School Trustees Given Authority To Borrow Money

ROTHESAY, N. B. Sept. 29 — A resolution passed at a special meeting of the ratepayers of Rothesay Consolidated School last night gave the trustees authority to borrow money to purchase a suitable site and erect a regional composite high school, subject to the approval of the department of education.

The meeting was held in the Rothesay Consolidated School with over 100 ratepayers and others present, including C. T. Wetmore, Kings County superintendent of schools.

The resolution, passed after much discussion, provides that the sum to be borrowed must not exceed $381,000. It was felt this sum would provide a school building similar in design to the Salsbury regional composite high school, a type of building favored by many of the ratepayers.

Some ratepayers expressed opposition to building the school, stating the costs of building materials and labor had risen so much that building the school at the present time was not practical.

Mr. Wetmore addressed the meeting, explaining the procedure to be followed in building such a school, and spoke of what was being done in other centres.

Must Receive Approval

After the approval of the department of education is received, the next step, it was pointed out, would be to procure a suitable plot of land and to call for preliminary architect's plans for the building. The money needed to build the school is borrowed from a bank, on the guarantee of the department of education, which pays approximately one-half the cost, after the building is completed. The department also provides 50 per cent of the cost of buses used in transporting the pupils to the school.

The remaining half of the cost of the building is borne by the district and is usually paid off by floating a bond issue. Seventy-five per cent of salaries of vocational teachers employed in the school is also paid by the department of education.

Preliminary plans provide for a school with machine shops, wood-working, drafting and other vocational facilities for students from Grades 7 to 11. About 175 students of these grades are now crowded into the present Rothesay Consolidated School. It is expected the new regional composite high school will be situated near the present school, but with separate playground facilities.

At present, the upper grades of the Rothesay Consolidated School are crowded and a great increase in the student body is anticipated within the next few years with the large number of new homes being constructed in the Rothesay district.

DISCUSS TRANSFER OF NORFOLK ISLAND

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Sept. 28 — (CP) — Norfolk Island, a small isolated island of about 13 square miles in the Tasman Sea, is the subject of a minor international dispute.

Norfolk Island was for a time the home of the descendants of the Bounty mutineers after they migrated from Pitcairn, but many of them later returned to their original home.

The island is 800 miles from Australia and about 500 from New Zealand, but is under Australian administration. There is a growing demand in New Zealand that it should be transferred to that Dominion.

It is very fertile and produces large quantities of citrus and other fruits which have difficulty in finding a market in Australia, whereas they would have a ready sale in New Zealand. Political difficulties have hitherto hindered the growth of the trade to New Zealand.

Much quicker communication now exists between Norfolk and New Zealand than with Australia, as a regular air service has been established to the island which is becoming a popular holiday resort during the winter owing to its equable climate.

Suggestions have been made that Prime Minister Peter Fraser should discuss transfer of the island during the British Commonwealth conference on the Japanese peace treaty at Canberra.

Marissa Scott, shown centre with two nieces, has been refused admittance to a nurses' training course in Owen Sound, Ont., presumably because she is a Negress. Hon. Russell T.
