Rules Governing Guardian "Famous Canadians" Contest

Everyone who is a paid in advance subscriber excepting employees of The Guardian and their families may take part. As many members of one family of a paid in advance subscriber may compete as desire and any subscriber may send in as many sets of answers as he or she wishes, but each set must be complete and will be judged individually.

The successful competitors whose subscriptions are paid farthest into 1932 will have the preference.

Clip the picture and coupon underneath it every day and write the answer on the blank line. Save all your clippings until the end of the contest and then send them to the "Famous Canadians" Contest Editor of The Guardian in one batch. Name and address should be included, clearly written or printed, and securely attached to your solutions. It will facilitate handling if you bind your solutions by sewing along the top, or using paper fasteners.

In sending more than one solution, each solution must be enclosed in a separate envelope.

Please attach sufficient postage as, otherwise, it may be necessary to refuse acceptance of the mail.

In case of a tie The Guardian reserves the right to publish one or more tie-breaking puzzles.

The judges' decision will be final in all matters, and The Guardian will not undertake to enter into correspondence with any individual regarding the decision of the judges.

A few days in San Diego reduced my small capital to the vanishing point, yet it was with a light heart I turned north again and took the All-Tie route for Los Angeles. I was absolutely penniless. The Lord looks after His children, said I, and when I became too inexorably hungry I asked for bread, emphasizing my willingness to do a stunt on the woodpile. Perhaps it was because I was young and notably a novice at vagrancy, but people were very good to me.

On arriving in Los Angeles I went to the post office. There was a letter from the Prodigal dated New York, and inclosed fourteen dollars, which he owed me. He said:
"I returned to the paternal roof, weary of my role. The fatted calf awaited me. Nevertheless I am sick again for the unhallowed swine-husks. Meet me in Frisco about the end of February, and I will a glorious proposition unfold. Don't fail. Look for a letter in the General Delivery.

There was no time to lose, as February was nearly over. I took a steamer passage to San Francisco, resolving that I would mend my fortunes. It is so easy to drift. I saw that as long as I remained friendless and unknown nothing but degraded toil was open to me. Surely I could climb up, but was it worth while? A snug farm in the Northwest awaited me. I would work my way back there, and arrive decently clad. Then none would know of my humiliation. I had been wayward and foolish, but I had learned something.

What with steamer fare and a few small debts to settle, I found when I landed in San Francisco that once more I was flatly broke. There was no letter for me, and perhaps it was on account of my disappointment, perhaps on account of my extreme shabbiness, but I found I had quite lost heart. So I tightened my belt and sat in Portsmouth square, cursing myself for the many nickies I had squandered in riotous living.

I was drowning on my bench when some one addressed me.
"Say young fellow, you look pretty well used up."
An elderly, gray-haired man came and sat down by me.
"Come, buck up, kid, you're pretty near down and out. I've "Come, Buck Up, Kid, You're Pretty Near Down and Out."

been studyin' you for two days. Let's go and feed!"
He took me to a restaurant where he ordered a dinner that made my head swim.
My benefactor was rather under medium height, but so square and solid you felt he was a man to be reckoned with. His mouth was of firm and his chin resolute. Altogether his face was a curious blend of benevolence and ruthless determination.

"Feel better, son? Well, go ahead an' tell me as much of your story as you want to."
I gave an account of all that had happened to me since I had set foot on the new land.
"Huh!" he ejaculated when I had finished. "I'm glad by the grace of God I've been the means of givin' you a hand-up. Better come to my room an' stop with me till somethin' turns up. I'm goin' north in three days. I'm goin' to join this crazy rush to the Klondike. I've been minin' for twelve years. Arizona, Colorado, all over, an' now I am a-goin' to see if the North hasn't got a stake for me."

