The second started with a little over nine and before the period was over Estabrooks had netted the puck for the only counter of the regulation time.

The third stanza was a repetition of the first with St. John putting all they knew into the play, but Sussex played on the defensive and held

Mr. Eddie Hornby, teller of the Provincial Bank in this city and a doughty bicycle rider who has many trophies to his credit, has presented a handsome silver cup to be presented to the best all round athlete at the Queen Square sports on next Tuesday evening.

Mr. Hornby, who was the winner of the Governor General's medal on his leaving year at school, has never forgotten his Alma Mater and on each occasion on which sports are held has always donated a prize.

The Babe's Successor ??

Big league baseball managers through their corps of scouts are still searching avidly for Babe Ruth's successor, but that is like trying to discover another Napoleon, another Shakespeare, another Aristotle from any conceivable angle of human effort.

In the busy person of Smead Jolley, arch-batter of the Pacific Coast League during the past two seasons, San Francisco's Seals told him to the White Sox for a reputed price of $50,000.

Like the immortal Babe, Jolley is an outfielder of Routhian build. He made a coast hitting record with .494 in 1922, and last season belted 'em for .385. And, like the Babe, Jolley has a great throwing arm—his right. He's in his early twenties—'an', oh, that Ruth were that again!

Last season Jolley hit thirty-five homers against all styles of pitching. Two years ago John McGraw of the Giants passed him up because of reports that the big Arkansan "ran too long in one place," he was not so hot running bases. Later reports indicate, however, that Jolley had remedied that fault, and Frisco experts assure all that "Jolley was a better player out here than Harry Heilmann," who went so big with Detroit after graduation from the Coast.

Whether or not this Arkansas traveler proves "another Ruth," Jolley certainly is the most publicized of all this winter's big league recruits. Which may prove a handicap, of course, for it is hard, indeed, to come up to such advance billings from the start.

"Another Ruth?" You can hear the bleachers "bronz" that very idea already!

(Canadian Press) DALLAS, Texas, Feb. 19.—Hope that Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion of the world, would attempt a comeback next summer against Primo Carnera, 279 pound Italian mauler was expressed here today by Leon See, Carnera's manager. We are negotiating for the fight and feel reasonably sure it will go through, See said, adding that Dempsey had practically promised the fight if no one beats Carnera before midsummer. See and his giant boxer stopped here between trains to New Orleans where Carnera meets Jack McAlliffe next Monday.

EVA MORRISON BASKETBALL SEEMS TO LIKE AT THE Y HER COLD DIP

"They Raise 'Em Right Where I Come From," She Says.

BOSTON, Feb. 19.—Miss Eva Morrison, of Picton, N. S., proved her right to the title of Queen of New England mermaids when she played in the icy waters off Savin Hill Beach yesterday, with the temperature around zero mark.

Miss Morrison, who has retired undefeated as N. E. Women's long distance swimming champion, went to the beach with Harry Mains, Billy Craig and Jack Brown, well known L. S. "Brownies." Clad in regular bathing suits, the quartet dispersed on the ice, playing leapfrog and diving, and finishing with a plunge in the frigid water.

After five minutes of frolic, the men were all perfectly willing to "call it a day," but Eva remained to exhibit a few more strokes before heading for shore, "kidding" the young men for "leaving a defenceless girl in difficulties."

"They raise 'em right where I come from," remarked Eva as she dressed and started up town for an appetizing full-course meal.

An interesting and energetic game of basketball was played last evening in the "Y" when the Business Girls defeated the fast Prince Street School team by the score of 14-7. Both teams worked hard, the only difficulty being a tendency to hold the ball too long before passing or moving. The score of the P. S. G. team was very evenly divided, while the Business Girls, led by Jean Grant, who was high scorer with 8 points, played more individually. The score and line ups are as follows:

P. S. G. Business Girls B. Rogers 2 J. Grant 8 G. Rogers L. Duchesne H. McKie 1 G. Saunders T. Currie 1 J. McKenzy 2 E. Macinnis 3 J. Winchener A. McGee 4

George Young who was acclaimed a few years ago in Toronto and throughout the world as one of the athletic marvels of the ages is back and friendless in California. He is roughing it out there and according to reports thinning down on a regime in which skipped meals played a prominent part. Young tasted the cup of success, and is now munching the albes of defeat. But yesterday he might have stood against the world so far as swimming feats were considered, and today there are none who turn to give him even passing recognition.

His case is indicative of the fleeting fame that haizes the athletic hero. A champion today, the acclaimed of the multitude, the darling of the mutable many; and tomorrow forgotten and oft derided. Young was no pretty hero when the world was his oyster. His petulance and boorishness in disdaining the favors of those who tried to honor him are still fresh in the public mind.

His manager who has not lost faith in his ability to make a comeback declares that roughing will help him realize his possibilities and that he will again become a champion.

In the meantime his decline from fame and fortune, to his aged present condition is an object lesson to those who would seek the bubble reputation in sport without at the same time holding tenaciously to the gifts that brought them to their heights.

Dinny Dinsmore who is again back in the Maroon hold was one of their stalwarts in 1925-26 when they won the championship of the world. His speciality was scientific ragging and it is in this line he is expected to distinguish himself with the Maroons. Dinsmore was always a capable type of player in this sphere and was very popular with the crowd. He retired several years ago to attend to business, but has found the lure of the game too strong to resist. He has practiced faithfully this year and is confident he can do a comeback. His efforts in this direction will add spice to the waning season.
