Hudson Introduces the New "Pacemaker"

Hudson Motors of Canada Limited has entered a lower priced field with the new Pacemaker, a compact five-foot-high car incorporating Hudson's exclusive "step-down" design, and offering more inside room than any other Canadian or American automobile. The new model is on display at W. R. Jenkins' showroom, Great George Street and Island Equipment Co., Summerside.

"The production of this car completes the task Hudson engineers set for themselves four years ago . . . of making the room, comfort, riding and safety advantages of "Step-down" design available in a compact car that could be priced competitively," said C. R. Gall, vice-president and General Sales Manager of Hudson Motors of Canada Limited.

"This car was designed to upset completely all previous ideas of what a moderate-size automobile can be," said Mr. Gall. "We have produced another easy-handling, trim new Hudson with more room than in any other car at any price, except another Hudson."

"The Pacemaker has a lower centre of gravity than any other car while maintaining full road clearance. Because of this feature it is the safest, rides smoothest and hugs the road tightest, according to our engineering tests."

The exclusive "Monobilt" construction permits recessing the floor down within the frame, utilizing the space between frame members as the "step-down" zone. The Pacemaker is an exceptionally easy-riding car with front coil springs in combination with played-leaf type springs in the rear, four direct-acting, airplane-type shock absorbers and super-cushion tires.

The Pacemaker is a car of remarkable beauty of design, yet every smart body feature has been achieved without sacrificing the rugged safety features for which Hudson has long been noted.

Excellent visibility is ensured in the Pacemaker by a wide curved 758-square-inch windshield of non-reflecting safety plate glass. The spacious rear window has 558 square inches of visual area.

The Pacemaker's interior appointments are as striking as the distinctive exterior. On seat cushions and backs, durably fine wool Bedford Cord upholstery cloth is used to excellent advantage. Balance of the interior trim is of grey and spruce blue coloured Dura-fab, a stain-proof, easily cleaned vinyl plastic that will not scuff, crack or peel. A newly-designed instrument panel combines high-styling with extreme readability.

Topping the list of new mechanical features is the completely new, high-compression 112-horsepower Pacemaker six cylinder engine. This 112 horsepower high-compression engine is pressure-lubricated. The lubrication system uses a floating-oil intake, which eliminates re-circulation of sludge. It has a bore of 3 9/16 inches and a stroke of 3 7/8 inches with a displacement of 232 cubic inches. Standard compression ratio is 6.70 to 1. With a high-compression aluminum head the compression ratio is 7.20 to 1.

NEWCASTLE, N.B., Jan. 20 — (CP) — A Campbellton rink skipped by Mrs. William Rogers won the New Brunswick Ladies' Curling Association Bonspiel with a 7-3 win over Dalhousie in the final match today. Twelve rinks entered the three-day event.

PICTOU, N.S., Jan. 30 — (CP) — Mrs. John Hughes' Windsor rink won the Nova Scotia ladies curling championship here last week when they defeated Lunenburg 14-5 in the playoff of the three-day bonspiel. The teams were tied with four wins and a loss.

The winners take the Cunningham Rose Bowl, with the second place Lunenburg squad winning the Norah Ross Shield.

Freddie Mills Announces Retirement

By Ben Phlegar
LONDON, Jan. 30 — (AP) — Freddie Mills has announced his retirement from the ring while Joey Maxim, the freshly-crowned light-heavyweight champion, weighed a flock of offers to display his knockout talent.

The 30-year-old Mills, who was knocked out in the 10th round by Cleveland Joey Tuesday night in his first defence of the 175-pound title, decided to "pack the game in" after a family conference.

Ted Broadbitt, manager and father-in-law of the dethroned Mills said his boy was quitting and that he intended to tear up the contract guaranteeing him a return bout with Maxim.

Lew Burston, European representative of the International Boxing Club of New York, said that if the bout had been close he would have tried to get the return for New York's Madison Square Garden.

"Not a chance now," said Lew, "it wouldn't draw a quarter."

Burston however, had several propositions to offer Maxim and manager Jack Kearns, in behalf of the I.B.C. Sam Becker, the Cincinnati, Ohio, promoter, also would like to show Maxim, and there was a bid from Paris, too.

What Maxim and Kearns had in mind was a shot at the winner of the Bruce Woodcock-Lee Savold fight which will be staged here in May for the British and European recognition as world heavyweight champion.

Bearded "Babe Ruth" Dies

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Jan. 30 — (AP) — Jessie Lee Tally, often called "the bearded Babe Ruth of baseball," died last week aged 53.

Known in the baseball world as "Doc" Tally, the bearded player rose to fame for his hitting feuds with the House of David baseball team.

Tally joined the beard-wearing team in 1914 as a player and later became manager. During the last several years he was the club's travelling secretary.

