MacWalker performed the ceremony in the presence of a few intimate friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Merril Stewart—uncle and aunt of the bridegroom. After the ceremony a wedding supper was served. Mr. Yates is one of Kingsboro's young men who is active in the life of the community and his many friends congratulate him in that he has learned the truth of the words: "He that findeth a wife findeth good and the favor of the Lord." A few years ago, when the call of King and Country came, Robert donned the khaki in the spirit of the genuine Canadian, thus showing that he considered citizenship not only a privilege to be prized, but one to be deferred, as well. Miss Young is a daughter of Howard and the late Mrs. Young, and she also has a large place n the hearts of her friends, who prize her for her genuine worth and who are heartily glad that her marriage has not removed her from her native village. "Many years of wedded bliss!" are the words that spring from the hearts to the lips of their many friends.—

One of the most impressive diets of worship in the history of St. James Presbyterian Church was held yesterday when Rev. Mr. Muir conducted the service of the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper at the conclusion of the following service. The downstairs of the church was crowded and there was an overflow to the gallery. As Easter coincided with the Communion, music suitable to the joint celebration was splendidly rendered by the choir under Mr. Watkis, and the congregational singing was unusually hearty. The Presbyterian order services as conducted by Mr. Muir is most reverent and impressive, following as it does the practice and devotional direction of the Church of Scotland in the large city congregations of Edinburgh, Glasgow and Aberdeen. Sunday morning's service was preceded by a week of prayer and instruction conducted by the minister, and one of the results of this personal consecration and preparation was that Sunday's service gave evidence of a genuine revival in the church's life. No fewer than 178 communicants sat down to the Lord's Supper, including eleven youths who publicly made their profession of faith for the first time, a twelfth being unable to attend through illness. It must be extremely gratifying to Mr. Muir to find this spirit of devotion and service in St. James Church, the more especially as he had been warned on receiving the unsought call that St. James was dead numerically and spiritually. A consecrated ministry preaching the old fashioned gospel and rule of life has found willing and heartfelt response from the people. St. James church is leading in a real revival throughout the Province not of emotionalism but sane Christian living.

Many citizens called upon Mr. J. E. B. MacCready yesterday to offer their hearty congratulations on his 87th Birthday. Few men have, in soundness of mind and body been privileged to celebrate the passing of the 87th milestone. Notwithstanding his years, which indeed have fallen lightly upon him, Mr. MacCready still wields a fresh and vigorous pen and is known throughout Canada as "The Veteran Journalist." In addition to the personal congratulations from his friends in the city telegrams of felicitation and good wishes were received from many in the sister provinces among which are the following:

Ottawa, April 3,

The Governor General desires me to send you his congratulations on the anniversary of your 87th birthday and trusts that you may long be spared to continue your active and useful work. (Sgd) Private Secretary.

Bonnell, Sydney, W. Chester S. McLure (at present in Toronto) Mr. and Mrs. G. Frank Beer, Toronto, and many family relatives and personal friends.

To all the felicitations received The Guardian adds its congratulations and joins in the very general wish for many happy returns.

After a few days illness Mr. J. J. Fyfe passed away at his home in Kensington, March 11th, 1926 at the age of 71 years. He was born in Margate and for twenty-two years after his marriage he made his home in Clinton, and from there he and his wife, who predeceased him just one year ago, moved to Margate where they resided until fourteen years ago when they removed to Kensington.

Bro. Fyfe united with the Methodist Church at Margate in 1870 when fifteen years of age, during the ministry of Rev. Wm. Ryan. During the fifty-six years in which he was a member, he always manifested a deep interest in the work of the Church. For many years he was a teacher of young men in the Sunday School and held other offices, such as Steward and Trustee.

He was a man of strong conviction, and with a firm faith in Christ his Savior he passed away, saying to his Pastor a short time before his death, that he had no fear, but was trusting in the promises of God.

