Stalin To Address Special Congress

(A. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) MOSCOW, Nov. 21—Joseph Stalin, perhaps the most reserved of present day dictators, will make his second public speech in history tomorrow at convocation of the eighth (special) All-Union Congress of Soviets.

The congress will meet in the huge Kremlin Palace to approve a new constitution promising greater privileges for the proletariat.

Stalin was the only speaker invited for the Congress opening to which diplomats and foreign journalists were invited. His speech will be broadcast. His first and only other formal speech to date was delivered in 1925 when the new Metro (subway) was opened—and that was an uncheduled appearance.

4th Ch'town Brownie Pack

The 4th Charlottetown Brownie Pack (St. Dunstan's Basilica) held a delightful little ceremony at their regular meeting on Friday, November 20th, at which four new Brownies were added to the Pack. The enrolment was taken by Miss Ina Gillan, Division Commissioner, who was a very welcome visitor to the meeting as well as five prospective Brownie Leaders of Charlottetown.

The Brownies enrolled were Lorraine McNeely, Mary MacPhee, Nora Pollard and Doris Clinton.

1st Melville Company

Girl Guides of the Melville Company observed Remembrance Day by attending the service at the Soldiers' Monument at Belfast. They also placed a wreath made by themselves on the monument. This is the second year that this Company has attended Remembrance Day observances at Belfast. They are to be highly commended for their wonderful Guide spirit shown in this way.

In order to raise funds for further Company equipment, the ladies of the Local Association of Melville recently served a delicious chicken supper at Mrs. Beaton's home.

Holy Redeemer Girl Guides

There was a perfect attendance at the Holy Redeemer Girl Guide meeting on Friday evening, November 13. Some of the Guides wore the new Company ties, which are very bright and gay and all the girls expect to wear them at the next meeting.

The four patrols put on a demonstration of uses for knots, which was very helpful to all, especially to the new recruits. The Patrol Leaders are doing splendid work with their new recruits and at the next meeting a number of them expect to pass the Tenderfoot tests. The meeting closed with singing and games around their new electric campfire and "Taps."

Trinity Girl Guides

The meeting held last Friday of the two Girl Guide Companies of Trinity United Church opened with a short "Guides' Own." Rev. Mr. MacKenzie and Mr. R. H. Rogers were present for a short time and spoke to the girls, welcoming them as a church organization.

Both Companies are making good progress with the Tenderfoot tests and are looking forward to the first enrolment of recruits in a few weeks' time. The Florence Nightingale Company looked very smart in their new ties last Friday.

The girls in the Laura Secord Company have now definitely decided upon the colours yellow and green for their ties, which they will wear for the first time at the next meeting.

It is planned to hold a Court of Honour after the regular meeting next Friday. Remember, meetings start at 6.30. Please be prompt.

LABOR DELEGATE GIVES VIEW ON RAILWAY ISSUE

MONTREAL, Nov. 24.—(CP)—United States citizens employed on Canadian Railways operated in the United States were paid full union wages but the companies refused to accord the same concession to Canadian employees working in Canada. Howard B. Chase, Labor representative, declared before the Railway Conciliation Board here today.

The employees seek restoration of a 10 per cent wage deduction agreed to in 1921. A Federal Department of Labor Commission under Mr. Justice A. K. Maclean is hearing the litigation.

Chase intimated before the board the employees would call a strike vote if necessary.

He revealed that some 100,000 Canadian railway employees affected by the cut contributed over $30,000 to the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways since the cut became effective 1931.

Major part of today's hearing was occupied by Chase citing decisions of United States arbitration boards in which it was held "the ability-to-pay" was not a determining factor of such disputes.

Mr. Justice Maclean interrupted Chase's argument on the point that "ability to pay" was not a determining factor in the dispute. "Everybody knows the first charge which must be met by a manufacturer is wages, but the point to determine is the scale to be established," said the chairman.

It is not expected the hearing will be concluded this week, but will be adjourned on Saturday to a later date.

The hearing is continuing tomorrow.

"AN OLD DISH OF HASH"

Sir—Last winter there was quite an agitation all over the Island in regard to the proposed Brighton-Rocky Point bridges. Many meetings were held through the country and resolutions drawn up which were later presented to the Board of Trade at a special meeting held in their rooms in Charlottetown, at which later on presented them to the special meeting of the Government at that time. I attended as a delegate. Little encouragement was given us by our Premier, mostly on account of the lack of money, and especially with having a plank in their platform of economy and balanced budget. One of the worst planks ever put into any political platform, because they knew it could not be done but merely used it as a vote catcher. However, at that meeting our Premier did promise to have a survey made and give the people an estimate of the cost of these bridges, but to date this has not been done, although I have taken this matter up with the Premier and heads of the Public Works Department several times. All the answer I would get was that old dish of hash, a survey will be made in a few weeks, and now winter is here again and yet no survey, and no attempt has been made to have one. Now that the farmers are about over their rut season they have time to sit back and think over these promises given them last winter, and are looking over the record of our present government and trying to figure out what they have done in the last year, and what they intend to do in the next few years of their administration. People are getting wise over these promises and their eyes are open wide enough to see that they are getting nowhere on government promises, and are now calling for a show down.

