Bashful Mr. Bobbs
Revisits York

To the hall did we go for a good time again. The boys and the girls, the ladies and men;

For both young and old, their best clothes will don. When they hear of a concert or play being put on.

And when 'tis by York, then they'll know 'twill be good. And be ready to laugh, as everyone should.

For those who were absent, I suppose there were some - But I thought when I looked, all creation had come - I'll give a few facts, so you'll know what 'twas 'bout.

To ease off your mind should you have any doubt. It seems the York men, whom the burden did bear, Had thought that the Church was in need of repair.

For years we've had parsons of many a name. But still the Church had remained just the same. They wanted to build on a more modern plan.

And when 'twas discussed 'I agreed to a man. They would follow the plan, and together would work To build up a temple full worthy of York.

To canvass for proceeds, some men took the charge. They did the job well and subscriptions were large. But when they were through, there was need of more yet.

But those stalwart men did not worry or fret. Said one, "about that play staged by York Y. P. S. If we asked them to give it, they'd do it I guess.

I'm sure they would help us get out of this lurch. We'll ask them to play it, this time for the Church." They caught the idea, so young folks did ask. Who gladly consented to help with the task.

This play, as you know, was presented before. And that time, as this, it was packed to the door. The night proved quite mild and the roads were real good.

So everyone came that possibly could. Earl Taylor and Wendall had kept their old place. And took of your money with long studied face.

The ushers were Lester, and Harold T. Watts. Frank V. handed programmes and gave us all lots. To while 'way the time 'ere the play did begin.

S. Birt played the fiddle and much thanks did win. As soon as the clock had struck eight and a half. We all fixed our faces (not powdered!) to laugh.

For the curtains were drawn by Stanley and Roy. And then for some good fun - I'd say "On Boy!" Tom and Gladys repeated their quarrel by request.

(Perhaps?) tragic to them but a scream for the rest. "Mrs. Wiggins" was great - she a boarding house ran. And constantly kept her eyes peeled for a man!

This part played by Jennie was one of the best. Producing much laughter for she played it with zest. With eggs in his pocket Art came, tripped and fell. The natural results are too awful to tell!

Rosalie Otis and Frances were Mary and Dot. They did well, of course, and a clapping they got. Everytime they appeared each wore a new dress.

And that adds a lot to a play, you'll confess. Our Jennie did, Gladys and Peter introduced. Poor Peter was flustered, his tongue did run loose.

For he was the Bashful Bobbs, you understand. And perhaps didn't know that he held Gladys' hand! While Pearl was, as ever, a picture to see

As she went through her part. Mrs. Bob Bobbs, to be. And Leith played his part as only he can. And proved beyond doubt, he was no bashful man.

To both Dot and Pearl, turn about, he'd propose. And finally with Dot, did he find his repose. While Julie, Dot's maid, - Miss Isabel Brown

With Arthur went walking, for ice cream, down town! Then Peter forgot he was bashful, I guess. For he asked Pearl a question, and she answered "yes."

Thus to finish the play, on the stage we did see. Four couples who looked just as could be. While Jennie and Mary, the centre did take. Which seen altogether a tableau did make.

Tween acts one and two, we were given a treat. For Seymour and Uttley would be hard to beat! While in the next lull Harry V. took the floor.

Who, having sung once was obliged to encore. Then P. J. and S. A. the platform did take. For real auctioneering, those two take the cake! With stories and jokes, they made easy the trick. And boxes and cash were exchanged jolly quick.

To the pleasure of all, the proceeds were read. One hundred and thirty-five dollars, they said. Which goes, as I mentioned, along with the rest.

To make our York Church to be one of the best. As homeward I wended, a friend said to me, (And with what she said, I'm sure you'll agree.)

For she said, "that the young folks much credit should get. For through them, we all had the best time yet!"

She Soon Felt Like A New Woman

Says Ontario Lady After Taking Dodd's Kidney Pills

Mrs. J. Easton Suffered With Pains in the Back and Rheumatism

Brockville, Ont., May 4.-(Special)-One more tribute to the great work Dodd's Kidney Pills are doing for the women of Canada comes from Mrs. J. Easton, P. O. 441, Brockville, Ont. She writes: "I found great relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills, my back pained me so, but now it is normal again. My kidneys were in bad order and after a few boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills I felt like a new woman. I would recommend them to all who suffer."

Other sufferers of backache tell of pains relieved and health restored through the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills. They act directly on the kidneys. They strengthen the kidneys and put them in shape to strain the uric acid out of the blood.
