping from the trying pan into the fire. I am, Sir, etc.

EMPTY PROPAGANDA

Sir,—The following amazing assertion appears in a Saturday editorial of the Liberal organ: "Bennett's blasting tariff policy and his restriction of imports have reduced internal as well as external trade and increased unemployment. Will the writer of this trade give facts and figures to disprove the following, which I can prove to be the truth:—Unemployment had decreased—increased (as stated). Bennett's blasting policy has enormously increased exports, but not decreased imports, except in unwanted farm products. It has stimulated both internal and external trade. Every bank and commercial report, every railway traffic report, every trade journal, every government publication, and every declaration of large business houses in Canada, confirm these facts. The Patriot alone offers its futile unsupported assertion to the contrary. I am, Sir, etc.

MIXED FARMING

Sir,—The tell-tale facts on the price and production of hogs, in Friday's Guardian, are worth looking into. If "Exporters' statements are correct, and they appear to be, farmers should give them careful study, and try to find out their value to him in dollars and cents in the sale of his produce.

Low prices of potatoes are making us get back to mixed farming, and how to mix with the most profit is something to work out. If we can feed our surplus potatoes to hogs, using all the small and poor grades, it will help our potato market in reducing supplies, and also in marketing a higher quality of potatoes. This will give us better prices for our potatoes, and very handsome returns for pork products at present paying prices.

There is too much of this plucking at the governments for putting a duty on hams and bacon. Where would we be if they had done it? How much would we be getting for our pork if Premier Bennett had allowed the United States to unload their surplus upon our markets? They couldn't send it to England for it won't sell there. If the tariff didn't shut them out, they would sell it to our lumber camps, our mines and our fishermen, where the Canadian farmer finds his best customers for the rougher kinds of pork.

If the United States had our hog markets they wouldn't have had to kill stock and reduce production to

A DOG AT SEA

Sir,—With reference to a report that I cruelly threw a dog overboard, the facts are: I left the dock at 4 p. m. Half way out of the harbour a dog was discovered on board the ship. The law prohibits dogs from or to the Island, and instructions were issued by the clerk of the Executive Council accordingly. Those instructions are carried out by me. In order not to take the question out of Charlottetown instructions were issued to put it overboard. After the ship passed Battery Point buoy, the dog was stopped and the dog passed over the stern of the ship, and it landed ashore on the west side of the harbour. I have read with interest the comment on the incident. On Thursday afternoon the same dog reappeared on the ship and apparently wanted a passage away. It would appear to me that the dog to the appalling figures of 66.9 per cent? The German export dropped 85.8 per cent; France 58.4; Italy 58.1; England 57.2, leaving Canada 49.9, the lowest and best record of them all. Isn't this food for thought? Doesn't it put the Mackenzie King blue rule propaganda out of commission? Where could we get a greater tribute to the administrative ability of the Canadian Premier than this, coming as it does from the highest and most accurate authority in the world? Instead of "restricting foreign trade" as the Liberal leader has so often dared to assert, it has actually been more successful than any other nation in holding our own in the trading fields of commerce.

Japan is slightly lower, with a 46.7 shrinkage. This is due to the lower rates of exchange and less cost of production, enabling it to undersell other countries and thus force her goods into markets which are ever buyers at starvation wage prices.

An important feature of Canada's success is in the fact that the export statistics are published in dollar values, which largely accounts for the diminished aggregate value of our exports. Measured by the quantity standard our showing would be vastly better. If we figure the price of wheat for instance, where we export hundreds of millions of bushels per year, at $1.10 per bushel in preceding years, as against 55c to 60c, the shrink in quantity has not diminished.

THE NATIONAL IMPORTANCE OF THIS INVALUABLE REPORT IS IN THE FACT THAT IT EFFICIENTLY AND FOREVER SILLS PAIGN OF MISREPRESENTATION OF TRADE RESULTING FROM THE PROSPERITY PRODUCING POLICIES OF THE CONSERVATIVE GOVERNMENT AT OTTAWA.

is not satisfied at home. I will not stop the dog from coming on board again, as I have several times already driven it away. The next time I will take him, land him on the mainland, and the owner can come and get his dog. If the party on board was so interested in the dog, why did they not answer the first officer when he asked among the passengers if any one knew about him? The party or person that wrote the letter from Pictou Lodge, which I was amused to read, did not care anything about the dog, only wanted to hear themselves talk. Well, we don't have to go to Detroit to hear people talk. I must say that the ship's crew are all civilized, and don't show any cruelty to any animal or person. I am, Sir, etc.

WHAT HAPPENED

Sir—"The Dictator" organ last Wednesday, in its cock-sure style, wrote:—"It is expected the present U. F. A. government will be defeated and that the Liberals will have the largest group, if not the government." "It will bring added benefit to Rt. Hon. Mr. King when he is called upon to lead a Liberal government at Ottawa, as he certainly will be in two months time."

Counting chickens, eh? But what happened? In a Liberal province, with 13 Liberals in the former legislature, elected by an almost two to one majority over six Conservatives, they were wiped out of the slate with only two of the unlucky thirteen elected.

Coming events cast their shadows before, and in the above forecast the Liberal organ had clearly foreshadowed the federal defeat of the party. Two Liberals were discovered in the cabinet, and the Liberal government at Ottawa, as he certainly will be in two months time."

stiffen up prices. It would then be the other way. Our farmers would kill hogs and stop raising more, because we couldn't compete with cheap corn fed pork. This pork production has been a big thing for the farmers of Canada and we should thank the wisdom of the Bennett Government which put those millions of dollars of hog money into our pockets.
