

THOUSANDS OF FAMILIES HAVE PROVEN IT!

If you want to know how Canada is combating one of its greatest burdens — constipation due to lack of "bulk" in the diet — talk to any of the thousands of families who eat crisp, crunchy KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. They can tell you from their experience how this pleasant ready-to-eat cereal does the trick. And here is the reason:

Years ago, when women skiing was a novelty, W. K. Kellogg began one of the most comprehensive studies of constipation ever made. Eminent nutritionists and the medical staffs of famous universities have checked and re-checked ALL-BRAN'S ability to solve the problem of constipation due to lack of "bulk." Their verdict, like that of the thousands who have used ALL-BRAN over the last 15 years, is: a tried and proven way to combat constipation due to lack of "bulk."

Ask your grocer. If you, too, suffer from this common type of constipation, don't let it drag you down any more! Ask your grocer tomorrow for KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. You'll really enjoy this crunchy nut-sweet cereal. Eat it regularly with milk or cream, and drink plenty of water. Look for the red Kellogg signature on the package. In two convenient sizes at all grocers. ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg's in London, Ontario.

New War Revived Clamor In India About Home Rule

STORM OVER VICEROY'S WHITE PAPER ON CONGRESS PARTY'S DEMANDS BRINGS MANY POWERFUL ELEMENTS INTO DISCUSSION.

By FRED BACKHOUSE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 28—(CP)—Two figures stand out in the present Indian crisis which, morally, politically and economically, may be one of the gravest the British Empire has ever had to face. They are the almost incredible, wizened little mystic, Mohandas K. Gandhi, leader of the power-Victor Alexander John Hope, second Marquess of Linlithgow and eighth earl of Hopetoun, Viceroy of India.

There is no enmity between the tall and charming Scottish aristocrat and the 70-year-old vegetarian ascetic who became almost a god to his countrymen. Their interviews are said to be very friendly. They will play the principal roles in the solution of the latest tangle in the world's most complicated piece of political knitting involving the lives of India's 340,000,000 people.

On Oct. 17, the Viceroy of India issued a statement giving the results of his discussions with the leader of India's opinion and instantly the placid surface of Indian politics was ruffled revealing all manner of treacherous whirlpools. Expressed in terms approaching over-simplification the background is this: As the noise of the outbreak of the war against Hitlerism shook the world there arose simultaneously the clamor of millions of Indians for a full measure of self-government and a home-made constitution.

The Indian Princes, always loyal to the King-Emperor, hereditary rulers of about one-fourth of the total population of India, promptly offered help in men and money. Congress Party Strong

In the remaining three-fourths of India, ruled by the Indian government, there is the powerful Indian National Congress. Most highly-organized political party in India, it controls the ministries in eight out of the 11 provinces into which India is divided. Its avowed aim is independence for India. The Congress Party made quite clear its antipathy to Hitler. But at the same time it attacked the British government on the matter of Dominion status and said: "If war is to defend the status quo of imperial possessions of colonies, of vested interests and privileges, then India can have nothing to do with it..." It demanded an assurance that after the war India should have a full measure of self-government on a democratic basis, before it would co-operate.

The country watched a long procession of political leaders file to Government House, including Gandhi and Hurazzeb Khan, a leader of the rival Moslem League, representing 90,000,000 Moslems. Telegrams poured into Lord Linlithgow's office from the Liberal, the Labor Party, the Depressed Classes, the Swarajya Party, denouncing the Congress demands as "totalitarian."

The storm broke when the government issued as a White Paper the vital statement of the result of Linlithgow's discussions. Congress's aspirations were dealt a heavy blow. The substance of the statement was a reiteration of former promises and the proposal to form a wartime consultative group, under Linlithgow's chairmanship, of the larger parties and Indian states, to aid India's war effort.

Gandhi said: "Congress is asking for bread has got a stone."

Raises London Storm
Back in London, Liberal and Labor forces rallied for a stand against the white paper. It was roundly denounced in their press as "unimaginative," "mischievous," and "quibbling." On the other hand The Times, close to the government, said, in recording the statements of the Congress opponents: "To fight for democracy abroad and to insist that the Congress Party alone shall represent India, is, they say, a contradiction in terms. In these circumstances it is clear that nothing whatever could have been gained by accepting the Congress Party's almost totalitarian claims."

The Congress Working Committee passed a resolution calling on the eight Congress ministries to tender their resignations. In Delhi and in India government circles here this drastic step was "deeply regretted" and, it was averred, Congress had misconceived the intention of the Viceroy's statement.

The government's view was echoed in the House of Commons by Lord Hailey, one of the greatest experts on India, who said, in effect: "It is up to the Congress to interpret its case more fully to make its own contribution to the constitutional difficulties facing India. We ourselves are bound to respect the position of the Indian States and of the great minority communities in British India."
