SAYS REVOLT IN FRANCE IMMINENT

Montreal Man Home from Spain Gives Views on Spanish Conflict.

MONTREAL, Sept. 25. All indications point to an upheaval in France in the not far distant future similar in character to the Spanish outbreak, according to Paul La France, Montreal pianist, who has just returned from a ten-week stay in Spain and France.

Speaking of his observations made during visits to Paris and several cities in the vicinity of the French capital, Mr. La France declared:

"The situation is gradually reaching a crisis, and with the atmosphere of unrest and misgiving that one meets everywhere, it is clear that serious trouble is coming. And," he added, "I don't think it is so very far away, either."

Mr. La France was in Barcelona studying with his former tutor, Mlle. Blanche Seiva, well-known European pianist, when the Spanish revolution broke out. He witnessed numerous demonstrations by the various factions. Interviewed yesterday in the peaceful surroundings of Bark Lake, in the Laurentians, where he has been staying with friends since his return, Mr. La France conversed freely on the situation in Spain which he quitted a month ago at the urgent request of the British Consulate.

"The whole affair," said Mr. La France, "is extremely complicated, and from the dispatches and comments carried by the newspapers in Paris, where I was two weeks ago, it is impossible to form any adequate opinion of the situation."

"There seems to be a great misunderstanding as to the positions, politically speaking, of the opposing forces in Spain and as to the nature of the factions comprising them," continued Mr. La France.

Government Blameless
"Actually, the official Spanish Government has little to do with the depredations being committed, with the killing of civilians and the burning of cathedrals and churches. While these things are being done by what are ostensibly Government forces, they are the deeds of the common people allied under the banners of Anarchism, Communism and Socialism. Of the three, the followers of the first, members of the Federal Anarchista International' are the most radical and predominate in numbers."

"Many members of the 'Generalidad de Catalunya', which, sitting at Barcelona, carries on largely as an autonomous governmental body apart from the federal authority of Madrid," said Mr. La France, "are men of moderate political leanings, and the majority are opposed to the depredations committed in the name of the Government."

"The trouble is," Mr. La France explained, "is that the Government is not in control at all. The revolution of the military has simply provided an opportunity for anti-Fascist and anti-religious factions—people supposedly fighting for the Government—to make their long-winded assault on the monied class and the ecclesiastical bodies."

When the revolt started, the pianist continued the army was immediately disbanded officially, but, while there were many deserters who were in sympathy with the Government or with the various factions of the people, the armaments of the country were naturally in the hands of the military, with the result that the Government was obliged to provide arms for the common people for defence against the rebels.

"Because of this it was a very simple matter for any person to obtain arms, even for boys and girls of 16 and 17. A person had merely to apply to one of the committee rooms of any of the various factions and a rifle or revolver was placed in his hands—supposedly for the purpose of fighting the rebels. Actually the Government," Mr. La France explained, "was opposed to much of this arming, but the distribution got out of control."

Mr. Dunning Reviews

those who believe that the trade may be very great; but it is an old Scotch saying that "Many a mickle makes a muckle." That is how we go after trade. Trade consists in what the housewife buys in the store. All the millions of dollars in trade merely represent the sum total of the household budgets.

Negotiations with Germany

The Minister of Trade also negotiated with Germany, and German representatives will be in Ottawa this coming week in an effort to iron out some of the difficulties in the way of mutual trade. With Holland, Belgium and Sweden negotiations were also pursued. I cannot indicate the degree of success in any of these cases, but to the extent that we can trade on a satisfactory basis with these countries, to that extent we shall be better off.

British Trade Relations

It was my particular job to go to Great Britain and discuss our trade relations with the members of His Majesty's Government there. Those negotiations are still proceeding, with a view of discovering each other's difficulties and also the possibilities of further trade development between Canada and Great Britain. I cannot speak, of course, of the details. They will necessarily be secret until they can be announced later, as I hope they will be, in the form of a trade treaty when the negotiations are concluded. But I am sure I speak for the people of Canada when I say that we want to trade more, both ways, with Great Britain.

These, ladies and gentlemen, are the lines along which we have worked. This is the account of our stewardship for the last eleven months. I spoke of it at the outset as the most tremendous eleven months I had ever passed. It is a great privilege to have part in the duties of Government these days; and not only a privilege but a great responsibility.

"The Greatest Thing"
I think the greatest thing that has happened to us is not due, except in part, to government policies. It is due to the inherent soundness of the Canadian people. And what is the greatest thing that has happened? All across this country today, one feels the thrill of hope once more. You can't miss it. Canadians are recovering their confidence in themselves, in their country. Oh Confidence! how important a thing it is, Mr. Chairman. With it your forebears conquered the wilderness here. Others conquered the wilderness clear from the Atlantic to the Pacific. With confidence, defy all hazards. Braving all discouragements, this country has come thus far along the path. Without that confidence this country would still have been a wilderness. And during the past six years what a testing time it has been of the character and stamina of the Canadian people. Just as the British people under the fear of war, having paid a terrific price in the last war, having experienced unemployment and depression and hardship, unconquered, still carried on and are coming through on top today. I do not know a more prosperous community today than the community of Great Britain. What did it? Government policies? Some, yes. Improved trade? Some, too. But mainly the indomitable spirit of the British people; never knowing when they are licked. The most hopeful thing to me in Canada today is the renewed demonstration on the part of our Canadian people that we have that indomitable spirit. I know we have great problems, tremendously difficult problems to overcome; but we are turned in the right direction; hope is springing up within us again. May we prove worthy of those who went before us.

