QUICKLY BANISHED

"I suffered years of agony through blind itching piles," says Mrs. W. Hughes, of Hochelaga St., Montreal. "Pain, loss of strength, complete misery, was my daily lot until I came across Zam-Buk. I know now that there is nothing on earth to equal this grand herb healer. Since it lifted me from misery my earnest wish is to make Zam-Buk known to all sufferers."

IDLE ISLAND By Ethel Hueston

THE STORY

Anyone, then, who wished to remove something from the Little club without attracting undue attention would most certainly run a car to the end of the road at Colony corner, for the road ended there, and carry a deserted burden through the dark and deserted woods to that point.

With this in mind, Rand turned up to the Colony corner on a dead run. Like every other islander, he carried also a revolver on his hip. As he neared the end of the road, where it fell abruptly away to a steep decline of rocks, he skirted wider into the woods behind the Shingle shack, and drew up slowly to the fringe of the woods. It was very dark, but distinctly he could make out a huge bulky shadow against the trees that outlined the end of the road. It was the motor van, beyond all shadow of doubt. There was no light attached, no sound from within, no stir of life.

Hand held his breath to listen, but it was silent as a tomb. Suspecting the presence of a guard, he dared not venture on examination, but as he knew the van could not possibly get off the island until the ferry at six twenty-five in the morning, he felt he had plenty of time.

Clingingly, then, he worked his way to the rear of the cottage, with which he was familiar, and let himself into a basement window and up through the cellar stairs to the front room. There with blankets from an adjoining bedroom, and pillows from the couch, he made himself comfortable on the floor beside the window—too comfortable, for he fell sound asleep.

Hours later he was awakened by the sudden sound of a motor, and cursing his negligence he sprang up. It was not yet full daylight, but the pale gray mist that creeps between day and night, holding a hand of each, lay over the island.

In the driver's seat of the van a man huddled in a great coat, his cap drawn low, his hand encased in shaggy gloves. The motor was cold, and he was obliged to press the starter again and again.

When the engine ran smoothly at last, the driver backed it around, carefully, for the road was narrow and the rocky cliff rugged and precipitous, with trees jutting close. As it turned Rand saw the license plates Maine, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, in conformity with the law which requires interstate vehicles to bear the license of each, and Rand had time to jot down the New Hampshire number before the car was finally backed away from him.

Rand looked at his watch. It was a quarter past six. The first ferry went over at six twenty-five. "Well planned for a getaway," he thought, approvingly. "No time for Mary Malcolm to ask them any questions." The guard stepped briskly down from the rocks and threw open the big doors in the rear of the van. A sudden jerk of his head toward the wood was evidently a signal, for on the instant appeared a line of men, small, stooped and shuffling, who came in a sort of loping run down the narrow path from the woods, single file, their soft feet making no sound at all, either on the rocks or among the dry dead needles of the pines. The guard at the back of the car gave each a hand in turn, and swung them up, deftly, into the van, one after another.

And as they turned about, facing him, to make the little spring into the car, Rand saw their faces. They were Chinese, every one, twenty-five of them by count. The guard hastily closed the door, snapped a lock upon it, and sprang up beside the driver, and almost before he was in his seat the car was rolling swiftly away down the cinder road.

A Tickling In Her Throat For Years

Mrs. Peter Johnson, Port Alberni, B.C., writes: "I had been troubled for years with a tickling in my throat every time I would lie down, and at night I would cough so I could not sleep, and could hardly do my work. I would cough until I would vomit."

"I heard of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and after the first bottle I had no more cough, and now I am never without a bottle of 'Dr. Wood's' in the house."

Price 35c. a bottle; large family size 60c. at all druggists and dealers. Put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

Annual Meeting St. Charles Auxiliary

The annual meeting of the St. Charles Auxiliary Society of the Charlottetown Hospital was held at the Hospital, Sunday, Jan. 6th, with His Lordship Bishop O'Leary and Rev. Dr. P. McMahon the chaplain present. After Benediction of the most Blessed Sacrament in St. Charles Chapel the members repaired to the Community Hall and after the opening prayer the President, Mrs. MacIntyre gave a brief report of the year's activities. She stated that financially this was the best report ever submitted and she wished to again thank the members for their loyal and whole-hearted support of each and every effort whereby the splendid work of the Charlottetown Hospital was assisted and the management enabled to maintain its high standard of efficiency and usefulness.

The Society sustained a great loss in the death of a valued member Mrs. Alfred Egan who for over twenty years gave faithful service to the cause. Her aged mother Mrs. Leahy is still a member, assisting every effort as is also Mrs. (Dr.) Conroy, one of its first and most devoted members. Mrs. J. White the Honorary President, whose record of work will never fade, and Mrs. Jas. Eden ever ready to help with splendid generosity. Through these ladies cannot be present at meetings their influence is still felt and their example emulated. Another member Miss Katherine McPhee who has given splendid service was reported as ill and the president suggested to those present that friendly visits to these shut-in members would be indeed a source of mutual enjoyment. She thanked His Lordship Bishop O'Leary for his great and fatherly interest in the Hospital and the St. Charles Auxiliary and Rev. Dr. McMahon for his splendid co-operation and counsel. To the Sisters of St. Martha she extended a tribute of deep appreciation for never-failing support and assistance in each and every way possible.

A cheque of $500 toward the Building Fund of the Hospital was handed His Lordship Bishop O'Leary and the chaplain Father McMahon was also remembered by a holiday gift.

