SAD, DISTURBING THOUGHTS FOLLOW

CHAPTER LXXV.

I sat for an hour without moving, stunned by what Mr. Frederick had told me. I went over the conversation, every word seemed fairly burned into my memory so fearfully had they hurt me. That Neil, my Neil, the father of my boy should be dishonest; should knowingly cheat and deceive people was almost unbearable. Yet once more was I filled with distrust, once more had veered entirely around in my thoughts.

I had been so sure that in this last analysis Neil would prove himself all I thought him; that in this talk with Mr. Frederick I should learn that all my fears, all my forebodings had been useless, that the cruel gossip I had heard had been nothing but gossip, and without foundation, that the reaction was terrible.

"Can I ever believe in him again? Can I ever be happy?" I said aloud as I got up and weakly, like an old woman clanked the soft carpeted stairs to my room, the room which I had so delighted in, and which now I looked at almost with loathing as I recalled what Mr. Frederick had said. People were blaming Neil for lying as we did—perhaps they were also blaming me. Maybe they thought I wanted him to be dishonest so I could have a handsome home, cars, and the luxuries we enjoyed. The thought was torture.

I deliberately made a round of the house. Even into the kitchen did I go, impressing upon myself the luxury with which I was surrounded. Could it be true that Neil was really taking money from widows and orphans to buy all this? I tried to refute it in my mind; tried to say no, he hadn't done so. Everything we had had been honestly earned, but I couldn't, in the light of what Mr. Frederick had told me, I couldn't.

I know he would not willingly hurt me, that while he was lying he was also kind. He had probably softened many things perhaps were worse than he had told me. No wonder he as well as Lorraine tried to save me from the misfortune which would have been mine had I adhered to my plan to enter society. No wonder he had advised me to wait until he had a "look in." I wondered if he had seen Mr. Powers—he had said that he might. Why didn't I think to ask him. I wouldn't fail to do so next time he came. He, everyone, had a great respect for the big banker, and his opinion.

I started to order the car, then halted. The cars, too, were they not bought with other people's money? Was not Neil criticised for having them also? No, not until I knew more of what was true, and what false would I use the cars. I would wait.

It may have been a morbid streak in me that made me choose the oldest, plainest dress in my wardrobe. Then I took little Robert in his go-cart and walked for an hour. When I came back I felt better physically; but my mental distress had been increased.

I had met Lorraine Morton. She turned and walked with me, looking in surprise at my costume. "Where oh where is the stylish Mrs. Forbes gone, oh, where oh, where has she gone?" she sang out at me.

"Lorraine, will you answer me a question, and answer it truthfully? I asked without preamble. "If I answer it at all I will tell the truth," she bantered. I was sure she had no idea of what I was going to say.

"Are people talking of our extravagance, our new house, cars and all the other things when they speak of us?" I couldn't say Neil's name. I stuck in my throat. "Why—Barbara—" Then: "Yes Barbara, they are! I never should have told you, had you not asked. But they say he takes the money, given him to invest, and uses it to make a splurge, to live on. I am sorry you asked me. I am afraid you will connect me only with disagreeable things."

"I wanted the truth." "I know you haven't been to blame Barbara. You didn't know." "I have been to blame, I should have made it my business to know."

Tomorrow—Barbara Plans Retrenchment.

The Wellington

THE UNIVERSAL PIPE

The Wellington is more than a good pipe—

it's a WDC Pipe, a genuine French briar; it's a good smoke; it's peace; it's comfort; it's quiet meditation—all done up in one sweet brown package. The well catches all moisture and the top-opening bit sends the clean, dry smoke up away from your tongue. Good dealers have the Wellington in the shape and size you want, at $1.00 and upward.

Now a Complete Truck

HEREAFTER Ford One-Ton Trucks may be bought complete with bodies and cabs, ready for the road.

The body as well as the chassis will be planned to give Ford service.

This will insure the utmost efficiency from the Ford Truck; give the purchaser Ford value in every part of his truck; produce better bodies at lower prices.

Two types of Truck bodies, the Stake and the Express, will be kept in stock, set up, painted (or in the lead) and ready for prompt delivery.

They have oak floors, sills of seasoned hickory and specially designed forgings and castings.

The construction at every point provides for rough usage such as every truck is bound to get. Both bodies have closed cabs to protect the driver.

These cabs have sliding windows and two-way, double tilting windshields.

Call and learn what it will cost to use these complete trucks in your business. Look them over carefully. See how they outclass other trucks in every detail.

Price (Chassis only) $700 f.o.b. Ford, Ont. Standard Ford Bodies extra. Get our prices

SWAIZEMA CURES ECZEMA

"SWAIZEMA" as a treatment for Eczema, Salt Rheum, Scrofula, Boils, Pimples and Running Sores is no longer in its experimental stages. For years it has been earning testimonials like the following:

"While at College some years ago my daughter developed Eczema on her hands. Treatment by skin specialists for many months, while beneficial, failed to effect a cure. On her return home I decided to try a specified advertised locally as 'Swazema' compounded by you. Improvement was noticeable in a short time and the disease disappeared following a few weeks' treatment. It has not returned for two years."

Guaranteed and sold in Charlottetown by Hughes Drug Co. Limited and The 2 Macs.
