HOT WATER BOTTLE CARE

Never use hot water for washing rubber hot-water bottles, as this is very harmful to them. The temperature of the water should not be any hotter than you can bear the tips of your fingers in without discomfort. A few drops of ammonia added to the water will keep the rubber soft and also prevent it cracking. When a stone hot-water bottle becomes cracked fill with sand and heat in a slow oven. The bottle will then keep at a comfortable temperature for eight hours. When filling a hot-water bottle care should be taken that the water is not too hot. Allow some of the steam to escape before screwing on the stopper. A rubber hot-water bottle should never be put away with the sides resting against each other. Blow a little air into the bottle and screw the stopper on quickly. When using a hot-water bottle to air or warm a bed, place it upright between the sheets. This allows the heat to spread. It is a mistake to fill a hot-water bottle right up to the neck.

Elephants in Circus Battle

Elephants won a battle between a crowd of young men and employes of Duffy's Circus at Bellefild, Irish Free State, recently. The youths attacked the tents, at midnight and the circus horses were stampeded. Government civic guards were called but the youths were winning when the circus proprietor led two of his performing elephants in a sally through an adjoining street. He surprised the attackers, who fired several persons were injured in the battle.

IN MEMORIAM

MR. RODERICK MCLEOD

In the early evening hours of Thursday, Aug. 13, Mr. Roderick McLeod, a very highly esteemed resident of Brookfield passed peacefully away at the age of 67 years. The deceased had not been in a good condition of health for over two years but up until a few days before the coming of the end he was able to move around and to take an interest in the affairs of the home. At times he suffered great distress from shortness of breath and a smothering sensation about the heart and it was evident that this organ was not doing its work properly. These attacks were gradually growing worse and were becoming more frequent. On the afternoon of the above mentioned date he was seized with a very violent attack and suffered intense agony until in the early evening the heart gave out and his soul winged its homeward flight.

Mr. McLeod was one of a family of two brothers and four sisters. His other brother was Charles McLeod, Glasgow Road, who predeceased him by nine and a half years and his sisters were Mrs. Francis Morgan and Miss Katie McLeod, both of whom survive their brother and Miss Christine McLeod and Miss Annie McLeod, both of whom passed away some years ago.

The deceased was twice married and had a family by each marriage. In the first family there was one son and one daughter, and in the second family there were four sons and three daughters. The second Mrs. McLeod survives her husband.

Besides a sorrowing widow, Mr. McLeod leaves to mourn his loss of a kind and loving father, five sons and three daughters. The sons are: George Miller McLeod, Dorchester, Mass.; John McLeod, Outlook, Sask. Borden McLeod, Lloyd McLeod, and Arthur McLeod at home and the sisters are: Mrs. Hilda McLeod, Dorchester, Mass.; and Mrs. Daniel Hickox, Hunter River, and Mrs. Ernest White, Charlottetown.

Another daughter, Miss Margaret McLeod, passed away in 1912 at the age of twenty five, all who remain are feeling very keenly the loss of their father.

Mr. McLeod was a man who was quite widely and favorably known. In his home all who came found a hearty welcome and no one needing aid ever called upon him in vain. He was very fond of company and was always at his best when entertaining his friends, and seeking to make life pleasant for them.

He took a deep interest in all of the affairs of the community and will be much missed in the different services of life. But while many will miss him in the outside world it is in his own home that his loss will be felt more keenly. His family "Abide with me," "A few more was very dear to him and he to them. All through life he tried hard to build up for them a comfortable home. Quite a large part of his fine farm was sold forest when he came to Brookfield to live. He single handed and alone went to work and never gave up until it was all cleared and ready for cultivation. But just when he was in a position to enjoy his beautiful home he was called away.

In his home he was a favorite with all and his place can never be filled. His loved ones will often "Sigh for the touch of a vanished hand and long for the sound of a voice that is still"—but that hand will not come back and his voice will never more be heard upon this earth.

For some time beforehand he spoke calmly and quietly about the coming of the end. It was no fear for him. He knew "in whom we had believed and he was persuaded that He was able to keep what had been committed to His trust against that day." The end was peaceful.

The funeral which was a very large one was held on the afternoon of Saturday, Aug. 15th. The service was conducted by Mr. John Fieck. Mr. Oliver Nugent and Rev. W. J. McLeod, and was a very impressive one. The hymns sung were "Abide with me," "A few more years shall roll" and "Rock of Ages." The floral tributes were beautiful and consisted of a wreath from home. Quite a large part of his fine farm was sold forest when he came to Brookfield to live. He single handed and alone went to work and never gave up until it was all cleared and ready for cultivation. But just when he was in a position to enjoy his beautiful home he was called away.

The pall bearers were: Messrs Fred Dolron, Lemuel McLean, Archibald Johnston, Walter McLeod, Wilfred Wood, and Ambrose Senter.

Interment was in the Presbyterian Cemetery at Brookfield.

MR. ALFRED A. KENNEDY

The death occurred in the Prince Edward Island Hospital on Monday after a three weeks illness of Mr. Alfred A. Kennedy, aged 58 years. Mr. Kennedy, who was employed in Mr. Neil MacKenzie's tailoring establishment, was born at Brackley Point and was the son of the late Duncan Kennedy, at one time keeper of the Provincial Building. Mr. Kennedy was a faithful and capable worker at his trade and was a man of fine character whose gentility and kindness made him many warm friends.

He was unmarried and is survived by three brothers: Donald, with Bruce Stewart Limited, Charlottetown, Joseph in Halifax and John in British Columbia.

He was laid to rest yesterday afternoon in the People's Cemetery.

STRATHCONA INSTITUTE

The September meeting of the Strathcona Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Wallace Taylor. The President and Secretary being absent, the Vice President, Mrs. Alex Buchanan presided and Miss Elsie Brown was appointed Secretary protem. The attendance was small on account of the rainy evening. There was some discussion on getting a new stove for the school, also on ways of raising funds to be continued next meeting. Mrs. Alex Buchanan then read an interesting report of the District Convention, after which a contest was engaged in and won by Mrs. J. MacKinnon. Roll call for next meeting to be pickle recipes.

The October meeting met at the home of Mrs. John MacKinnon. The School Committee suggested getting a dictionary for the school and all members decided in favor of same. It was also moved and seconded to get a new box stove for the school. The different committees were appointed and Mrs. Russell Hunter invited the members to meet with her next month, which is the annual meeting. Roll call for next month will be "Uses of newspapers." The meeting closed with singing the National Anthem.

London Warns Americans

So many Americans are reported to have been victims of old-time swindling games in London recently that visitors from across the Atlantic have been warned to "watch their wallets." One American is said to have fallen to the wiles of a genial stranger whose Irish accomplice had just inherited a fortune and wanted some honest person to help him distribute it. The American put up $2,000 as a guarantee of good faith, and is still waiting for the fortune.
