HOME FUR-REPAIRING

Though summer is the time furriers choose for repairing and reconditioning their customers fur home made repairs are often delayed until the first snow warns us to hasten. Though fur work should not as a rule be undertaken by amateurs there are certain repairs that any good sewer need not fear to attempt, such as reining and making small mends. In this connection it has been found that in reining a fur sent or neckpiece the silk, if silk is used as lining, will last very much longer if it is sleeked rather instead of being laid on flat. The gathering of the silk should go lengthways with the fur, and not across it. Gathering cords may be used for the purpose, or just ordinary headings. With this kind of lining it is unnecessary to make an extra piece of silk around the neck.

Wheat Prices Soar

All the coarse grains scored substantial advances under the impetus of a strong rally.

UNITY PLEA IS VOICED BY THE PREMIER

A Contemplated Rupture of Confederation Unworthy of Consideration--Annexation Talk All Propaganda.

KITCHENER, Ont., Aug. 5.—Premier King was welcomed to this city yesterday by throngs of old boys for "Canada Day" of the old boys week celebration when he arrived to spend a few hours in the city of his birth. Escorted by the Kitchener regimental band, Premier King was driven to the city hall, where he was extended a civic welcome. He participated in several functions connected with old home week. At a luncheon later, he launched into a speech on citizenship. The Premier took up the relations of Canada with the empire and the policy of Canada's annexation with the United States. "To those who think we should have no national citizenship," said the Premier, "and that ours should be only an empire citizenship, I would say with Sir Walter Scott: 'Breathes there a man with soul so dead, who never to himself hath said: This is my own, my native land? You cannot speak of an empire such as the British Empire, as your own, your native land. You dissipate all virtue and patriotism in the attempt. As Canada is true to herself and Canadians are true to Canada's high interests, so will Canadian citizenship mean most for empire citizenship.

Free Nations

"The British Empire, so far as Canada is concerned, is exactly what His Majesty the King on more than one occasion has described it to be—'A community of free nations' we have all that any nation could desire in the way of self government, more than most nations have, by way of a much-esteemed political association with other nations of like aims and ideals. Were we out of the British Empire would not the first nation with which we would wish to cooperate be those of the British Empire as it might remain? "I dismiss as unworthy of consideration any change which contemplates the breaking up of our confederation. In what better position would the people of a Canada-east or a Canada-west be than as citizens of a United Canada. What scheme can be imagined that would not work injury to Canada as a whole and a greater injury to the part more immediately concerned.

Annexation

"There remains the suggestion of annexation to the United States. I believe Canadians are concerned with such a policy to stand out on the extent that the United States is concerning herself with annexation to the British Empire. Save as an instrument of propaganda to discredit political opponents, annexation is not so much a thought of in Canada today. But were it thought of, nay, more, were it seriously proposed, what would be our attitude toward it? I know so far as I myself am concerned I should oppose the annexation with all the power at my command. Not that I do not entertain a high regard for the American people—I entertain for them the highest regard—but I believe that both they and we are better off as we are and that our joint contribution to civilization and the happiness of mankind is infinitely greater under existing conditions than it could possibly be under any new arrangement that annexation could bring.

THE REASON

A lecturer was talking on the drink question. "Now, suppose I had a pall of water and a pall of beer on this platform, and then brought on a donkey, which of the two would he take?" "He'd take the water," came a voice. "And why would he take the water?" "Because he's an ass," came the reply.

WHERE THE FRENCH ARE FIGHTING IN AFRICA. France has territories in Africa almost as large as Europe itself and the future of France may depend upon this colonial empire. The map shows where France is now engaged in war with the rebellious Rifian tribes under Abd-el-Krim who has declared himself Sultan of Morocco and who seeks to make Morocco a free and independent state.

GINGHAM AND SATIN ARE COMBINED IN THIS CHIC MORNING FROCK

The smart little tunic dress above achieves distinction through its unusual combination of gingham and satin. It is a most effective model and a recent Paris import. The foundation skirt is black satin. The tunic over this is of a smart plaid gingham of fine quality. In reds and blacks and blues. The black satin tunic is repeated in piping on the white organdie collar and cuffs.

The little hat worn with this follows the lead of the frock in using black satin piping on white felt.

The Miscouche Tea and Agricultural Meet held at Miscouche yesterday afternoon was a grand success. A great crowd attended and enjoyed every minute spent on the grounds. The ever popular tango game and other midway attractions provided amusement, while over 1200 partook of the bountiful and delectable repast served at the tea tables. There was an exhibition of a mammoth cake representing Miscouche convent and it surely was well worth seeing. St. Paul's brass band of Summerside rendered a choice programme of music. The people came by team, auto and over 200 went out on "the jitney." It was undoubtedly one of the most successful gatherings of the season.
