PITY FOR THE RICH

Richest Man in America Not to be Envied.

JOHN D. ROCKFELLER

Has Not the Health to Enjoy His Immense Wealth.

John D. Rockefeller, the wealthiest man in America, returned from a trip to Europe recently, suffering from indigestion, and several eminent specialists who diagnosed his case ordered him to the Adirondacks for a long rest.

These are some of the things he must not do and some he must do.

He mustn't bother his head about the Standard Oil Company, which is paying $48,000,000 in dividends this year, to say nothing of the profits from its 10 great banks and trust companies.

He mustn't sit up late, he mustn't smoke he mustn't drink anything but skimmed milk and mineral waters, he mustn't eat anything but graham crackers.

He must take a long walk every day, whether he feels like it or not; he must wear a flannel pad on his stomach, like a sick baby; he must watch his temperature to see that he does not get overheated; and no matter how thirsty he may be he must not drink water or milk that is cooler than his own blood.

Mr. Rockefeller has been a sufferer from acute chronic dyspepsia for about 15 years. The disease is said to be hereditary and therefore in no sense a punishment for his own over-indulgence.

He was not seriously alarmed about his condition until the spring of 1891. The disease reached so acute a stage at that time that the multi-millionaire was obliged to give up all his business activities. His weight fell off nearly 40 pounds. It was found that money could not buy relief and that he must work for it literally with the sweat of his brow.

He retired to his palace at Tarrytown, overlooking the Hudson river, dressed in a suit of overalls and joined his men in the fields. He arose at 5 every morning and worked till sunset. His energy would have secured him a position anywhere for a dollar a day.

Gradually the color came back to his face, the pains and nervousness diminished and he gained in weight. After nearly four months of the heroic treatment Mr. Rockefeller was again able to turn to his office and assume his many responsibilities.

This programme is repeated every summer. The life of a laborer for four months a year enables him to barely but through the winter. Every summer he is obliged to become a laborer again for his health's sake. That is all the fun he gets out of his vacation.

It is another curious paradox that the richest man in America must walk, despite all his horses, while the poorest man with a nickel may ride. Mr. Rockefeller's town house is on 34th street, near 5th avenue. It is so essential that he should have regular exercise that even in the winter months he almost invariably walks from his house to 23rd street before entering his carriage, which takes him to his office in lower Broadway.

Socks for Soldiers.

OTTAWA, August 22.—The report having got abroad through that the militia department the war office has ordered several thousand pairs of socks for army use the department is fairly inundated these days with inquiries by would-be contractors. One ingenious farmer wrote to say that he would be glad to supply "two dozen pairs" at "current" contract prices.

Increase and Decrease.

Since 1842 the population of England, Scotland and Wales has increased 75 per cent., while Ireland shows a decrease of 41 per cent.

DR. CARMAN BACK.

Had An Interesting Experience While on the Continent.

TORONTO, Aug. 21.—The Rev. D. Carman the venerable head of the Methodist Church in Canada, has returned to Toronto after an extended tour through England, Ireland, Scotland, Germany, Italy, Switzerland, Egypt and Palestine. The Dr. says that priests were the ruin and the curse of Jerusalem. Everywhere you turn you meet nothing but priests.

You fell over them on the streets and ran against them in every building you entered. Roman Catholic priests, Greek priests and Armenian priests and nothing else but priests. In Jerusalem Dr. Carman met many who were waiting there for the coming of the Saviour, believing that the Lord would not land anywhere on this earth except at Jerusalem.

Dr. Carman also visited Paris and its exhibition. The exhibition could not, he believed, be a financial success, because the British were not sufficiently interested. Germany and France, he considered, had the best of the fair. Canada's exhibit was fairly good, but was in a poor position.
