Introduced Only Last Winter, Vicks VapoRub Was Tried Out in 15,000 Homes—Many Ontario and Quebec Mothers Gladly Tell the Results For the Benefit of...

It may amaze those who have never tried Vicks VapoRub for colds to know that in the States over 17 million jars of this external vaporizing treatment are used yearly.

Last winter in order to prove to Canada mothers how quickly and effectively this treatment acts, about 15,000 free packages were given to responsible people to be tested in their homes, on condition that they would report results.

Below are given by permission, several typical experiences. On Thirty Days' Trial And during this winter, in order that anyone who is skeptical may try Vicks without risk of loss, the druggists are all authorized to sell 50c jars of Vicks on trial.

...SHOP from Holman's Catalog: ...HEAVY SNOW — A large number of the Montague people have been employed shovelling snow for the railway, for the past few days, greatly relieving the unemployment situation.

...SERIOUSLY ILL — The very serious illness is reported of Mrs. S. Nicholson, a resident of Montague and her recovery is looked upon as doubtful. As there is a large family of small children, with the husband and father out of work, the kind neighbors are doing what they can to help them out; charity covers a multitude of sins.

...SPORT WANTED — As some of our Montague horsemen are anxious to give their speed some exercise, a movement is on foot to have the ice scraped and make a half mile track. Those who will not help in this project, will have to pay for the use of the track. It is the intention to hold a race in the near future.

...COAL FAMINE — The residents of Montague are confronted with what looks like a fuel famine, there being not a pound of coal in the town. Had the weather man been a little more kindly disposed, sufficient wood would be brought in by the near-by farmers, but this is now impossible. As many of the householders buy this necessity in small quantities, another storm and conditions will be serious.

...WEEK OF PRAYER — The Methodist church, situated in the centre of the town, was the only place in Montague where services were held on Sunday last. The week of prayer came to an end on Friday night instead of Sunday night, as was formerly the custom, due to the storm, while the sermon by the Rev. Mr. Brown was a treat from a spiritual standpoint, our male quartette furnished a treat from a musical standpoint. There is nothing so musical as male voices, especially when they blend so harmoniously as in this instance. There is plenty of talent in Montague for a concert at least once a month, and with our male quartette, and our "Charley Chaplin" on the program, seats would be at a premium. An outlet could easily be found for the proceeds.

PERSONALS ...The condition of Mrs. James Murphy of Montague, who is at present in the hospital, is reported as extremely serious, and no hopes are held out for her recovery. ...Messrs. Joseph McGregor and James McLeod are glad to be back again to their homes in Montague, after being storm-staid in the city for the past week. The object of their trip was to dispose of the pelts belonging to the Three Rivers Fox Co.

...Miss Helen McDonald, the popular, efficient and we might safely add, enhancing clerk in the drug store of Mr. J. W. Carruthers, Montague, has left for her home in Georgetown. She will not return till March, when business gets more brisk.

...Mr. Ethel Stewart has returned to his home in Montague, after spending the past month visiting his sister in St. Stephen, N. B. Mr. Stewart has charge of the egg department of Poole and Thompson and took advantage of the lull in this line of business to enjoy a well earned holiday.

What Ruhr Occupation Means According to German Claims LONDON, Jan. 19.—What Ruhr occupation means to Germany is best expressed by the figures of what this district and the Rhineland, already occupied, mean to Germany's industrial life. In 1920, 1,627,396, or 23.3 per cent. of the country's 6,967,970 industrial workers lived in these areas. Twelve per cent. of the country's freight, are here. Of fifteen million tons of coal this year, 100,000,000 will be mined in the Ruhr and Rhineland. Eighty per cent of the coke comes from these districts. Last year they produced 7,300,000 tons of iron ore, 41.1 per cent of the country's total; 8,200,000 tons of pig iron, 74.5 per cent; 91,000 tons of zinc, 41 per cent; 43,000 tons of lead, 40.2 per cent. In March, April and May, 1921, the French imposed as sanctions a customs barrier between the right and left banks of the Rhine, cutting off German factories on the right bank from their raw materials on the left. The result was the factories shut down, causing widespread unemployment. A well informed German, a biased source, of course, told me at the time Germany lost $800,000,000 by this action. The official reparations figures showed the French collected 132,000,000 francs or a little over $9,000,000. The most conservative estimate at the time was that for every dollar France collected, Germany lost, directly and indirectly, not less than forty.

Twenty-one Cars Over Bank Near Matapedia, N. B.

MONCTON, Jan. 18.—Freight train and snow-plough wrecks tied up traffic at two places on the northern division of the C. N. R. all today and the line was only reported clear about 8 o'clock tonight. At Glenemma, just west of Matapedia, early this morning twenty-one cars of the eastbound fast freight went over the dump and were badly smashed up. Its trainmen fortunately escaping injury. All trains east and west of the scene of the run-off were held up until 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The Maritime Express, due here at 10 this morning, reached here about 9.30 tonight. This morning an engine and plough went off the track at Berry's Mills, seven miles west of Moncton and blocked the line until 9 o'clock tonight. In consequence of the Barry's Mills wreck the west bound Ocean Limited and the local express for Campbellton were held there until about 8.30 this evening. The N. T. R. express for Fredericton and Edmundston did not get away from Moncton until near midnight.

From the standpoint of being up traffic both run-offs were bad ones, but were not attended by injury to the train crews.