In his room he told me of his life.
"I'm saved by the grace of God but I've been a Bad Man. I've been everything from a city marshal to boss gambler. I have gone heeled for two years thinking to get my pass to hell at any moment. It's all over now, an' I've seen the evil of my ways, but I've got to talk once in a while. I'm Jim Aubbard, known as 'Salvation Jim,' an' I know minin' from Genesis to Revelation. Once I used to gamble an' drink the limit. One morning I got up from the card table after sitting there thirty-six hours. I'd lost five thousand dollars. I knew they'd handed me out 'cold turkey,' but I took my medicine.

"Right then I said I'd be a crook, too. I learned to play with marked cards. I could tell every card in the deck. I went after the suckers. There was never a man did me dirt but I paid him with interest. Of course, it's different now. The Good Book says: 'Do good unto them that harm you.' I guess I would, but I wouldn't recommend no one to try and harm me. I might forget.

The heavy, aggressive jaw shot forward; the eyes gleamed with a fearless ferocity, and for a moment the man took on an air that was almost tigerish. I could scarce believe it was the same cheerful, benevolent face, and I thought my eyes must have played me some trick.

Perhaps it was that sedate Puritan strain in me that appealed to him, for we became great friends. He told me of the girl he married and worshipped, and of the man who broke up his home. Once more I saw that flitting tiger-look appear on his face and vanish immediately. He told me of his wild days.
"I was always a fighter and, I never knew what fear meant. I never saw the man that could beat me in a rough-an-tumble scrap. I was uncommon husky an' as quick as a cat, but it was by fierceness that won out for me. I've gone up unarmed to a man I knew was heeled to shoot me on sight, an' I've dared him to do it. Just by the power of the eye I've made him take water. Then, as drink got hold of me, I got worse and worse. Glory to God! I've seen the evil of my ways."

I wish I could paint or act the man for you. Words cannot express his curious character. I came to have a great fondness for him and certainly owed him a huge debt of gratitude.

One day I was paying my usual visit to the post office, when some one gripped me by the arm.
"Hullo, Scotty! By all that's wonderful, I was just going to mail you a letter."
It was the Prodigal, very well dressed and spruce-looking.
"Say, I'm so tickled I got you, we're going to start in two days."
"Start! Where?" I asked.
"Why, to the Golden North, for the land of the Midnight Sun, for the treasure-troves of the Klondike Valley."

"You may be," I said soberly; "but I can't."
"Yes you can, and you are, old sport. I fixed all that. Come on, I want to talk to you. I went home and did the returned prodigal stunt. The old man was mighty decent when I told him it was no good. I couldn't go in the glue factory yet awhile. He staked me handsomely and gave me a year to make good. So here I am, and you're with me. I'm going to grub-stake you. Mind, it's a business proposition. I've got to have some one, and when you make the big strike, you've got to divvy up. Of course, if you're afraid of hardships and so on—"

"No," I said quickly, "I'll go."
"Ha!" he laughed, "you're too much of a coward to be afraid. Well, we've got to get busy over our outfit. We haven't got any too much time."
I bethought me of Salvation Jim, and I told the Prodigal of my new friend.

"Why," said the Prodigal, "that's just the man we want. We'll ask him to join us."
I brought the two together and it was arranged. So it came about

Rinso

THE GRANULATED HARD-WATER SOAP

soaks out dirt washes clothes whiter... in tub or washer

(Millions use Rinsol. Thousands write us letters like this.)

"My, what a difference —saves clothes, too!" says Mrs. H. Budrich

"My, what a difference Rinsol makes! Clothes come so white they look like new. Rinsol is marvellous in hard water; it gives thick, lasting suds, without the help of powders or softeners. It saves the clothes, too, they don't need to be boiled and scrubbed threadbare. I use Rinsol for dishes and all cleaning. It's very economical."
MRS. H. BUDRICH.

Rich suds—no softener needed
Rinsol is a granulated, hard-water soap. Cup for cup it gives twice as much suds as light weight, puffed-up soaps—it's so compact. Creamy, lasting suds even in hardest water.
The makers of 38 leading washing machines recommend Rinsol. Get the BIG package.