During his visit a tablet to his honor will be unveiled in Aberdeen Hospital, in appreciation of the part he exercised as a pioneer in establishing that institution. At that time Rev. Mr. Carruthers was minister of James Presbyterian Church, New Glasgow, and he stimulated the interests from the platform and through the press, that finally induced the citizens to undertake the proposition—New Glasgow Chronicle. (Rev. Dr. Carruthers was a former pastor of St. James Church, Charlottetown.

TO SUPPORT DUNSTAFFNAGE.— The cream producers of Bangor District held a meeting in Bangor School on the evening of March 31st, presided over by Mr. J. Robbins Compton to discuss T. S. McGrath's revived creamery proposition, and after full discussion, the following resolution moved by John Compton and seconded by Roderick Grant was unanimously adopted. Whereas, that upon having failed to come to any satisfactory agreement in regard to the erection of a creamery in Morell, when the question was under discussion last spring, and that since that time, we have established satisfactory relations with Dunstaffnage Creamery Ltd., and have taken stock in same. Therefore, be it resolved that we, the cream producers of Bangor District, cannot now with honor, subscribe to the proposition of T. S. McGrath, Morell, or withdraw our patronage from Dunstaffnage Creamery. We regret that Mr. McGrath did not see fit to go forward with his work last spring but consider that the time has now gone by.

Peacefully fell asleep in Jesus on the 20th March 1926, Angus Lamont, of Sydney, C. Breton, formerly of Orwell. P. E. Island, in the 74th year of his age.

The Sydney Post remarks:—"Angus Lamont was a well known and highly respected resident of Ward V—a public spirited citizen who took an interest in all movements for community betterment. He was an elder in the Presbyterian Church and superintendent in one of its Sunday Schools.

Mr. Lamont who was born in Lyndale, P. E. Island was a son of Elven Lamont, a leading elder under Rev. D. MacDonald a minister of Provincial renown in his day.

Mr. Angus Lamont was a public school teacher for about 20 years. Latterly for some time he carried on farming in Stanchel and in 1901 he removed to Sydney, C. Breton, where he successfully carried on a grocer business. It is a remarkable fact that although the trouble from which he died was an inward cancer, yet he suffered almost no pain. Until the day he entered the hospital he went cheerfully about hisw ork as usual, and after the operation passed peacefully to his rest.

Mr. Lamont was from his youth intensely religious and to the last kept abreast of all ecclesiastical movements and doctrinal developments. He contended all his life for the faith once for all given to the saints. He was an elder in St. James Church. Sydney, till that Church entered Union when he quietly but firmly severed from its communion—declaring his belief that in this creed-dissolving age it was the duty of Christians to hold forth an unwavering testimony on the essentials of the faith. This he professed to find in the continuing Presbyterian Church.

The funeral service was held in the Presbyterian Hall at Whitney Pier, where Mr. Lamont had so often led in public prayer and where he had conducted school even the Sabbath before his death.

Dr. MacCulloch Thomson of Sydney Presbyterian Church who conducted the service testified to Mr. Lamont's loyalty as an elder and worker in the church. He touchingly referred to his conversation in his boyhood in one of the Minister MacDonald's revivals.

"And now to think" remarked Dr. Thomson that only the other day, he stood in this same hall and led us in prayer. There was a strange wistfulness in his eyes and a fervency in his prayer that betokened, though we knew it not, the near approach of the glorious change."

Interment took place at Eastmount Cemetery, Sydney, the Sesacting as pall-bearers. Mr. Lamont is survived by his widow and two sons. John at home; Angus in New York; also by four daughters, Sadie, (Mrs. Dodson) and Katie.

The death of Florence MacKinnon which occurred at her home in Alexandra on the tenth day of February was a source of unusual sorrow and regret to her family, to her friends, and to the community in general. Her passing at an early age, while deeply enamoured by the beauties of art and the wonders of science,and with bright prospects of a happy life is particularly sad.

