A BUSY LITTLE GIRL

Woman's dolls were large, the pram was small; It wouldn't nearly hold them all. So one by one she took them out, And in the park wheeled them about.

She had so many dolls, they say, To take them out took one whole day!

Bitterness Of
Contract Bridge

(By Heywood Brown in New York World-Telegram)

I have heard prize fighters speak most generously of contenders in their own class. Ball players will admit that Babe is a marvel, and that Hubbell can make a ball do tricks. The big leaguer may even sing the praises of some rival who is not highly regarded by the general public but makes an appeal chiefly to the highly technical criticism of his own fraternity. I have never heard a bridge expert speak well of another. Outside of autobiographical expedition there is no such thing as the bridge player's bridge player.

Contract is the best card game ever devised for the recreation of mankind. It has served to soothe the brow to fever and dull the edge of heartache. We who are about to fall and blunder and get turned down for jobs can still sit and forget while playing one last rubber. It is the very necessary opiate of the people.

But, unfortunately every year one or two overexacting bidders shoot their partners, which, I think, is carrying things a bit too far. I even hate to see homes broken up in less drastic ways around the arguments engendered by a failure to keep the bid open.

In other words, any important sort of bookkeeping must show that contract, in addition to being a blessed sedative, is also an irritant, a slow poison and a dash of salt pressed down upon open wounds.

It is my custom when I have pulled some fearful mistake to smile cheerfully at my partner and remark: "Well, after all, it's only a game. What's the swing of a few thousand points among friends?"

Unfortunately, this doesn't seem to work. My bland acceptance of the bludgeoning of fate and forgetfulness merely drives any luckless associate a bit more frantic. And yet I'm right. It is a game, and a hundred years from now the world will hardly remember whether I held the spade or the diamond.

Something of the bitterness of bridge must be set down as inevitable because of the natural cunningness of man. But I would indict the experts for fostering and cultivating this spirit in contract. It is their stock in trade to set up the illusion that social disgrace and ostracism are the fruits of incorrect bidding and scientific play. They have taken up where the mouth wash man left off. Indeed, they have gone a step further by insisting that even your best friends will tell you if you bungle on a two demand bid.

But we need not pay much attention to them, for it is all to obvious that they themselves have not attained serenity and peace of mind and love for all mankind. I intend to go on playing just as badly as I do now, although I admit that it may take a considerable effort to maintain this standard.

TO ALLOW BEACH PYJAMAS IN CHURCH CANTERBURY, England, Aug. 22—Women, Very Rev. Hewlett Johnson, Dean of Canterbury cathedral, said today, will not be refused admittance to the cathedral, even if they appear in beach pyjamas.

The Dean, who welcomes every summer hundreds of excursionists from Kentish seaside resorts, elaborated his remark this way: "No objection will be taken as long as girls are decently and modestly clad and abstain from wearing dress likely to attract undue attention." In the early days of motoring in England, women who entered cathedrals without hats usually were asked to secure some sort of covering for their heads, in deference to the Pauline injunction. Although the rule is not enforced generally nowadays, it is seldom hatless women fail to tie scarfs around their heads before going into church.

Wife: "Good gracious! How could you think of bringing that Mr. Biggles home to dinner when you know I'm spring cleaning?"
Hubby: "Hush, my dear! He's the only man I know who can help move the sideboard."
The Last Asthma Attack may really be the last one if prompt measures are taken. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy will safeguard you. It will penetrate to the smallest bronchial passage and bring about a healthy condition. It always relieves and its continued use often has a permanent effect. Why not get this long-famous remedy to-day and commence its use? Inhaled as smoke or vapor it is equally effective.