Company Charged With Violating Coal Regulations

NEW WATERFORD, N. S., Sept. 25.—(CP)—While 1,000 miners remain on strike tonight, district President D. W. Morrison, of the United Mine Workers charged the Dominion Coal Company was "openly and directly" violating the Coal Mines Regulations Act in its longwall system.

The charge would be forwarded to Premier Macdonald for consideration by the Provincial Department of Mines, the Union President said.

Decision to seek Government intervention in the longwall "duffing" dispute that has kept miners of No. 12 colliery idle since Friday was reached after a conference between the U. M. W. executive, Harry Hines, resident superintendent of the coal company, and A. R. Macdonald, deputy inspector of mines.

The men demand higher pay for handling coal cut but not loaded by the previous shift in No. 12.

Assured of U. M. W. support, the men refused to turn out for work today and tonight.

Tomorrow a strike vote will be taken at No. 16 Colliery.

Fascist Press Assails Jews

ROME, Sept. 24.—Roberto Farinacci, former secretary of the Fascist party and a member of the Fascist Grand Council, tonight editorially assailed "the subversive influence of Jews" on European governments.

His editorial was printed in his newspaper "Regime Fascista," and attracted wide attention because of his prominence in the Fascist party, in which anti-Semitism has never been a tenet

As a fraternal address from the very Rev. A. N. Bogle representing the Church of Scotland, followed. Before he spoke, Moderator Bryce presented him with a sprig of heather "From one Scotsman to another in Canada."

Church Union was "indeed a blessed thing about which it was difficult to say too much in praise," said Dr. Bogle. But even Union had some drawbacks. Every church built up its own atmosphere and loyalty among its own people. This, under union, had to be subordinated to the spirit of union. And sometimes this resulted in a period of financial stringency. In Scotland this had happened. And he thought from his observation since coming to Ottawa it was being repeated in Canada. But such a condition was merely temporary. When the church became truly an entity, beloved as such, the financial stringency would disappear.

The foundations of civilization were today being threatened, Dr. Bogle said in discussing war threats. "The defilement of the state," as seen in one form in Russia and in other forms in Germany and Italy threatened civilization. Freedom depended on religion, and there never had been real freedom where christianity was absent. The price of freedom was eternal vigilance.

The work of the church lay in developing and guarding freedom and discipline among the people.

As in the case of Dr. Bogle, commissioners stood when representatives of the Methodist Church of England, Rev. Richard Pyke and Charles Wass, took the platforms. Dr. Pyke brought the "affectionate Greetings" of the Methodist Church in England.

The year 1932 saw union of Methodist churches in England Dr. Pyke said.

All the churches were passing through difficult days. But, if union had not been consummated, conditions in the Methodist Church of England might have been worse. The aftermath of the war was still with the world, but in the Old Country economic recovery was on the way. With economic recovery might come spiritual re-awakening and enthusiasm.

Rev. Dr. John E. Simpson, of Buffalo, representing the United Presbyterian Church of North America, brought greetings from that body.

"We look forward to the time when there will be a united church of the United States and perhaps a united church of North America," he said.

OTTAWA, Sept. 25.—(CP)—Discussions of a new trade agreement with Germany will be continued this week. A delegation from Berlin will come here to take up negotiations where they ended two months ago when Hon. W. D. Euler, minister of trade and commerce, visited the German capital in the course of a tour that took him through most of Europe. Almost immediately after completion of his conferences with the German mission, Mr. Euler, it was learned today, will start on his long projected visit to Australia and New Zealand. There he will discuss the basis for revision of the trade agreements which with some amendments have governed trade between Canada and the Antipodean Dominions since 1931.

There have been no official announcements of these latest developments in the governments trade extension program but details are expected shortly. Mr. Euler it was learned, will leave early in October for New Zealand with the intention of being home in time for the opening of Parliament in January.

OTTAWA, Sept. 25.—(CP)—Reporting on his inspection tour of British naval establishments in the Mediterranean, Sir Samuel Hoare, First Lord of the Admiralty, today declared Britain would make her position "quite secure for the future" without making threats against anyone.

In a statement on his return after an extensive survey of the Mediterranean situation aboard the Admiralty yacht Enchantress, the First Lord of the Admiralty took notice of the renewed campaign against Britain in the Italian press. He referred to "Italian press articles saying we should clarify our new Mediterranean policy and that we ought to explain to other Mediterranean powers what is our new Mediterranean policy."

"A statement of that kind was made under complete misapprehension," Sir Samuel declared. "We have no new Mediterranean policy. Our policy there today is exactly what it always has been—namely to live in the most friendly relations possible with other Mediterranean powers and make it secure for our communications."

young men will get some hard work and experience." The easier posts should come to men after they had gone through the rougher experience of early ministerial life.

The first woman to present a report to the council mounted the platform today. The report of the Women's Missionary Society was presented by Miss Winifred Thomas, Secretary, who said 1935 was memorable inasmuch as it was the first year since 1929 when income exceeded that of the preceding year. This evidenced a "spirit of unselfish devotion and loyalty on the part of the membership."
