Jeweler,

Boils were so painful could not sleep at night.

APPEARED ON NECK, LEGS AND ARMS.

It is well-known to all that bad blood is the direct cause of all skin diseases and it is necessary for the blood to be cleansed before the eruptions will disappear. For this purpose there is nothing to equal Burdock Blood Bitters as the thousands of testimonials we have on hand will testify.

Mr. Willard Thompson, McNeill's Mills, P.E.I., writes us as follows: "I wish to state to you what Burdock Blood Bitters has done for me. Some time ago my blood got out of order and many boils appeared on my neck, legs and arms. They were so painful that I could not sleep at night. After having tried many different remedies without any success, I finally decided, on the advice of a friend, to use Burdock Blood Bitters. Before I had quite used two bottles the boils had completely disappeared, and I wish to emphasize the fact that I think Burdock Blood Bitters the best blood purifier on the market to-day."

CARD

At the solicitation of a large number of Electors of Ward Four I have consented to contest the ward at the forth coming election Upon the important question, (Electric lighting) which engages the attention of a large portion of the citizens, I deem it necessary to state my views, I am in favor of City Ownership and supplying light at cost, as it is with the sewerage and water at present.

I elected I will always use my influence toward the improvement of the City and the condition of the citizens generally and especially those of Ward Four. As my time is limited and I may not be able to make a personal canvass, I take this means of stating my views and asking your support.

I am always as I will be if elected your humble servant.

GREAT CONVENIENCE.

Nothing Like a Telephone In the House to Benefit Your Neighbors.

"Yes," he said to the friend who was enjoying a cigar with him in the library, "I've had a telephone put in."

"It's a great convenience, isn't it?"

"Oh, a very great convenience!"

Just then the telephone bell rang, and he went to see what was wanted. Presently his head appeared in the library doorway.

"Excuse me a moment," he said. "I've got to run next door and tell Mrs. Brown that some one wants to speak to her. In her pride over the possession of a telephone my wife foolishly told the Browns to use it whenever they wished, and they've told all their friends."

He came back with Mrs. Brown, who devoted several minutes to telling some one at the other end of the line that she was "so sorry baby had a cough."

"Nevertheless," he said when Mrs. Brown had departed, "it is a great convenience. Pardon me! There it goes again."

A minute or two later he glanced into the room again to say: "Got to run over and tell Mrs. Jones that her husband can't get home to dinner. Be right back."

He came back accompanied by a man who wanted to call up somebody at the club to tell him he couldn't be over that evening.

"Say," said the man when he was through, "my friend isn't there yet, but I left a message for him. If he calls up later will you be good enough to run over and let me know what he says?"

"Sure."

Just then a child appeared at the door with a piece of paper in her hand.

"Mamma's dressing to go out and can't come herself," he explained, "so she wanted to know if you wouldn't please call up Jensen's grocery and tell them to send up the things on this list the first thing in the morning."

When this was done the host made himself comfortable in the library again.

"As I was saying," he remarked, "the telephone is a great convenience—for the neighbors."—Brooklyn Eagle.

He Appreciated.

A new picture of some old ruins had been hung on the wall recently.

Jonathan—What is that picture, mamma?

Delighted Mamma (to herself)—Children see and appreciate more than we think they do. I will tell Jonathan all about the picture. (Aloud.) That is a picture of some old ruins in Greece. The figures holding up the roof are carved out of stone and are considered very beautiful—

Jonathan (thinking deeply, with a faraway look in his eyes)—Mm! What was the grease for?—Brooklyn Life.

Ambiguous.

Among a number of notes received by a teacher in excuse for the absence of children was the following:

"Dear Teacher—Kindly excuse Minnie for having been absent yesterday, as she fell in the mud on her way to school. By doing the same you will oblige her mother."—New York Times.

Not a Leader.

"Do you think your friend would lend himself to a shady political transaction?"

"No," answered Senator Sorghum. "He might lease himself or rent himself or sell himself outright, but he wouldn't stand any friendly borrowing."—Washington Star.

A Damper to Genius.

"Alas!" exclaimed the despairing poet. "For three hours I have sat here, but haven't written a line!"

"I'm sorry for you, dear," said his wife, "but what you need is exercise. Come and help me with the week's washing."—Atlanta Constitution.

Flattery.

Nell—I consider that he paid a flattering compliment to my good sense.

Belle—In what way?

Nell—He didn't attempt to say anything flattering to me.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Quite True.

"D'youse believe dat he who hesitates is lost?"

"Yep, if he hesitates in front of a automobile."—San Francisco Examiner.

Behind the Scenes.

"Help! Help! The prompter has killed the leading woman."

"What did she do to him?"

"She called him a stagecoach."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

REAL IRISH BULLS

Some That Have Caused Laughter and Have Become Historical.

Fancy three English or Scotch members in a single sitting of the House of Commons making three such bulls as three Irish members in the Irish House of Commons made in the same debate, says Rashe King in M. A. P. In this debate on the leather tax in 1795, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir John Plunkett, emphatically contended that "every man ought to give his last guinea to protect the remainder." "But this tax on leather," objected Mr. Vandeleur, "will be severely felt by the bare-footed peasantry of Ireland." An objection which Sir Boyle Roche met by the suggestion, "that there was nothing to prevent the bare-footed peasantry making the under-leathers of wood, as was done in Lancashire."