I read an article in the Patriot sent in by Mr. Adam Andrew, now living in San Francisco, who gives a vivid description of that wonderful bridge built from San Francisco to Oakland, a distance of eight and a quarter miles long. When this bridge was talked of a few years ago the government said it could not be done, and even if it could they did not have the money. But the people of California didn't fall for that blarney, they wanted the bridge, money or no money, and today the bridge is there, and although it cost $77,200,000, it will pay this back in a short time in tolls from the travelling public. Mr. Andrew says patience and time will bring us these Brighton-Rocky Point bridges, but Mr. Andrew, remember this is not a matter of money, and where time means nothing and not a few years. These bridge projects have been talked about for the past fifty years, yet we have reached no further than the talking point and never will unless the people here wake up, and I believe they are waking up, and are going to demand that our government representatives give us something more than promises, for we are getting nowhere on promises and instead of progressing with the rest of the world we are slowly but surely going behind. So let us snap out of our dreams before it is too late and pinches so hard they will wake up also. We can get the money, no question about that, and all we need is the nerve and brains, and surely we can find that on this little Island, so let your motto be: WE WANT WORK.

I will give you some more of our government promises in my next letter.

I am, Sir, etc.,

CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

you recall August of last year? Do you remember the thirty burning lights whose pathetic appeals to the people to save the country from the grip of the rum traffic, whose picture of mothers in distress, and homes in penury and starvation, would melt the heart of a flint rock and bring scalding tears to an iceberg? How each of the thirty with bleeding hearts, and souls in burning flames, aroused our pity and fired us into revolt against the shadowy evils conjured up in their eloquence.

Above all have we forgotten that those men, pledging their faith and honor before high Heaven that if we gave them our mandate they would end this reign of Apollyon and supplant him with a purified Prince of Temperance and sobriety, pillared by a 100% enforcement.

When the Legislature was called in special session to wipe out Prohibition, that whole thirty were present, not dead but with a single exception, sleeping. And this one exception, a life long prominent member of the Sons of Temperance, succumbed to the wand of the temper and allowed the fatal vote to go unanimously.

Great is the political Diana, supreme the power of the rum traffic when with a flash from its eye and a breath from its tongue it can put into a sleeping trance thirty flaming brands of temperance fury, and under that hypnotic spell to reestablish the grog shop to its present flourishing state.

As I say,—They are not dead but sleeping; and when the next election contest is again in foresight, we will find there some somnolent ones kneeling at the penitent bench, heralding a change of heart and with words of fire pledging themselves anew and pleading for just another chance to make our island a real paradise of sobriety.

"Once bitten; twice shy" is an old axiom. In former years the shores of our Province were pictured in beautiful landscape to the tourist world. How different the press pictures of today as they are transformed into the fishing places for dead bodies, a fruit of the liquor traffic, of our highway's with its mangled dead and broken bones and bleeding flesh, the only fruits of the promises of little more than a year ago? Will those who have had so grievously suffered, who have been criss so severely "bitten" stand 'shy' of the seductive pleadings of the awakened sleepers, when they again ask for a mandate to continue this onslaught upon safety and human life?

Before these temperance reformers' charge there would be an occasional drunk, in him often a "repeater." Now under the perfect enforcement they figure in our courts in formidable, in tallments, and even then not all topped in because of insufficient police to gather the whole crowd. If all could be housed in the station in time, there would be less of those gruesome spectacles of floating dead in the City docks.

When scripts were limited 50 per cent there was an outcry that so many were needed for medicinal purposes, the only use authorized by the Prohibition Act. Increased to 65 for beer, in an admitted inducement to encourage "drinking" of more beer and less spirits, is an open flagrant violation of the Act. It is not for a lawyer to prescribe for a patient, and if a disease demands spirits or alcohol, it is not indicated.

It therefore just as advertised, an innovation introducing the drinking and beverage habit in flagrant and direct violation of the very principles of the Prohibition Act.

land farmers, and is financed by the local government, consequently there cannot be a monopoly without the local government being aware of it. In my opinion, we should have no monopolies on Prince Edward Island. We would all get along better if we dealt frankly and honestly with one another, but apparently we are not willing to do that. We have never done it and we may never do it, and no class of our people is more blameworthy than another in this respect. Should we make an effort to stop this bad business, even at this late date? I think so. If we agree on that, the first step would be to probe the present apparent monopoly to the bottom, and the men to do that would be the Minister of Agriculture and the President of the Council, Mr. LePage. They are both capable men. The Minister of Agriculture knows, or should know, everything connected with his department. The President of the Council, being not only a member of the government, but a director of one of the organizations above mentioned, must know not only what his organization is doing, but what the government wishes it to do. He who holds the purse strings and pays the bills, or guarantees their payment, is in a position to call the tape. The Charlottetown Board of Trade might take a hand in the investigation. It has taken part in less important things; because if there is a monopoly in turnips, there may be monopolies in other agricultural products as well. And the Federal members, through whose instrumentality, I presume, the subsidy for the "Northland" was obtained, have a duty to perform. They should see that the said subsidy inures to the benefit of all the

INVESTIGATE TURNIP PRICES

Sir—The editorial in the Guardian a few days ago on the turnip question was timely and to the point. The price of turnips is very low on Prince Edward Island this year, much lower than in former years. In former years there was a good crop in Ontario and the United States. This year the crop in Ontario and the United States is short. In addition to that, the Federal government subsidized the steamer "Northland" to run between Charlottetown and Boston this year, and she carries turnips at a lower rate of freight than was charged in other years. But notwithstanding all these things, which should make the price here higher than usual, it is much lower. There must be an explanation. What is it? The price is said to be high in Boston and New York.

There are three organizations on the Island which are practically handling all the turnips from here this year. It is said that they have engaged all the space on the "Northland" for the season, and no other shipper can get any space. This looks like a monopoly. One of these organizations is composed of business men entirely, and has its head office in Ontario; another is also composed of Island business men and has its headquarters in Charlottetown; the third also has its headquarters in Charlottetown, is composed almost entirely of Is-people, and not to the benefit of a few of the people. Whichever way you look at it, the whole subject not only cries aloud, but screams for a thorough investigation, let the chips fall where they may.
