Chicago Black Hawks Rout Red Wings 7-1

CHICAGO, Dec. 22—(AP)—Chicago Black Hawks packed five goals in the last period tonight to rout the Detroit Red Wings 7-1 before a slim crowd of 7,616 and consolidate their hold on fourth place in the National Hockey League.

The Wings, showing a sad lack of a scoring punch and failing to provide ample protection for their new goalie, Hal Lumley of Indianapolis, averted a shutout late in the last period when Don Grosso wheeled in a close-up shot with the aid of Joe Carveth and Adam Brown at 16.19 to mar the excellent net-minding job of Hec Highton.

REMEMBER WHEN

By The Canadian Press

Rapid Robert Feller was selected by the New York baseball writers for their annual award to the "player of the year," three years ago today. Feller richly deserved the recognition, during the 1940 season. He won 27 games while losing 11, struck out 261 men, and had opened the season for the Cleveland Indians with a no-hit, no-run game. Feller is now in the United States Navy.

Canadian Women Now Accredited To U. S. Forces

BY MARGARET ECKER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Dec. 22—(CP)—Mollie McGee stood on a pier at Dover and watched the armada of boats stream back from Dunkerque.

McGee was in the hospital when the wounded were brought back from Dieppe. She was at a bomber base when the boys flew Home from the first big raid on Berlin She was in London through the blitz and the great fire.

This genius for being in the right place at the right time has made Irish-eyed Mollie McGee one of Canada's best known woman reporters.

Now she's scored one more scoop by being the first Canadian woman accredited as a war correspondent to the American armed forces. No woman has yet been accredited to the Canadian Army.

Mollie represents the Toronto Globe and Mail.

It's not the fame and glory- -or the smart American uniform- -that Mollie's after.

"I don't want to go forward to the front line with the armed forces," she told me. "All I want to do is go and report where other women are driving, nursing, doing canteen work.

"Men and women are in this war shoulder to shoulder, so every story has a woman's side to it. There should be a woman covering every field of activity in which women are taking part."

And so, when the biggest story of the war breaks, and the Allied forces have their feet firmly planted on Western European soil again, Mollie will be there in her Khiki uniform to tell the world about the part women are sure to play.

The fighting, Australian-born, Irish-Canadian hasn't any doubts about women's ability in a crisis. "During the blitz in England, women workers, ambulance drivers, A.R.P. wardens stood the ordeal as well as men."

Mollie has had career that makes a younger reporter's mouth water. Since the war started she has covered commando training, been aboard naval vessels, visited air bases, army camps, hospitals, with a good peppering, of scoops to her credit.

She's always in there punching for equal breaks for newspaper women, and like most of the girls of the trade, her back-hair rises at being tethered to what she calls a non-existent women's angle." A pugnacious grandfather who went from Ireland to Australia "with two pistols and pen after some trouble," handed down to her the spirit for this crusade.

Mollie was born in Australia but was taken to Montreal as a small girl. She studied occupational therapy at the University of Toronto.

After she graduated she was superintendent of the therapy department of the Mountain Sanitarium, Hamilton, Ont., but she was convinced that there was a place for her in newspaper work.

She got her break in 1932 when the Montreal Herald sent her to Ottawa to cover women attending the Imperial conference. Back in Montreal on the Herald she wrote a front page column, covered murders and wrote Montreal society notes for Mayfair Magazine.

She went to Ottawa to be one of The Canadian Press' first woman staffers, but when, after the death of King George V, things seemed to be popping over there, she freelanced her way to England to cover the coronation, and later the first rumblings of war on the continent. She was in Canada during the Royal tour, returning to Britain to become a correspondent for the Globe and Mail when war started.

VACATION AT SAME TIME

Under the plan, 2,500 workers will enjoy their holiday from June 30 to July 10 so that working wives and husbands and their grown children might be off together.

Evidence Taken In Arson Hearing

The case of Earl Whitlock, charged with arson, came up before Magistrate George J. Tweedy yesterday and was adjourned until Dec. 29th for further hearing.

The following witnesses were examined yesterday: Police Sgt. Lawrence McInnis, D. R. H. Shaw, George Tulle, Fred Pickard, Capt. of Fire Department, Fireman Fred Bradley, and Wesley Larter, Sgt. Allan J. McInnis, Morton Dew, Miss Mildred Slackford, chiropodist, whose rooms are adjacent to the Whitlock apartment, Mrs. Florence Betts, furrier. Lillian Gauthier, employee in Orchid restaurant, and Frank William Davis, special agent, Fire Underwriters Investigation Bureau, Moncton.

Police Sgt. Lawrence McInnis, the first witness, testified to having responded to a call at 4.30 a. m. on Dec. 11 to go to the Orchid Restaurant, Great George Street. He found it filled with smoke and heard the crackling of fire, but no flame could be seen. The top step of the staircase leading to the basement was badly charred, as well as the beams supporting the floor. The floor at the top of the stairway, as well as the steps, were so heavy with a greasy mixture that descent was difficult, witness stated

Firemen Pickard and Bradley confirmed the statement regarding the greased condition of the top step of the staircase, and of a patch about 3 feet square on the floor at the top of the stairway. No fire appeared to be in the stove, and the wiring of the place seemed to be intact, they said.

Police Sgt. ..Allan J. ..McInnis stated that he and Constable Gordon Poole located the accused about 11.30 a. m. on Dec. 11, in the apartment of a person on Elm Avenue. Accused showed signs of intoxication and "total indifference" to the condition of the fire in his restaurant, witness said.

Morton Dew, director of the W.K. Rogers Agencies Ltd., stated the amount of insurance on the Orchid Restaurant was $5,000. The amount on Mr. Whitlock's personal apartment on the second floor of the same building was $1,000. This insurance totalling $6,000 expired on Dec. 11 and witness cancelled it and mailed the notice on Nov. 26, according to statutory requirements.

Witness stated there had been a small fire in the same quarters last October, and an adjustor had estimated the loss at $50 for smoke damage. This had not been accepted by Mr. Whitlock, who made a claim for $600. A dispute arose, and the matter had not been settled.

Frank William Davis, special agent of the Underwriters Investigation Bureau of Canada, Inc., stated that he had a conversation with the accused on the afternoon of Dec. 12 in which he talked quite freely and told him that about 1.30 he locked the doors after the girl employees had left and remained for five minutes. Then he went upstairs to his apartment where he stayed 5 minutes, getting hat and coat and a bottle of whiskey; then returned to restaurant to spray kitchen for cock roaches. Running out of material he left for the apartment of another person. Accused told witness that he did not have any insurance, that it had been cancelled.

Mrs . Betts stated she was on the third floor of the building working until 1.30 a. m. She retired at 2 a. m., heard the girls leaving the restaurant, and fell asleep. She was awakened at 3 a. m., by a strange smell, and again at 4 a. m. smelled fire and called the police.

The prosecuting attorney was Mr. Gordon Holmes while the defending lawyer was Mr. R. R. Bell.

MONTREAL, Dec. 22—(CP)—Montreal employees of the Quebec Civil Service today asked that representations be made at once to Premier Godbout for a readjustment of salaries

At a meeting they instructed Dr. Jacques Archambault, president of the Quebec Civil Servants Association, and provincial conciliator Clovis Bernier to call on Mr. Godbout "stressing the fact that civil servants have waited long enough for an improvement of their situation."
