Mr. D. McKenzie was chairman and Mr. J. A. Ready, secretary. The committee appointed previously then presented what they considered a suitable act. It was largely based on that of the town of Alberton, a few minor changes having been made It is comprised of over 150 sections and was submitted to the meeting clause by clause and adopted. —TEMPERANCE ALLIANCE. — A meeting of the Prince County Temperance Alliance held in the Presbyterian Church, Summerside, Wednesday evening was well attended, many representative citizens of Summerside being present. Rev. H. D. Fraser was in the chair. The first speaker was Mr. George E. Full of Charlottetown. Mr. Full proved himself a most efficient speaker as he scored point after point in his indictment of the liquor traffic. He cited instances which had come under his own observation showing 'the necessity of more earnest work on the part of the temperance people. He showed that the Prohibition Act had done affective work where it has been effectively and impartially enforced. The next speaker was Rev. Mr. Wilson, Secretary of the P. E. I. Temperance Alliance. The strenuous campaign in which he has been engaged in the recent months has put him in splendid trim for platform work. Mr. Wilson assured the people that what seemed to many as defects in the present campaign would prove to be the greatest victories. He said those in charge of the campaign had no intention of abating their efforts. The larger part of the fight is still before us. The temperance forces and legislators are learning the situation as they have never known it before. After the public meeting closed a large number of the representative men of Summerside met the speaker in conference concerning the work. Excellent music was rendered from a large choir gathered from various churches under the direction of Miss Harrison, organist of the Presbyterian Church.

AN AMERICAN GIVES HIS OPINION

A friend in New York writing to a gentleman in this city, has this to say of the Travel, Vacation and Sportsmen's Show being held during the present week in New York City:

Messrs. C. M. and myself were up to the Sportmen's Show this noon, which, by the way, is being held in the Grand Central Palace. They have on exhibition a few fur-bearing animals. Among them are two silver black foxes, property of the Maritime Black Foxes, Ltd. These are the first we have ever seen, and they certainly do look beautiful. They are attracting a lot of attention, which no doubt will help our dividends as they say "advertising pays." I am enclosing you two clippings one from the New York Sun of last week, the other from the New York Times of the 6th inst.

(From N. Y. Sun.)

The third annual Travel, Vacation and Sportman's exhibition will open in the Grand Central Palace Thursday afternoon. A large collection of live fur-bearing animals, including a black fox and a silver fox, valued at $30,000, will be exhibited. Ernest Thompson Seton will show a collection of about a dozen species and will lecture on fur farming.

Official nights will be designated for receptions of the Camp Fire Club, the Canadian Camp Club, the Boone and Crockett Club, the Arctic Club and the Explorers' Club. A special guides' night will be an occasion when the guides will tell stories of big game shooting and answer questions. Also a night will be devoted to the discussion of forest, fish and game conservation, when notable authorities will speak on these subjects. There will be State and Federal exhibits of forest, fish and game conservation, including a large collection of live game birds and fishes.

(From N. Y. Times)

Back to nature was the watchword of the thousands who visited the New Grand Central Palace yesterday afternoon and evening, which sessions marked the opening of the Travel, Vacation, and Sportsmen's Show, with a host of exhibits, under conditions which warrant the belief that it will eclipse any similar exhibition ever given in this city. During the evening session it required the resourcefulness of a football centre rush for one to make his way through the throngs which swarmed through the exhibition halls.

Numerous trees have been used in the interior decorations, with the result that the Palace is a reproduction of a forest in many of its parts, while yard upon yard of painted canvas, serving as a background, depicts a panoramic illustration of the Grand Canyon, the Rocky Mountains, and other big game regions.

The whole makes a most picturesque setting for a show the environment of which made many wish for the holiday season and the scenes shown. True to nature were the camps of guides from New Brunswick, Maine, the Adirondacks, and from far-off Alberta, each showing a complete outfit in a natural setting of trees and foliage.

One of the principal exhibits in the live-animal line were two black foxes, which were stated to be valued at $15,000 each. They are as beautiful as they are rare, and their pen was besieged with spectators from opening to closing time. There were also red foxes, mink, and beaver, the latter being quartered in a tank of water, in which they took delight in disporting themselves.

The exhibit of camp equipments, fishing tackle, guns, and boats are seemingly minor considerations to the main objects of the exposition, the crowds passing such up in an endeavor to get a view of the animals, fish, and the like.

Trapshooting promises to be one of the competitive sides of the show, and fifteen teams of five men each began their preliminary work incidental to the championship events, which will begin this afternoon. Chief among those who took part yesterday were R. L. Spotts, one of the best amateurs; Neaf Apgar, a professional; Dr. Sauer, Hank Stevens, and many other prominent trap experts. Dr. Sauer was high gun, with 49 breaks out of a possible 50, while Hank Stevens broke 25 straight.

This afternoon will mark the commencement of the fly-casting and trap-shooting contests.

Campfire Club members gathered in force during the evening session. Among the interested spectators were fifteen Chippewa Indians, who found much to engage their attention. In the exhibit are many valuable fur-bearing animals, as well as hundreds of mounted heads and dressed pelts, ranging from fox and mink to tiger and lion skins. The exhibition will continue until Saturday, March 14.

The foxes to which reference is made above were supplied by the Maritime Black Fox Co. of New Brunswick, of which Hon. John Agnew is Vice-President.

THE MATCHLESS SILVER BLACK FOX CO

Investors will be interested in the advertisement, which appeared in The Guard an of yesterday and will appear again on Monday, of The Matchless Silver Black Fox Co., for several reasons. The personnel of the directorate will certainly appeal to business men. Every name is well and favorably known in business circles, some of them in the largest and most successful industrial and mercantile concerns in the province and each having a reputation for business shrewdness and integrity that will be maintained in anything they undertake.

As becomes their well-known astuteness in business and recognizing the conditions upon which permanency in the fox business is to be founded they are beginning business with the best stock procurable in Prince Edward Island, which means the best fox stock in the world. Their determination to have nothing in their ranch but pedigreed and properly certificated stock will commend their undertaking to all who know anything about the fox business. They promise that a complete pedigree shall be provided with each pair of foxes, and that a certificate proving their eligibility for registration in Class A of the P. E. Island Fox Breeders' Association will be furnished. Such stock is dependable and all the future of the fox business depends upon this assurance.

Attention is directed to the provision that all the young foxes are to be left for the first year in ranches that have proved successful rather than experiment with unaccustomed surroundings. Seven pairs have already been provided with a domicile under the care of one of the most experienced ranchmen in the province, while options have been secured on some of the best fox blood of the province.

This company, with ten pairs of the best foxes procurable, is issuing $175,000 stock at $100 a share on easy terms of payment, namely, 20 per cent. with application, 20 per cent. when the pups are on foot and the balance in August. All money paid before August 1st will bear savings bank interest from date of payment till that date. Look out for this advertisement again on Monday.