Jackie Coogan To Star For Metro LOS ANGELES, Calif., Jan. 20.—Metro has secured Jackie Coogan for his next four pictures over Douglas Fairbanks and the United Artists and seven other bidders for a cash bonus of $500,000 and the lion's share of the picture profits. Despite the expressed hope of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Coogan that their son would become a United States citizen, the child star artist, late this afternoon accepted the proposition of Marcus Loew, Metro head, as advanced by Joseph M. Shenck and J. W. Engel, at the office of Neil S. McCarthy, the Coogans' attorney.

In addition to securing the big cash advance any star in motion picture has ever received and a 60-40 split of the profits from the four pictures to be made, it was also stipulated in the agreement that the father of Jackie Coogan will produce the films. Metro will pay all production costs and will receive in turn the completed negatives. From these Metro will make the prints which will go forth under the caption "Metro presents, Joseph M. Shenck, who has been conducting the negotiations for Marcus Loew, himself gave out the details of the deal as soon as it was completed. After a handshake all around he congratulated everyone in the office and expressed satisfaction that Metro had won out over the seven other bidders.

The best deal got the contract, and we are very glad Metro got it," was Jack Coogan senior's terse comment.

New Yacht Mystery Puzzles Fishermen

PARIS, Jan. 19.—A mystery of the seas lies behind the disappearance of the crew of the pleasure cruising yacht Antoinette of Monaco, which was found recently with bullet holes in the mast and sails off Marsailles. In some respects the circumstances recall the great unsolved sea mystery of the Marie Celeste. A fishing fleet with nets out sighted a strange-looking craft with sails set and no controlling hand at the tiller. There was a light breeze, and her mainsail boom swung from side to side as the yacht pursued her erratic course. A fisherman clambered aboard to investigate. Not a living soul was to be found, not even a cat. Others joined him, and the fishermen together carried out a systematic search. The cabin revealed nothing save a small case containing two candles, a man's jacket and travelling rug. There were no papers of any kind to help the searchers in their quest. On deck there was signs of disorder. The mast itself and the gaff of the mainsail were riddled with bullets, and some of the cordage had been shot away. The yacht's name and port of registry were painted on the stern. The derelict was towed into Marsailles and handed over to the port authorities.

Lord High Admiral At 19 Years

(Toronto Telegram.) The visit of a British Lord High Admiral, who is only 19 years of age, and of his Canadian mother is stirring New York society. The admiral, he it said, is the young Marquis of Donegal, who, despite his youth, is really a Lord High Admiral and entitled to wear a resplendent naval uniform at state functions. Of course, no such title exists in the working ranks of the British navy in this year of grace. The young Marquis is not even a midshipman. His dignity comes to him, not from service afloat, but by inheritance, along with the Earldom of Belfast, the Viscounty of Chichester and the barony of Fisherwick. His full naval title is Lord High Admiral of Lough Neagh, which, though the largest lake in the United Kingdom, with an area of 163 square miles and a shore line of 65 miles, is really no bigger than Lake Couchiching, on which Orillia is situated.

Naval Battles on Lough Neagh But whereas Couchiching's peaceful waters never heard the roar of a cannon, important naval engagements occurred on Lough Neagh, in the 16th and 17th centuries, the last big fight taking place in 1642. In those days the office of admiral did mean something. They are talking of draining the lake for agricultural purposes. It has an average depth of between 30 and 40 feet and is 70 feet above sea level.

Young Lord Donegal will not inherit much from his patrimony. His ancestors once owned the greater part of the city of Belfast, but most of the estates were alienated long ago, and his father exhausted much of the remaining property. The new peer will, however, inherit considerable wealth from his mother.

Lover Left Her a Fortune. The latter's career is a strange one. Daughter of George Twining, a well known resident of Halifax, she went to school in the States and graduated from Wellesley College. When quite a young girl Violet Twining became engaged to an officer in the Halifax garrison, and when he went to the South African war followed him to Cape Town. The officer was killed early in the war, and it was discovered that in a will made just before he left for the front he had bequeathed his fiancée the whole of his large fortune.

Society Gaped. When two years later, in December, 1902, Miss Twining, a pretty girl of only 22, married the 32-year-old Marquis of Donegal, society on both sides of the Atlantic gaped. The couple were married in London, first before a registrar, and afterwards in St. George's, Hanover Square. It was said that his young bride had to assist him to follow her to Cape Town. The blessing of the church floor to receive the blessing of their union.

White-haired Marquis. It is claimed that Miss Twining's mother induced her to marry the old Marquis, says the Marquise de Fontenoy, a well known American writer, and that the affair was suggested by his advertisement in a newspaper stating that he would marry if a bride were willing to settle $100,000 on him. Some time later the young lady met the Marquis, a distinguished looking old gentleman with a mass of snowy white hair and owning Dundreary whiskers, and the settlement made was not over $100,000, but $40,000. Three months after their marriage the Marchioness and her mother went abroad for a prolonged tour.

Strathcona Her Friends. Lord and Lady Strathcona were always kind friends to the young peeress. Lady Strathcona it was who arranged her presentation at Court prior to the marriage. Lady Strathcona gave the bride away in historic St. George's. Indeed, the rugged old Canadian High Commissioner and his good wife did much to smooth the way for the young woman whose marriage to a man 60 years older than herself had aroused some rather unfair prejudice in society. But even if any prejudice of this nature had not died years ago in the effluxion of time, the devotion and good judgment which the Canadian marchioness showed in the bringing up of her son would have obliterated it. The young Lord High Admiral of Lough Neagh and head of the noble house of Chichester is spoken of as "a nice looking, well-behaved boy."