His Lordship then addressed the meeting, saying that each year the same words of commendation were spoken, for each year the report of the year's work showed much good work done. But it was not the material and financial returns that loomed large in the mind at this time, though it was a very splendid financial report submitted; but the service given, the meritorious acts of sacrifice and effort by the individual members made a glorious report which would be recorded in the Book of Life and would surely

For one moment Rand was irritable. He could telephone to the police on the mainland, and a detail of them would meet the ferry at the pier and take the truck with its foreign freight into custody. But on after-thought it seemed that the capture of these twenty-five little old Chinese meant nothing. It was the ring that counted, the band that had grouped itself together to mock at the law. Making his decision quickly he hurriedly got out of the cottage and ran through the woods toward the Little club.

Hastily selecting the trail in the rocks where the descent was least difficult, a trail held in his memory from boyhood adventures years before, Rand dropped swiftly down, from crag to crag, until he stood in the cove. The one great door beneath the piazza was securely locked, every seam and crack impenetrably sealed.

Reluctantly he abandoned hope of admission from below and made his way up the cliffs once more. Rand knew the construction of the buildings perfectly, having assisted indeed in its erection. In the beginning there has been no bank loose of rocks beneath the piazza other than that afforded by nature, and there was a window to the basement on the eastern side, opening just above ground. Later on, for the sake of warmth, small rocks had been thrown under, and although Rand felt some distaste for the task, he felt sure that by pulling out the rocks, he could get at the window beneath the piazza floor, and thus into the basement. It was unlikely that the small basement window would be subjected to such rigid sealing, sheltered as it was behind six feet of piazza floor well washed with rocks.

bring a blessing upon those who thus gave service to God, even in small and obscure ways. "A cup of water in His name" brought His promised blessing and he urged the members to continue their work assuring them of his continued personal interest and in their lives. Father McMahon spoke of the work of the Auxiliary in terms of praise and assured the members he stood ever ready to assist in any way.

The splendid total of $3120.33 was realized from the year's work and from the amount $1000 was paid toward the building fund on account of the indebtedness of the St. Charles Auxiliary Society who have assumed voluntarily the payment of $20,000 of this account in yearly installments of $1000. There was also $1000 paid toward maintenance of the hospital thus enabling many poor people to be cared for. $700 was given to Rev. Maurice Macdonald, to be credited toward the payment of the indebtedness of St. Dunstan's congregation to the building fund. As the members of the congregation are so ever ready to assist and patronize the efforts of this Auxiliary it was as a mark of appreciation of this fact that this donation was voted. A statue of the patron saint, St. Charles Borromeo and one of Our Lady of Grace were procured for St. Charles Chapel at a cost of $170. $100 was expended on adding articles to the Hope Chest lettered the past year and $55 to assist nursing sisters convention, caste supper, etc., there still being a substantial balance on hand for emergency accounts.

The sincere thanks of the St. Charles Auxiliary Society are extended to all who have so generously helped to make the year's work so very successful.

The elections of officers resulted as follows: Rev. Dr. McMahon acting as election chairman.

Hon. President—Mrs. Thos. White. President—Mrs. W. J. MacIntyre, (re-elected by acclamation.)

Vice President—Mrs. Ellen Macdonald, (re-elected by acclamation.) Secretary—Miss Margaret Ready, (re-elected by acclamation.)

Treasurer—Sr. M. Paula, (re-elected by acclamation.)

Executive Committee—Mrs. Annie Trainor, Mrs. J. A. Macdonald and Mrs. J. J. Duffy.

Sick Visiting Committee—Mrs. Alex Coady, and Mrs. R. J. Macdonald.

Rev. Dr. McMahon, Spiritual Director.

It was voted to hold another Hope Chest lottery and to make this an annual feature of the Auxiliary work. In addition to the well filled hope chest there will be four other substantial prizes, thus making the number of lucky winners five. Whist parties will be held in the Nurses' Home every Thursday night to raise a fund toward this lottery.

After the close of the meeting the Sisters gave a treat of chocolates to those present and season's greetings and optimistic assurances of continued success were exchanged and thus another year's work for the Charlottetown Hospital was outlined and begun under most harmonious circumstances, it being the expressed wish of all that it may come to an equally happy conclusion.

Now You Can Get Delivery On The Famous "Four-Twenty" ROGERS Batteryless RADIO

Only $165 Complete (except Speaker) The Biggest Value in the Whole Field of Electric Radio

It would have been nice, of course, to have had a Rogers in time for the Holidays—but even some of the folks who ordered sets early were disappointed this year. The flood of orders from those who wanted Batteryless Radio was more than the Rogers factory—even with its enlarged facilities—could cope with, temporarily. Now, however, you can get delivery on practically any of the new, 1929 Models—including the famous "Four-Twenty" Model shown above. This Model "Four-Twenty" Rogers is, just as our headline states: "The biggest value in the whole field of electric radio." The model that preceded it was first introduced to the public in 1926 and outsold all other electric sets in 1927 at $225! The present price of $165 is only possible because of Rogers greatly increased production and you can rest assured that if any other comparable electric radio could be sold at this price you would soon hear about it.

Ask Us To Show You...

Test this famous model as to distance, selectivity, volume, tonality (any way you wish) in your own home at our expense. If it doesn't perform to your entire satisfaction send it back. If it does—and it will—we'll make it easy for you to keep it.
