JUNE TERM OF SUPREME COURT

Opened in S' Side Yesterday Morning—Two Criminal Bills Before Grand Jury—Mr. W. H. Noonan Called to the Bar.

The June term of the Supreme Court opened in Summerside yesterday morning with Judge Arsenault presiding. There were two criminal bills before the Grand Jury, the King versus Stanley Wedge (charged with forgery), the King vs. Howard Trowsdale, (charged with theft). The Jury found true bills in both cases. Stanley Wedge on being arraigned pleaded "guilty". Howard Trowsdale was arraigned and pleaded "not guilty". His case will be taken up when the court opens this morning.

The following composed the Grand Jury:—A. S. MacKay, Summerside, (foreman), Davis Baker, Freetown, Clarence Morrissey, Tignish, Albert MacKinnon, North St. Eleanor's; Emerson Mathews, Alberton; Sydney C. Clark, Angusville; Roddy J. McNeill, Tynes Valley; Joseph Gallant, Abrams Village; Howard Muttart, Summerside; Peter J. Cameron, Southwest Lot 16; John R. Bowness, Centreville; Cephas Gregg, West Devon.

Mr. W. Henry Noonan was called to the Bar upon motion of Mr. Heath Strong, K. C., and the young lawyer was congratulated by His Lordship who complimented him on the high marks he had made in his examinations which made it possible to be admitted one year sooner than is ordinarily the case. Arsenault hoped that he would have the same success in his practice of his profession that he had made as a student at law.

Three absent debtor cases and five non jury cases were taken up yesterday and disposed of.

Necessities of Life May be Restricted

(Canadian Press)
PARIS, June 8.—The period "of sackcloth and ashes" predicted some time ago by Joseph Caillaux, former Minister of Finance, is upon France and the public accepts it with resignation but reluctance. It is connected with the battle to save the franc and it anticipates restrictions in the consumption of bread, meat and other necessities.

55TH ANNUAL MEETING OF THE C. M. A.

(Canadian Press)
TORONTO, June 8.—With members present from every province, in the dominion and prospects bright for a very successful three day session the 55th annual general meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers Association opened at the King Edward Hotel here this morning. In view of the problems confronting Canadian industry at the present time the discussions of the Association assume an added importance.

At today's sessions the reports of the treasurer, the executive committee, the insurance committee, the publishing committee, and the general manager, will be delivered. The five divisions of the C. M. A. located in the Maritime Provinces, Quebec, Ontario, the prairie provinces and British Columbia, will present reports of the year's work in these localities.

The speaker at the luncheon was J. H. Fortier of Quebec, president of the C. M. A. The President's address is always one of the major events of the convention, as it is the Association's official pronouncement on the industrial situation.

No Agreement Reached at Coal Conference

(Canadian Press)
LONDON, June 8.—Representatives of the mine owners and miners held a protracted conference here today but failed to arrive at an agreement to end the long coal-ship-up.

LONDON, June 8.—The necessity for conserving coal because of the prolongation of the miners strike brought another restrictive order from the government today. The order prohibits the use of coal by pleasure boats or steamers plying on harbor estuaries, rivers, canals, lakes or other inland bodies of water in Great Britain unless a permit is obtained. Public ferry boats are exempted.

Cadet Corps Inspected Yesterday

Hardened troops could scarcely have gone through a military review with better appearance or more disciplined conduct than did the cadet corps of Queen Square and West Kent schools respectively on the occasion of their annual inspection in Victoria Park yesterday afternoon.

There was a gratifyingly large attendance of spectators, evidence of the great interest taken in the cadet work of these two schools. Shortly before three o'clock the inspection of the Queen Square Corps began, those taking part in the review being His Honor Lieut. Governor Hearty, his Aide, Col. S. R. Jenkins, and Captain Logan, Cadet Inspecting Officer for Military District No. 6.

No more favorable weather could have been provided for the event, and the boys went through the march past (with His Honor taking the salute), company and column drill, and all the other military manoeuvres from A to Z. The appearance presented by both units, dressed in khaki uniforms and in most companies carrying rifles, would have done credit to much more experienced and seasoned soldiers. Each move and tactic was carried out with ease and precision and the leadership was excellent. It is safe to say that the standards of both corps in other years have been fully maintained and that both units will rank high when compared with those of other places.

The officer commanding the Queen Square Cadet Corps is Arthur Gormley, and the instructor Mr. Leo McDonald, Fred Pickard commanded the West Kent Corps, of which the instructor was Mr. Vernon MacLeod.

LORD WILLINGDON APPOINTED GOV.-GENERAL OF CANADA

Succeeding Baron Byng of Vimy, Who Retires Next Month—New Governor-General Has Had Distinguished Career as Soldier, Statesman and Diplomatist—Is at Present Engaged on a Mission to China—Interesting Biographical Sketch

(Canadian Press)
LONDON, June 8.—It was officially announced today that Lord Willingdon of Rattan has accepted the appointment as Governor-General of Canada succeeding Baron Byng of Vimy, who retires next month.

