BOMBINGS CONDEMNED

Archbishop Of Canterbury Is Speaker At Mass Meeting.

(C.P. Cable, By Guardian's Special Wire)

LONDON, Oct. 5.—A mass meeting at the Albert Hall tonight approved a resolution placing on record its "horror and condemnation of indiscriminate attacks on non-combatants by Japanese forces in China."

The resolution urged the British Government to take the lead in obtaining international action, by economic measures and otherwise, to prevent a continuance of such bombings.

The decision was reached after the Archbishop of Canterbury, Rev. Sidney Berry, secretary of the Congressional Union and Earl Lytton, authority on Far Eastern affairs, addressed the thousands in the hall. The Archbishop reiterated the government's expression of "profound horror" at the bombings and declared the meeting was entitled to ask the government to make it known Great Britain was prepared to act by means of economic pressure should she obtain effective support from other nations.

His position must impose "restraint" on his words, he told the meeting, called to protest the Japanese bombings. He attended "not in any official capacity but simply as a representative of Christian citizens."

"The effectiveness of our protest will strengthen, not weaken," he declared, "if we put some restraint upon the expression of our natural emotion."

HALIFAX, Oct. 5.—(CP)—Mrs. Julia Matheson, widow of Neil Matheson and a native of Georgetown, P. E. I., died at the home of her son here today. She was 94 years of age. Two sons, Harry of Halifax and Roy of Vancouver B. C., survive.

British Labor Makes Bid For Rural Vote

BOURNEMOUTH, Hampshire, Oct. 5.—(CP Cable)—British Labor is to drive for the rural vote. In the rural divisions lies its weakness, for few return Labor members of Parliament.

"Unless we can get a substantial number of rural seats," George Dallas, a member of Labor's National Executive, admitted before the labor conference today, "all our work is in vain. The rural vote is the key to victory."

Plans contemplate special financial aid for voluntary work, appointment of more full-time agents, and special propaganda work by speaking and literature.

By a resolution unanimously adopted, the conference also laid down the broad lines of an agricultural policy. It declared land should be controlled by the nation in the interests of all the people, not in the interests of landlords and farmers as at present.

Island Lady Celebrates Her 104th Birthday

Something unique in the line of birthday celebrations took place at Miminegash on Monday, Oct. 4th, when children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren called at the old ancestral home to offer felicitations to Mrs. William Callaghan who was 104 years old on that day. The delightful birthday cake, decorated with one hundred and four saccharine stars was made by Mrs. Wm. P. Callaghan, Summerside.

Mrs. Callaghan was born Ellen Pendergast at Hope River on Oct. 4, 1832 and was baptized at Rustico some time later. Everything was in a primitive state on P. E. I. in those days. Log cabins were built close by springs of fresh water. Roads were close to the shore line and by blazed trails across country. None of telegraph, telephone or railway. Cereals and one acre of necessities and conveniences of modern everyday life. It gives pause for the thought that the wonderful period of progress in the history of the ages has taken place within the last hundred years—with the advent of steam power and electricity. This venerable lady was married to the late William Callaghan in 1861, and went to live at her present place of abode. She is now looked after by her son, Peter Callaghan, and his wife and sons and daughters. While not having the faculty of recalling occurrences of comparatively recent years, she can quite readily recall happenings of nearly 100 years ago. In quiet moments she hums and sings the old songs of childhood days. On her 16th birthday she was able to recall seeing and talking with the late Hon. Edward White, the great liberator, and even remembered the name of the paper of which he was editor viz The Palladium.

Many descendants and friends would dearly wish to see her though they realize that she is becoming more feeble but whether her remaining days of life be few or many the wish of all her friends is that she will be happy and cheerful to the end, cheerfulness and an abiding trust in the goodness of God being the predominant features of her long life.—K part in the Franco-British Mediterranean patrol against just such marauders.

(However Havas News Agency reported London semi-official naval circles as convinced the Basilek had not been attacked and that a mistake had taken place. These sources said that the incident was valuable in showing how rapidly British patrol ships would gather in case of a real attack on a neutral ship.

Plans Further Intervention?

