PIERCE GALES IN NOVA SCOTIA

HALIFAX, Jan. 4.—Halifax received another taste of tempestuous weather yesterday; but, though it rained hard all day the full force of the gale had not felt until approaching evening when the high south-east wind rapidly increased in velocity until at one o'clock this morning it was blowing forty-three miles an hour—the maximum for the storm, which then began to abate. The probabilities to-day are for clearing and colder weather.

A despatch from Digby says: Steam and sail craft are making Digby a night, seeking shelter from a stiff southeaster that is kicking up a big sea outside. The weather is thick and this makes it all the more hazardous in making port.

Two motor boats loaded to the gunwales with fresh fish from Trout Cove had a thrilling experience coming through the Digby rips, but a motor boat loaded with fish from Parker's Cove had the narrowest squeak of all, and had not the Digby lifeboat put out to the rescue a different tale would have been told.

UNION SERVICE.—The opening union services of the week of prayer in Charlottetown were held last night in St. James' and Central Christian churches. An interesting address was given by Rev. T. Marshall at St. James' Church and by Rev. G. O. Taylor at Central Christian. The service tonight will be in the First Methodist church. The subject of the address will be "Is this the Decisive Hour in Missions," by Rev. T. W. Murphy. Everybody is cordially invited.

PEOPLE'S THEATRE.—There are eighteen short minutes in the history of Great Britain that will live as long as the war drum is sounded and the shrill trumpet calls to arms. These historical moments are recorded in the annals of time on October 25th, in the year 1854, at the hour of ten o'clock, on the bloodstained field of Balaklava where England strove for over a mile the life blood of heroes. Forward the Light Brigade and the brilliant band of England's best blood made their never-to-be-forgotten charge, and then this "torn, bloody, battlestained broken and shattered regiment, the pride of England's army, came back from the valley of death. "All that was left of them, left of six hundred." Only one hundred and ninety-nine answered the roll call. Who has not read this story of the noble six hundred. Hundreds gathered, old and young, at the Peoples Theatre, Charlottetown, last evening, and viewed the story of the awful blunder and as the words of Tennyson's poem were flashed on the screen, lines had been forgotten would come back and mate those present appreciate the picture for its worth, as the greatest picture ever produced from England's history. The relief of Lucknow stands out in the history of the world as one of the most harrowing, terrible and heroic events in the annals of war. In a succession of splendidly enacted scenes one was led step by step from the beginning of the dissatisfaction of the Indian troops at Lucknow. Finally the outbreak occurs and one is shown, the night on May 12th, 1857, and just what occurred on that memorable evening at Lucknow. The picture climbs from one dramatic event to another, all acted with that military precision and spirit that British soldiers alone can give, and in the closing events was shown the flight in the street of Lucknow when General Havelock forced his way through those narrow lanes to the relief of those heroic men and women.

JEFF DAVIS, FIERY SENATOR, IS DEAD.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 3.—United States Senator Jefferson Davis, fifty years old, thrice Governor of Arkansas and one of the most picturesque figures in national politics, died here of apoplexy early today. Senator Davis' life was replete with stirring and dramatic episodes. His hatred of the North, inherited as it was from the Jeff Davis who led the great war for Southern slavery never waned. He was one of the South's foremost orators, and for many years the idol of the people of his State. In the first place the Czarina is in worse health than ever. Neuritis has increased and so affected the Czarina's limbs that she cannot walk. She is moved from room to room on a couch. At other times, reclining in a beautiful boat-shaped sleigh, she is driven in the park. Next among the distresses of the Czar is the fact that his younger sister, Grand Duchess Olga, wife of Duke Peter of Oldenburg, finds herself unhappily married. She has asked the Czar for permission to secure a divorce, so that she may marry a younger officer of the Cuirassiers. The Emperor has angrily refused permission. But it is against his brother, Grand Duke Michael Alexandrovitch, that the Czar's hottest anger is directed. After his marriage with the divorced Mrs. Sheremetievskia, Grand Duke Michael made an irrevocable marriage settlement on her. This so infuriated the Czar that he struck his brother's name from membership in the imperial household.

CZARINA A CRIPPLE

LONDON, Jan. 3.—Painful information of widespread unhappiness in the Russian Imperial family has reached Queen Alexandra, from her widowed sister, the Dowager Empress.

FATHER SEES FOUR SONS DROWN

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 3.—Daniel Kahler, near here, was on his way to join his four boys skating on Beaver River yesterday when he heard cries for help and ran to the bank in time to see his four sons, between seven and sixteen years of age, go through the ice and drown.

BULL MOOSE HIT BY FIRST RECALL

SAN JOSE, Cal., Jan. 3.—The first recall election under the new State law was delivered for the recall of State Senator Marshall Black, who was a Progressive leader in the State Senate. He was secretary of the Palo Alto Building and Loan Association, which was closed by order of a State Commissioner last Summer, after Black had admitted a shortage of more than $100,000. Partial returns indicate the recall of Black by a large majority and the election of Herbert C. Jones, Republican, to succeed him.

MOB BATTERS DOOR OF GARMENT HOUSE

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—One of the most serious riots of the Garment Workers' strike occurred today, when 1,000 men attacked the officers of the Washington Clothing Company at Astor place, following a report that non-union men were being put to work there.