It was Tally who hired Babe Didrikson to pitch for the bearded outfit when "The Babe" was first becoming nationally known as a woman athlete.

His death was attributed to a heart attack.

Sport Snapshots

By BRUCE FINDLAY
TORONTO, Jan. 30 — (CP) — There was a time when fist-swinging in the sporting world was confined to boxing. Or, when the ref wasn't looking, to the wrestling ring. But the pastime has spread in modern times to other sports and on occasion to the spectators.

The practice has become so prevalent in western Ontario hockey that Harry (Sarnia Observer) Tompkins says "the National Anthem is going to top the hit parade . . . unless pugilistic hockey fans and players decide to cool off."

"Two weeks ago the King had to be played twice at Chatham to halt a fracas between fans and referees . . . during an international league game." And in Sarnia an announcer used the Anthem to protect fans and players and the hockey arena.

Blames Referees

Audiences demand body contact in sport nowadays and most games have been trimmed to the demand but as Bill (Ottawa Journal) Westwick says, there is no excuse for rough play. He blames the referees.

Citing a recent Ottawa game "one of the officials stood and watched charging and cross-checking into the boards without so much as raising an eyebrow."

"We've found that crowds, as a rule, like a good, hard-hitting game but only a small percentage favor sheer slugfests. There is great opportunity for satisfying the appetites of those who crave action by playing within the limits of hard but fair checking. But letting players get away with repeated fouls is only encouraging them . . . to crude work."

Costs Money To Field Winning Baseball Club

By Ralph Bernstein
PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 30 — (AP) — President Bob Carpenter of Philadelphia Phillies is learning that it costs money to field a winning baseball club.

The Phillies finished third last year and Carpenter as yet hasn't found a player who thinks he personally didn't account for the club's lofty finish.

"The attitudes run something like this—Pitcher Ken Heintzelman: If I hadn't won 17 games where would we have finished?"
Outfielder Del Ennis: I hit .302 and batted in 110 runs. That helped more than a little to finish third."
Willie Jones: I'm rated the best third baseman in the National League by some. That ought to rate me more cash."
Jim Konstanty: I saved 12 games in relief and won nine others. We'd never have made the first division without those."
A club spokesman said Carpenter hadn't even heard from shortstop Granny Hamner.

"He'll probably see that Phil Rizzuto got $35,000 from the New York Yankees and want at least as much," the spokesman said.

Carpenter seems to feel there isn't too much of an argument with most of his players but he's rather incensed about Heintzelman's attitude.

"We gave Ken a nice raise in this year's contract. And at the end of last season he received a $2,500 bonus for his good work."
"After all he never was anything to talk about when he came to us from Pittsburgh and we have

SWISS SKILL SAID WATCH'S MAIN COST

WINNIPEG, Jan. — (CP) — Craftsmanship is the most expensive element in a good Swiss watch. "It's the labor put into a good watch that makes it expensive," says A.F. Suter, a fourth-generation Swiss watchmaker.

Interviewed here while on a recent sales trip for his father's firm in Bienne, he expressed concern for Switzerland's good reputation in the future.

Some Swiss firms now are producing watches to sell at about $1, he said. Watchmaking is no longer a family affair in Switzerland, but is big business involving mass production and total annual export of about 20,000,000 items.

Latest product of the Suter organization is a self-winding watch requiring only the slightest turn of the wrist in either direction to rewind itself fully.

MIGHTY LITTLE PUMP

The human heart, weighing only eight-ounces, is capable of pumping approximately 500 gallons of blood through the body daily.

nothing to make us believe he'll be as good in 1950 as he was in 1949. Heintzelman is no kid."

Private Pilots Told To Leave Jet Propulsion Alone

OTTAWA, Jan. 30 — (CP) — Despite jet propulsion and new and faster aircraft, Canada's flying clubs will still have a major light-aircraft role in Canadian aviation, Cmdr. C. P. Edwards, Deputy Transport Minister for Air, has announced.

Addressing a luncheon meeting of the Royal Canadian Flying Clubs Association, Cmdr. Edwards said several clubs appeared worried about the advent of jet propulsion and how it would affect them.

"Leave jet propulsion to the military and commercial people," he told delegates to the Association's 21st annual meeting, "and stick to ordinary flying."

Scientific development in both commercial and military fields, however, could stimulate interest of youth in flying and attract young people to the clubs.

The Association concluded its business sessions by electing Gordon F. Henderson of Ottawa as president. He replaces D. K. Yorath of Edmonton.

The Association went on record as favoring in principle a scheme to extend membership to individuals, whether members of clubs or not, instead of vesting membership in the 35 clubs as at present. The proposal will be circulated to all pilots across Canada for their suggestions in the hope of giving the Association a voice for all private fliers.