Her life, which was spent mostly at her homeseemed always to produce on those who came within her sphere a beneficial and permanent influense. Her keen intellect and ready wit made her an agreeable companion to those of more mature years, while her blithe and generous disposition made her a general favorite among the younger people and especially the children in whom she always delighted.

A full appreciation of her worth can be had only by those who knew her intimately, and in the transition her family and friends have sustained a grievius loss. There are left to mourn her demise her mother and three brothers, Reginald, in his final year at Howard University, George, of the staff of Queen Square School, and Alphhonsus at home,also an adopted brother Richard at home. The following were the pall-bearers; Winston Smith, Gay Judson, Roland Cody, John McMillan, Bruce Judson, and Wilfred Judson.

ISLANDER DEAD.—Mr. E. H. Beer received a telegram yesterday morning from San Diego, California, announcing the sudden death of Dr. Harry C. Goff. Mr. Beer left San Diego on March 26, where he had been spending a week with Dr. Goff. At that time the doctor was apparently in excellent health, and was attending to his business as usual. His apperance would indicate that he had many years of usefulness still before him. The late Dr. Goff was a native of Woodville Mills, near Cardigan, King's County, this Province. Dr. Harry was the last of four brothers of the Goff family, namely, Richard E., George E., Louis W. and Reverend Fade Goff, all of whom predeceased him.

Mrs. Milton Roe Sabin and Mrs William James Melton who escorted the remains of their sister, Miss Lillian eatrice Gorman, Tulsa, Oklahoma, left recently for their home in Tulsa. Mrs. Sabin was formerly Miss Bertha Gorman and Mrs. Melton, Miss Edith Gorman of Charlottetown. Their mother Mrs. John Gorman and brother Frank reside in Charlottetown.

Others left to mourn the loss of a loving sister are: James Frederick, Los Angeles Russell, Portland, Oregon; John, New Orleans.

During the past four and a half years the deceased had made her home with her sister, Mrs. Sabin at 207 East Woodward Bldg, Tulsa Oklahoma.

Coming after so short an illness, Miss Gorman's death was a shock not only to her family but to her host of friends here and in Tulsa.

The death Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock of Peter Clarkin removed from this life one of Charlottetown's oldest and most respected citizens.

Born in Iona about 79 years ago, deceased removed to this city when quite young and entered the employ of the Steam Navigation Company, where by his sobriety, honesty and strict attention to duty he became Chief on the Company's wharf, which position he held until the advent of the car ferry when the company went out of commission.

For fifty one years the late Mr. Clarkin was to be found at his post and it is a known fact that in all that time he lost only one half a day, and that through illness.

For many years deceased was associated with his brother Patrick in the coal trade, conducting an excellent business on Bruce Stewart and Co.'s wharf.

When the Navigation Company closed their offices the late Mr. Clarkin retired and has been living a quiet life at his home in this city generally spending his summers in Souris.

He was twice married, his first wife Anastasia Power, having predeceased him about twenty years ago.

In 1914 he married Annie Kickham, daughter of the late John Kickham, M. L. A. of Souris, who survives.

The deceased was extremely fond of reading and was well posted on the current affairs of the day.

He leaves to mourn besides a sorrowing widow, two sisters Margaret and Mrs. John Coyle and an adopted daughter Mrs. Jas. Lightizer, all of this city, to whom the Guardian extends sincere sympathy.

A TREMENDOUS SALE. — The auction on the premises of Joseph Storey at Milton took place Wednesday. Such a crowd has scarcely been seen at a sale, all of which shows the state of prosperity now existing in the rural districts. Some time ago Mr. Storey sold the farm for $7,000 and yesterday the sale netted another $4,000. A large amount of this was paid right down in cash. Horses went from $80 to $190, cattle $65 to $135, pigs (brood) as high as $60, oats $1.00 per bushel, hay $12.00, potatoes $2.25.