Certain popular sayings warn us to look out when all men praise us, and tell us that a prophet, however well he may stand with the world at large, has no honor in his own country. Lord Willingdon must be one of the exceptions to the general application of these rules, for those anywhere who do not speak well of him must be few, and those in his own country—in his home district—who do not give him honor simply do not exist.

Has Played Many Parts

Alike in his private relationship and in his public life he bears the character of a courteous and high-principled English gentleman, and from friend or stranger he could have no better certificate. In the County of Sussex, in which practically all his domestic interests are centred, his position is unassailable. The people to whom he is going will be glad to know that this is how he stands among his own folk. In his public career they are perhaps able to judge him for themselves. They know that already he has "done the State some service." Also, doubtless, they are informed on the variety of the activities which have helped to build up for him an excellent reputation.

He is known as student, sportsman, soldier, courier, parliamentarian, Minister, Statesman, Governor, and diplomatic minister; in fact he has played many parts—all with a good measure of success and some with such marked distinction as to earn the warm approval of his countrymen and a sneer of Royalty. As is well known he is even at this moment engaged on a State mission to the Far East, helping out the situation of the Government in the numerous provinces of administering the millions involved in the return of the Boxer Rebellion indemnities.

It will hardly have been so soon forgotten that in January last when Lord Willingdon was on his way across Canada to China on this mission—a journey which he has declared was most instructive and enjoyable—rumor were circulating in the Dominion that he was designed to succeed Lord Byng of Vimy at Ottawa, and that when interviewed on the subject he answered the press representatives in the language of diplomacy, though his reply was regarded as being "in the negative." Events have proved that in these rumors there was more significance and truth than was at the time apparent.

Political Affiliations

Lord Willingdon's inherited political faith was Liberal, and he himself in his Parliamentary days adhered to Liberalism, which was indeed the creed of all those who claimed kinship with him—his wife's family as well as his own. But he had no passion for politics, and he may be inferred from the fact he reached his 34 years of age before he reached the House of Commons. Probably such predilections as he had for a political career may be traced more to the maternal than the paternal side of his family. The political strain in his mother's blood it may be assumed was strong, for her father when H. B. W. Brand fought many battles in the constituencies before the Liberals placed him in the Speaker's chair. One can well imagine that the example of his maternal grandfather, and that of his father-in-law, who was a star of considerable magnitude in the political firmament, had much influence in eventually turning Mr. Freeman-Thomas's steps in the direction of Westminster, via the borough of Hastings. Lord Brassey was the head of a family which in the course of a generation had taken firm root in the Sussex soil, had built themselves a palace called Normanhurst, near Battle, and had both socially and officially become leaders in the district. The founder of the family fortunes, Thomas Brassey, who amassed great wealth as a contractor for the building of railways, canals and the like, was one of the most famous specimens of England's self-made men of the early 19th Century. Lord Brassey was in several ways a great man. No man of his time was more active figure in public and political life, no man cultivated a broader more varied field of endeavor—intellectual, scientific, and practical—and as he deduced him a very valuable support of achievement. His work was remarkable. Some of his best work was done at the Admiralty where he was at different times Civil Lord and Secretary. He wrote a time leader of his party and did much on naval matters, was the founder and first editor of the "Naval Annual" and was a practical seaman, holding a Board of Trade master's certificate. Every body knows that he was the owner of

Influence of Lord Brassey

Sound as were his own merits, Mr. Freeman-Thomas doubtless owed some part of his success in this election to the Brassey influence, at that period all-powerful in Hastings. Lord Brassey was the head of a family which in the course of a generation had taken firm root in the Sussex soil, had built themselves a palace called Normanhurst, near Battle, and had both socially and officially become leaders in the district. MANITOBA CONSERVATIVES OPTIMISTIC

Party Convention Opened in Winnipeg Yesterday—Large Attendance of Delegates.

(By Our Special Correspondent)
WINNIPEG, June 8.—The Conservatives gathered in convention in the Marlborough Hotel, in this City to perfect their organization and be in readiness for the Provincial election which must come within the next year.

(Reports received from many rural points coupled with the enthusiasm so much in evidence indicate the certainty of a very successful Convention.)

A full quota of five delegates for each of the fifty-five Provincial seats as well as many others who will come unaccredited were present.

The Convention was presided over by Mr. N. K. Boyd, President of the Provincial Association, a somewhat picturesque figure linking the present with the past, for while Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen was as yet a teen aged boy attending school in the Township of Blanchard in Perth County, Ontario, Nat. Boyd was sitting for Marquette in the Federal Parliament. Strangers meeting him for the first time would never dream that in 1891 he was a heavily bearded man, looking older than he does today. He is youthful in spirit which no doubt helps him to remain youthful in appearance. He has put great enthusiasm into his work and a large share of the credit for the success of the Convention must fall to him. Closely associated with Mr. Boyd in all the work of the Convention are the Conservative members of the House. At the present time there are but seven Conservative members in the legislature but although not strong numerically in the House the party is nevertheless strong both in the Assembly and in the Province at large.