Those bulls haven't a genuine ring, though I suppose they are historical. They are not racy like the bulls of the people—like the bull, e. g., of that Dublin carman, who, in answer to the English tourist's question, "Who lives there, my man?" replied, "Misther O'Hara, sor, but he's dead." "Has he been long dead?" "Begor, sir, if he lived till to-morrow, he'd be dead three weeks." Or that supreme bull recorded by Miss Edgworth, made by the Irish sailor, who was carrying the body of an English messmate at the battle of Trafalgar. He was carrying the Englishman, who had been severely wounded in the leg, down to the cockpit, when a cannon-ball took off the head of the wounded man so neatly that his bearer did not know what had happened. Presently an officer, seeing the Irishman carrying a headless trunk, cried with a volley of curses, "Where are you taking that to?" "Sure, I was takin' him down to the cockpit, sor, to have his wound looked afther." "Why, his head's off, you infernal idiot!" Paddy threw down the headless body, looked at it in speechless reproach for a moment, and then said sadly, "An, he tould me 'twas his leg!"

Watery Blood, Declining Health

Strength and Vigor Can Only be Maintained by Means of Pure, Rich Blood.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

For many generations doctors have realized the importance of the blood as the source of life and health, but it is only in more modern times that science has discovered the best means of forming new blood and so rebuilding the wasted tissues.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the result of careful study of this problem, and has proven by far the most successful method of restoring weak, watery blood to a healthy condition.

Anaemia, chlorosis, nervous exhaustion and prostration and each and every disorder which arises from insufficiency in the quality or quantity of the blood are readily cured by the regular and persistent use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

By noting your increase in weight while using this great food cure you can prove beyond dispute that new, firm flesh and tissue are being added.

Mrs. Sarah Gill, 254 Euston Street, Charlottetown, P. E. I. states—As a natural consequence of increasing age I was beginning to feel run down and felt that I needed something to tone up my system. I procured a box of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and can say that I found it a most excellent medicine. I have used several of Dr. Chase's preparations and always found them very beneficial. I consider Dr. Chase's Nerve Food the best Nerve and general tonic I have ever used.

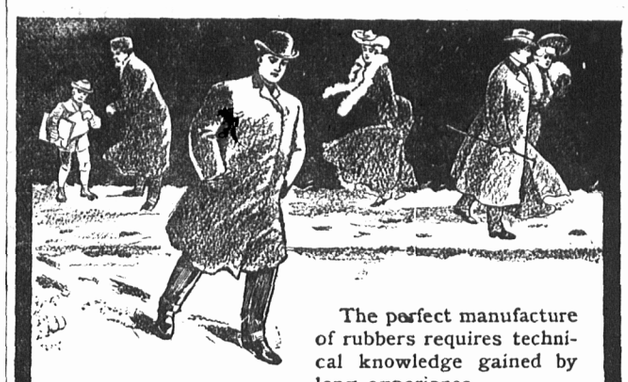
Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.

A CANADIAN NAVAL RESERVE.

OTTAWA, Jan. 15.—Captain Spain, R. N., commander of the fisheries protection fleet, and Captain Salmon, of the board of examiners of masters and mates are at work on a scheme for the creation of a naval reserve in Canada. Mr. Prefontaine will present the bill to parliament at the coming session.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY.

This preparation is intended especially for coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough and influenza. It has become famous for its cures of these diseases over a large part of the civilized world. The most flattering testimonials have been received giving accounts of its good works; of the aggravating and persistent coughs it has cured; of severe colds that have yielded promptly to its soothing effects, and of the dangerous attacks of croup it has cured, often saving the life of the child. The extensive use of it for whooping cough, has shown that it robs that disease of all danger to the victim. It is especially prized by mothers because it contains nothing injurious and there is not the least danger in giving it even to babies. It always cures and cures quickly. Sold by all druggists.



The perfect manufacture of rubbers requires technical knowledge gained by long experience.

The Canadian Rubber Co.'s process is expensive and the rubbers cost more to make than any other brand.

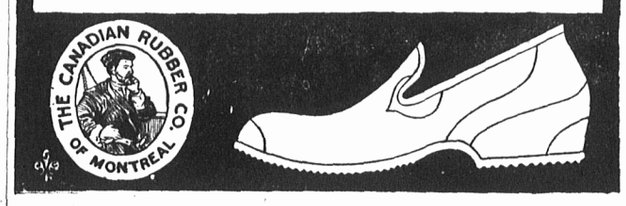
The experience of half a century has been required to bring them to the present state of perfection.

Fifty years ago five hundred pairs a day were made, now our output is ten thousand pairs a day.

This has been a continual steady growth built on merit.

Look for the trademark. No other rubber so good.

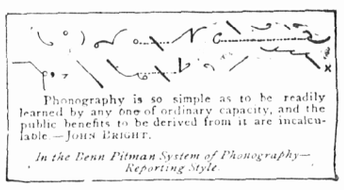
THEY FIT LIKE GLOVES. 2t2



INTRODUCTION

LIFE · BUSINESS EDUCATION

What is Life without a Business Education?



Phonography is so simple as to be readily learned by any one of ordinary capacity, and the public benefits to be derived from it are incalculable.—JOHN BRIGHT.

In the Benn Pitman System of Phonography—Reporting Style.

The spacious rooms furnished by the Charlottetown Business College for Shorthand and Typewriting under the Principalship of J. O Trainor, are models in themselves for the study of these important subjects. While Mr. Trainor is a new teacher to a Charlottetown class yet, he has already proven what the Phonographic Institute recommended him to be "a competent teacher of Phonography." For further recommendation or introduction ask ANY member of his class. Here, the Benn Pitman system is taught from the Pitman-Howard text-books, consequently the students, find no difficulty in reading their notes.

NOW is a good time to join the classes,