PRE-NUPTIAL SHOWER—A very pleasant time was spent Tuesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Monaghan, Hazelbrook when about 30 young people gave a dance in honor of Miss Margaret Cameron. The future bride and groom were very much surprised when Mr. Russel Driscoll made a presentation of an electric iron from their friends gathered there. Miss Mary Gillan read a short address wishing them much happiness for their future. A dainty lunch was then served by the three hostesses, the Misses Mary and Annie Crosbie and Miss Ethel McAleer. Dancing was continued till 2 a. m., music being furnished by Mr. George Hume, assisted by Mr. R. Chandler.

SOCIAL GATHERING—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Perley Mutch, Southport, was the scene of a delightful social function Thursday night when Miss Margaret Cameron was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower given by their daughter Florence. The many lovely gifts were opened by Miss Florence Mutch and the humorous verses accompanying them read by Miss Helen Judson. Miss Cameron then thanked these present for their kindness. Dancing was then indulged in with music furnished by Miss Hester and Preston Wood and Miss Lona Herman, after which ice cream and cake were served by the hostess. All left feeling they had spent a most enjoyable time.

CHURCH TEA—A very successful United Church tea was held on the beautiful grounds of Mr. Robert Stevenson, Wheatley River, on August 16th. The day was ideal and the sports were enjoyed by a large concourse of people. The sports were a baseball game between Brookfield vs. Wheatley River, Wheatley River gaining the victory at the close of a well played game, and also the trap shooting which was greatly enjoyed by all. The five high gunners for the day were Dr. R. Barrett, Messrs. A. B. Cutcliffe, James Andrew, Fulton Robertson and George MacMillan of Hunter River, Dr. Barrett winning the first prize which was donated by A. B. Cutcliffe, general merchant, Hunter River. Fulton Robertson winning second prize which was donated by Horace Cutcliffe. Other prizes were donated for other events by A. B. Cutcliffe, Horace Cutcliffe and P. J. Noy. An event of special interest was shooting contest between Mrs. William Bowen and A. B. Cutcliffe. Mr. Cutcliffe winning by one target. Thanks are extended to all who helped to make the tea such a success. Proceeds of tea were ninety dollars.

Mr. W. T. McQuaid, A.B., LL.B., Assistant United States District Attorney for Maryland, has left on return to Baltimore, after spending two weeks visiting his sister, Miss Agnes W. McQuaid and renewing friendships and acquaintances.

'PEG' EXCHANGE
CLOSES LOWER

WINNIPEG, Aug. 21—(C.P.)—Absence of any export demand and a decided lack of interest in operations on the part of traders sent wheat futures fractionally lower on the grain exchange today and at the close values were 1-4 to 1-2 cent under Saturday's finish. Final quotations showed October at 71, December at 73 and May at 78. Though some recovery was made from the low points, the market showed very sharply a buoyancy. A little selling pressure from Chicago combined with limited hedging sales gave the pit all it could handle.

Export trade over the week end was extremely light and no sales developed during the session. Liverpool wheat was fractionally easier, due to lack of demand on the part of importers. Closing quotations showed net losses of 3-8D to 1-2D.

Overseas advices contained little of note beyond a prediction on the part of the institute of agriculture at Rome that wheat prices would doubtless rise sharply as a result of crop losses in the northern hemisphere calculated at 294,000 bushels. Last week's world shipments of wheat and flour were placed at 9,622,000 bushels with most of North America's share of 3,486,000 originating in Canada.

Cash grains trading was quiet, and coarse grains were duller than wheat.

Evening Dress
Made of Grass

LONDON, Aug. 22—An evening gown made entirely of grass was shown in London recently. It was worn by Gloria, one of London's loveliest mannequins. She looked as if she were clothed in shimmering silver tissue flecked with pinpoint diamonds.

But, unlike tissue, the fabric was transparent—crystal clear, in fact. It was made from thousands of short hair-like threads of spun glass pressed together in three layers, not woven. "It is a little ticklish to wear," said Gloria, "but is about the weight of a normal silk frock. I have not yet set down in it, but I think it would be quite safe."

