wick, Ontario, and mated to several females in the Manfield herd...

Some of the Pearl Platinum blood at Murray Corner was put through cross foxes and in that way a few high quality cross foxes and reds with Pearl Platinum...

A similar mutation, but darker in color, occurred near Charlottetown. This type crossed with N.B. Pearl Platinum produced all silver pups...

THE PEARL PLATINUM

Dr. Bowness has done a worthy piece of hard work in the preparation of this article, which covers the history and nature of the various strains of Pearl Platinum foxes...

While the Pearl Platinum fox is a comparative newcomer to the fur ranks, its type foxes insofar as they are concerned, the original ground for some little time...

It is not until some years later when not only some foxes but also the original order keeping of livestock of this nature was put under a registration plan...

Very few breeders of Pearl Platinum foxes would agree that there was an accurate description of the color of their fox. So for the remainder of this article, may we be pardoned for using the word Platinum for those other breeds...

It would have been more simple to describe the origin and the development of the Pearl had they occurred on one ranch and gradually been spread from that locality...

Unfortunate that a more distinctive name had not been selected for them. In Canada our National Livestock Records Committee suggested the name Silver Blue, which, actually, is the most accurate description of them as compared with the Standard Silver Blacks...