Major Taylor, leader of the group is a man who has already achieved worth while things and gives promise of greater achievements. An officer who was with him at Vimy reported that Fawcett G. Taylor was the first man he saw climb over the top of Vimy Ridge. He is physically large and equally large intellectually as well as great in heart and soul. He is almost idolized by thousands of the returned men. He is a man of sound judgment, clear vision and fluency of speech. He has steadily gained in prestige ever since he was chosen to lead his party. There is in the Province a growing feeling that Manitoba needs Major Taylor at the helm.

The other six members of the group are Mr. W. Sanford Evans, Mr. J. T. Haig, Hon. Jos. Bernier, Mr. R. G. Willis, Mr. F. Y. Newton, and Mr. John Kennedy.

Mr. Evans, one of the Conservative members of Winnipeg, is a master mind in the study and explanation of all that relates to sound business in his discussion of Provincial finances and suburban municipal problems, he has shown his ability to analyze and get things down to a rock bottom basis. He is one of the most useful members in the House and is a source of strength to his party.

Mr. J. T. Haig, the other Conservative member for Winnipeg is perhaps the most peppy speaker in the House. He was for a number of years a member of the City School Board and always takes a deep interest in all that relates to the educational problems of our Province. Some of his broad sides against the government for its lack of policy and lack of initiative have been very effective.

Hon. Jos. Bernier, although only a little past the half century mark has had quite a long experience in the House. With the possible exception of Hon. T. C. Norris, he has had more years in the Assembly than any other member. At the time of the outgoing of the Roblin Government in 1915, Mr. Bernier was Provincial Secretary, so his experience as Cabinet Minister adds to his experience in the House.

Mr. R. G. Willis is a farmer and a member and is one of Manitoba's big successful farmers. He was for a time leader of his party and did much on naval matters, was the founder and first editor of the "Naval Annual" and was a practical seaman, holding a Board of Trade master's certificate. Every body knows that he was the owner of

GEN. ASSEMBLY PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Montreal Presbyterian College Confers Degree Upon Rev. Robert Johnston.

(By Our Special Correspondent)
MONTREAL, June 7.—The convocation of the Montreal Presbyterian College held on Friday afternoon is worthy of a larger notice. Intense satisfaction was expressed by all the speakers to the Provincial Legislature of Quebec for their clear-sighted vision of justice and righteousness and their courage in giving expression to it. At the opening of the ceremony Rev. Dr. Fraser expressed great pleasure at seeing such a crowd of people present, and referred to it as an indication of the high regard in which the Presbyterian Church in Canada is held in all parts of the dominion. "I have had letters from all parts of Canada expressing great delight in the restoration of the college to the church" he said. "During the past few years the college has been deprived of its center, and has been unable to confer degrees on worthy men. More recently the split in the church made the election of men for honorary degrees even more difficult and it was thought not advisable to advance any names for the degree. This great gathering today marks a new eve in the Presbyterian Church in Canada" said Principal Fraser.

The highest honor in the possession of this College was then conferred on the following worthy ministers: Rev. Malcolm Campbell, Montreal; Rev. J. A. Montgomery, Kensington; Rev. R. L. Ballentyne, Quebec; Rev. Robert Johnston, New Glasgow, N. S.; Rev. J. S. Trokser, Toronto; Rev. W. S. Brown, Saskatoon and Rev. R. J. Douglas, New Westminster, B. C.

The point of interest to the Maritime Provinces is the degree conferred upon the Moderator of the Maritime Synod. In introducing Mr. Johnston, Professor Cyrus MacMillan of McGill University spoke in the most laudatory terms. His speech was couched in the choicest language as he spoke of the good work which Mr. Johnston had accomplished for our beloved church.

In a short speech Mr. Johnston acknowledged the honour and stated that in granting him the doctor's degree, the College honored not so much himself as the Maritime district which he served. We are not flooded out in the Maritimes which served. We have struggled against great odds, and we now today in the most laudatory terms. These are not just preaching stations but real congregations. We had got a fair show in New Brunswick; we would have had more than that. We in the Maritimes now look on the Montreal College as our very own."

Dr. Malcolm Campbell expressed great satisfaction that the College had been granted from the hands of those who tried to steal it from us. We have lately come through a very trying period, he added, but we now today in the most laudatory terms as a thanksgiving service.

After the ceremony all the guests were entertained by the Senate of the College. Refreshments were served in the main hall and dining room, and the best of good fellowship prevailed.

The environments of the College were beautiful in all the glory of their spring garb, and every one felt that the God of nature and the God of grace were in harmony in this glorious afternoon.
