THE MORNING GUARDIAN

MONDAY, SEPT. 9, 1900.

The Manchu Prince Tuan, who has lately blazed on the world like a fiery portent of blood and war, is the grandson of the Emperor Taoukwang, who died in 1850, and the nephew of the Emperor Hienfung, who died in 1861. During the war with Japan, Prince Tuan was given a post on the Board of Control of the Pekin field force, and after some months he was entrusted with the command in chief of that corps. In May, 1898, Prince Tuan and his close ally and confederate, Kang Yi, were specially praised and rewarded by the Empress-Dowager for the discipline and good conduct of the Pekin field force. The significance of this praise was revealed a few months later, during the coup d'etat, and for his share in that event the Empress-dowager increased Tuan's allowance by 500 taels, and gave him the supreme command of the banner army. The selection of his son, a youth of fourteen, to be the next Emperor, was still stronger proof of his influence and close alliance with the Empress-dowager. It was after this event that he began to enter into relations with the disaffected in Shantung, with the express purpose of turning their resentment from the dynasty towards the foreigners, and he became President of the Society of the Big Sword, out of which emerged the Boxers. He completely won over Nui, the chief of the Boxers, of whom so little is known, although he is prime director of the present movement.—Contemporary Review.

The 16 inch breach-loading rifle built at the Watervliet arsenal, will be, it is said, when mounted in New York harbor, the most powerful piece of ordnance in existence. This gun will throw a projectile weighing 2,370 pounds, with a muzzle velocity of 2,300 feet per second, a distance of 20,76 miles, and will have a total muzzle energy of 88,000 foot tons. The projectile will have a length of 64 inches and require a powder charge of 1,060 pounds, a pressure of 36,000 pounds to the square inch being developed at the time of discharge, and the cost of firing one round will be $865. The gun proper is built up of some eleven hollow cylinders, which includes a tube, jacket, and nine hoops. The total weight of the gun is 126 tons, its length 49 feet 6 inches, breech diameter 5 feet, muzzle diameter 28 inches. The weight of one set of the oil-tempered steel forgings, as received from the Bethlehem Steel Company, was 358,000 pounds. The finished work was 282,000 pounds, 76,000 pounds being removed during the process of manufacture.

In referring to the use of the wealth of the Vanderbilt family the New York World says:—

The Vanderbilt millions are again enlisted in the interest of science. Young George W., of Biltmore, has supplied the funds for an expedition to Java in search of the pithecanthropus, or missing link between man and the lower animals. The great Prof. Haeckel, of Jena University, whose book on "The Origin of Man" stands at the head of all biological work since Darwin, is also bent upon the same quest. He will sail for Java on Oct. 1st, but the Yale University expedition that Mr. Vanderbilt has commissioned will reach the pithecanthropus hunting-ground before him and hopes to bring back the game. This will not be the first debt of the American people to the Vanderbilt family. The bringing of Cleopatra's Needle from Alexandria to New York is due to the liberality of the late William H. Vanderbilt, father of George W., and the late Cornelius Vanderbilt enriched the Metropolitan Museum with several of its greatest art treasures.

American citizens say that no one was at fault for running the Oregan ashore. The shore simply got in the way.

Greater New York is rejoicing in a population of four millions. It may be as hard to earn a living there as in a village of four hundred, but the admiration of magnitude is universal.—Boston Herald.

The "little Jap" who fired the mine at Tien Tsin with a match, knowing that it meant death to him, deserved at least to have his name mentioned. Men and women have been canonized for less.—N. Y. World.

Roosevelt says that a ton of oratory is not worth an ounce of common sense. It would be perfectly in order for Canadian electors to ask if the leaders of both parties are combining the two features in the present campaign.

An exchange commenting upon the sentence of an American deserter who served with the Filipinos says he was sentenced to 99 years imprisonment. The court-martial evidently was determined that he should not be discharged in time to again take part in the war.

The women of the Universe are fast filling and maintaining prominent positions. The head of the postal department at Gibraltar is a woman, who has occupied the position for 10 years. She receives a salary of $2750 per annum, being the highest paid woman in the English post-office service.

Several attempts have been made discard the guillotine. Late advices say that the French Government is considering a new form of electrical execution. By the new method the head of the criminal is enclosed in a helmet somewhat similar to that used by a diver. When the executioner turns on the current two needles penetrate the temples and enter the brain. A powerful alternating current ruptures and destroys the brain cells so quickly that death is instantaneous.

When The Boys Come Back

We have already had the return of some of our soldiers who, in consequence of wounds or illness were sent home in advance. Soon, now, the rest of our gallant fellows will be back. There is no doubt they will receive a right royal welcome—a welcome full of genuine enthusiasm, from one end of Canada to the other. When the torchlight procession is over, the last strains of martial music died away and the cheering done, what is going to happen to the soldiers? They will be home again, released from active duty, but what next? Some of them probably have been fortunate enough to know just where they are going, have their old situations still open for them. In many cases, however, the return of our soldier boys means that a large number of unemployed men will be seeking situations. They should not have to seek long. In Toronto an organization is being formed to secure employment for the men when they return. The Patriotic Fund Committee in Montreal are taking the matter in hand, and it would be well for those who will have probable vacant situations to bear in mind the returning boys who have been away "wiping something off the slate." It is the first time Canada has sent her volunteers to fight for the Empire abroad. Let not those who bravely upheld the honour of our country in the eyes of the world, and helped to defend the grand old flag, feel sorry that they went only when they return and try to gather up the threads of life again.—Montreal Star.

TWENTY YEARS STANDING.

Trouble of a Norwich Farmer who was Relieved by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

NORWICH, Sept. 10.—For twenty years Mr. Wilbert Woodward, of Willow Dell, has suffered with backache. He grew so bad that he was confined to his bed two days out of a week. His farm suffered for the lack of the eye of its master, and Mr. Woodward made every effort to find a cure for his trouble.

He says "I tried everything I ever heard of, but no cure. Last fall I heard about Dodd's Kidney Pills, and I bought three boxes of them from Mr. Bannon, of Norwich, and I am happy to say they have done me more good than all the other medicines put together that I got from the doctor. My wife takes Dodd's Kidney Pills also, for lame back and rheumatism and finds them grand. I hope any persons suffering as we did will try these remedies. I would willingly pay two dollars a box rather than be without Dodd's Kidney Pills in the house."