The material is supple and falls in easy folds. It can be cut with ordinary scissors, but must be stitched by hand. The model shown, simple in style, occupied three seamstresses for a day. It was made on a white net foundation. The edges of the ruffle which hemmed the skirt were left raw, for threads formed a natural fringe.

Apples Plentiful
Dominion Reports

OTTAWA, Aug. 22—The Dominion Department of Agriculture estimates the 1933 crops of pears, peaches, grapes and plums will be lower than last year but that apples will be more plentiful. In a survey published today, the department placed an estimate of 4,438,000 barrels on the Canadian apple crop, compared with 3,977,000 barrels last year, an increase of 461,000 barrels.

Canada's pear crop this year was estimated at 434,000 bushels, compared with 466,000 bushels last year. The peach crop was placed at 813,000 bushels, a drop of 91,000 bushels from 1932. The plum crop was estimated at 222,000 bushels, only 79 per cent. of last year's total. Due to failure in Ontario, the commercial grape crop was estimated at 44,568,000 pounds, compared with 54,100,000 pounds last year.

FIRST AID AWARDS

TRURO, N.S., Aug. 22—Twelve Canadian National Railways employees were today presented with awards representing proficiency attained in first aid work. Of the number four were presented with certificates covering first year work, two with vouchers second year work, five were given medallions representing a third annual examination successfully passed and one received a label which is given for each year a holder of a medallion presents himself for examination.

Big Man To Battle Gar Wood

QUEBEC, Aug. 21—It is a red-headed, fighting Irishman, who has come to Canada to step into United States territory and meet Kaye Don's conqueror for the Harmsworth Trophy, that elusive mug, which has caused so many heart-aches.

Aboard the Empress of Britain today when she docked along with a famous cricket team and one of Canada's keenest politicians was this bright, red-headed challenger for the international motor boat honors. The only thing hyphenated about him is his name. He's a fighter if one ever stepped ashore.

Equipped with a fighting jaw, a keen blue eye, a ruddy complexion and a feminine looking wrist watch the latest challenger for the trophy of the Silver Fox radiated fight and courage. He is more than a motor boat driver. He is a salmonman—he ran away to sea when he was 14 years of age and served before the mast.

He is a six-footer who weighs 190 pounds right now, and who weighed 230 before he took on his sturdy terrifically broad shoulders the burden of trying to take to England the Harmsworth Cup. It's a big man and a little boat for this year's trial.

Figuring that, find the boat and you will find the man, I hustled forward on the Empress and found the round faced man shouting directions from Captain Latta's bridge, no less. He was taking no chances about the unloading of his valuable cargo, and he impressed you that he knew what it was all about.

H'LL KEEP COMING
His 41 years sit lightly on his shoulders. He may not win the Harmsworth Trophy from the Wizard of Detroit this year, but he is going to keep on coming back until he does, so he told me. No matter how long it takes. The jaw came out a full three inches on this declaration. It is no idle boast. He means it, and how.

Miss Britain III, belongs to Hubert Scott-Paine in its entirety. He designed it, built it and drives it. He has no master. He is his own boss. The silvery hull of the boat was well covered as it came out of the big hold of the Empress this morning and carefully, oh, so carefully, swung over the side of the ship on a huge crane. This is the smallest of English challengers. She weighs only 1 1-2 tons.

A "CATCH"

There is nothing mysterious about the little boat that is going to carry Britain's hopes on Labor Day. The little ship's motor only has 45 minutes to live. That sounds absurd, but it is true.

Unfold the cotton wool or tissue paper, and give your chum the piece of glass. Tell him to hold it up to his left eye.

"I can see through it!" he says, you see plain (seaplane).

Haughty Passenger—"I'm sorry, conductor, but this $10 bill is all I have. I haven't a nickel."

Conductor—"Very good, lady, don't worry about that. In just a minute you'll have 199 of them."

Take a small piece of glass and wrap it up in cotton wool or tissue paper. Go up to a friend and say, "Have you ever seen a glass seaplane?" "No," he will reply.