ROME, Oct. 5.—The fact that Bruno Mussolini is flying with the Spanish insurgent forces was interpreted by Fascist circles to mean his father, Premier Mussolini, is determined anew that the insurgents must be victorious in Spain.

The Premier's permission to his son was seen as exemplification of Duce's Berlin speech saying that when words fall against "Bolshevism" arms must speak.

With the 20-year-old Bruno in insurgent Spain were 23 fast Italian bombers and an expedition of pilots including veterans of Marshal Italo Balbo's mass flight from Rome to Chicago via Shediac, N. B. and Montreal. Fascists said their inaugural war effort probably was the bombing of Valencia, temporary capital of Government Spain.

Sicilian reports indicated another detachment of Italian "Volunteers" had left for Spain to give new impetus to General Franco's drive.

British sources in London said there had been considerable reinforcement of the Mallorca air base, the insurgent-held island off eastern Spain, with the addition of planes almost certainly Italian.

Added reinforcements in Spain were interpreted both as fuel for the insurgent war machine and as weight to bolster Premier Mussolini's bargaining position in any negotiations with France and Great Britain toward withdrawal of Young Bruno's presence, it was said, would put spirit into black-shirt legions fighting with Franco and show them Duce has given them his whole-hearted support.

Hail Speech As Important Peace Factor

(By The Associated Press)

President Roosevelt's address in Chicago indicting aggressor nations was hailed in European countries last Tuesday night as an important contribution to world peace.

British officials termed it "very significant" and in London it was regarded as certain that cabinet ministers in session today would discuss it at length.

Sources close to the British Government said the speech tended to reinforce the British and French demand, at present in the hands of Premier Mussolini of Italy, for removal of foreign volunteers from Spain's civil war.

Comment in various capitals was restricted largely to general terms pending receipt by officials of the text of the address.

In Geneva, League of Nations' statesmen regarded the League's condemnation of Japan last week for the Sino-Japanese conflict as made especially forceful by President Roosevelt's declaration and interpreted the speech as indirect support for League action in the conflict.

In Paris, a foreign office spokesman characterized it as marking the "real entry of the great moral force of the United States" into the world's troubled affairs.

Officials in Berlin were loath to comment pending receipt of the text but there was a tendency to assume the President referred principally to the far eastern situation.

In Rome, the peace motif in the President's address was emphasized. Italian officials called attention to Premier Mussolini's recent speech in Berlin in which he expressed belief peace would result from his meeting with Chancellor Hitler.

Little Chance Of Custing Black Held

(A.P. By Guardian's Special Wire)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Many opponents of Justice Hugo L. Black here agreed today that there is slight chance of removing the former Klu Klux Klan member from the United States Supreme Court, but they clung nevertheless to three admittedly forlorn hopes.

The first was that the court itself might hold Justice Black ineligible for his present office under the ouster action brought yesterday by Albert Levitt, former federal judge in the Virgin Islands.

The second was impeachment.

And the third lay in the invocation of a little used legal device known as an "extraordinary writ of quo warranto."

The general expectation in the capital was that the court would dismiss the Levitt proceedings without comment when it meets again next Monday, together with a similar action brought by Patrick Henry Kelly, a Boston attorney.

Social Credit Member Remanded On Libel Charge

(By The Canadian Press)

EDMONTON, Oct. 5.—Joseph H. Unwin, Government whip in the Alberta Legislature, reserved plea in police court today on charges of counselling to murder and on three libel counts.

Magistrate E. H. Gibson granted adjournment of the preliminary hearing until Oct. 14. The Social Credit Member of the Legislature for Edson was arrested at his home earlier in the day on a charge of defamatory libel in connection with publication of a leaflet. After the three additional charges had been read he was freed on $5,000 bail.

The charges were laid on information and complaint from Senator W. A. Griesbach. Convicted on the four charges, counselling to murder, seditious libel, defamatory libel and defamatory libel knowing it to be false, could bring maximum sentences totalling 39 years. Fines can be levied under the charges but minimum sentences are not provided.

Mr. Unwin announced several weeks ago he would handle publication and distribution of posters in connection with the work of Social Credit Board. Numerous posters have been issued since then.

Edmonton police confiscated 2,400 copies of the leaflet when they visited the Alberta Social Credit a Canadian National Railways freight car.

