TWO SCHOOLS OF THOUGHT

There are two widely divided schools of thought on the subject of preemptive bidding. One school holds that an opening shutout bid must be based on an extremely weak hand insofar as honor-tricks are concerned; the other school believes that it is not only proper, but often vital to make a shutout bid with a long solid suit, including the A-K-Q.

It is perfectly true that the issue cannot be settled by citing example deals, but the Culbertson system's preference for the stronger type of preempt is based on such a typical deal as the following:

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| | ♠ Q 10 8♥ 8 3♦ Q J 9 5♣ J 10 6 4 | |
| ♠ A K 63 2♥ J 5 4♦ 8 3♣ A 7 2 | NW ES | ♠ J 7 5 4♥ 10♦ A K 64 2♣ K 9 3 |
| | ♠ 9♥ A K Q 9 7 6 2♦ 10 7♣ Q 8 5 | |

According to the school of thought first mentioned above, South's hand is too strong for an opening three-heart bid, even vulnerable. Consequently, the disciples of this school must open with one heart since the hand is patently too good to pass. Thereupon, West naturally overcalls with one spade, and nothing can keep the East-West pair out of four spades, which proves to be a laydown.

When, however, South is of the other school and opens the bidding with three hearts, West must be brave and brash indeed to "open his mouth", and when North properly passes, East is in no better position than his partner. Thus, South plays three hearts and goes down only one trick for an excellent score.

The objection raised by some authorities to this type of preemptive bidding is based on their contention (which happens to be largely true) that slams are missed because of the rounds of bidding lost to the partnership. Admitting for the sake of argument, that this is a fact, it still seems more important to make things as difficult as possible for opponents who may have the better cards!