Obliging Judge Passes Sentence

(By The Canadian Press)

MONTREAL, Oct. 5.—Frank Mitchell, 25-year-old native of New Glasgow, N.S., asked for and received a term in the penitentiary in the arraignment court today when he appeared before Chief Court Judge Perrault.

Mitchell was charged with stealing 37 dresses from a Canadian Pacific Railway freight car.

"Your previous record certainly entitles you to it," the judge said, in sentencing Mitchell to two years after reviewing his lengthy police dossier. Mitchell was then rushed to another court, presided over by Judge Langlois, where he received another concurrent two-year term on pleading guilty to the theft of 40 pairs of pants from

MAY CONVOKE NINE-POWER CONFERENCE

League Moves To Action In Japanese "Invasion" Of China.

BY JOSEPH P. SHARKEY
Associated Press Foreign Staff

GENEVA, Oct. 5.—The League of Nations moved today convocation of a conference of the signatories of the Nine-Power Pact to deal with Japanese "invasion" of China.

The League's advisory committee adopted recommendations of the Sino-Japanese sub-committee which condemned Japan and proposed League action in the conflict.

The sub-committee, after formally declaring Japan guilty of violating the Nine-Power Treaty and the Boxer Protocol and the Briand-Kellogg Pacts, recommended the nine powers meet at soon as possible.

It was also recommended by the sub-committee that the League Assembly be kept in readiness for a special session to discuss the Far Eastern situation.

When the advisory committee took quick action following receipt of the sub-committee report, three nations abstained from voting. Canada and Switzerland declined because their delegates said they had not received instructions from their governments. Canada's delegate, Senator Raoul Dandurand, said he was obliged to "hold up my adherence" as instructions had not been received. Poland declined on the ground that its delegation regarded the problem as legally a matter for the League itself, rather than to signatories of the Nine-Power Pact.

The Assembly postponed until tomorrow a vote on the advisory committee's resolution.

League office with a search warrant Saturday. These leaflets allegedly contained libelous statements on which the charges were based.

Names of nine prominent Edmonton lawyers and political executives, who have opposed the Social Credit Government, were on the leaflets. Names of the person or organization responsible for putting the leaflets into circulation was not printed.

When Conservative Leader D.M. Duggan found a copy of the leaflet on his desk in the legislative chamber last week he urged a house committee investigate them. His request was rejected.

DELAYS ASSENT

Governor J. C. Bowen of Alberta in withholding assent to Government bills passed by the Legislature establishes a precedent.

What the Lieutenant Governor's action may involve in his relations with the Government is somewhat puzzling to experts on Parliament Hill. The generally accepted tradition has always been that when the executive council of a province loses the confidence of its Lieutenant-Governor, it resigns and the latter official calls upon some other member of the legislature to form a Government.

Customarily this action involves a general election and that would almost inevitably be the course followed if the Governor General of Canada lost confidence in the Dominion Government.

In the present instance while assent has been withheld from Government legislation it has not been refused and awaits advice from the Governor General who will be guided by the counsel of his ministers in the Dominion Government.

The Governor General of Canada is appointed by the King and the Lieutenant-Governor of a Province is appointed by the Governor-General-in-Council or, in effect, by the Dominion Government. Constitutional experts here argue that for this reason the Lieutenant-Governor must be guided in his actions by the advice from the central authority.

Insurgents Push Drive On Gijon

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Border Oct. 5.—(AP)—Government forces, routed from many of their defence positions, resorted to guerrilla tactics today to stem the insurgent offensive in northwest Spain.

Advices to Insurgent headquarters at Iruin, Spain, from General Fidel Davila's column said snow which fell in the Asturian hills failed to halt his forces but that they were being slowed down by sharp-shooting Government troops.

In the Leon sector of the northwest front, an insurgent column was reported to have occupied Asturian trenches on one side of San Justo hill, dominating the Gijon highway, while another column took a series of small Government posts between Pena and Agujas.

STRIKES SPREAD

SYDNEY MINES, N.S., Oct. 5.—Strikes in sympathy with the 600 Florence Colliery miners have spread to Princess Mine, the machine shops and shipping piers of the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company. More than 1,600 employees of the company were idle tonight.
