About a quarter to nine last night an alarm was rung in for a fire in a double tenement house on King Street, just opposite the Railway Station. The house is occupied by John Fanning and Mr. Fitzpatrick. The fire was between the ceiling and floor near the centre of the house. It is not known how it started as it was quite a piece from any stove or pipe. Considerable damage was done by water. The fire was soon put out. As it is quite a distance from the fire station, the firemen had a long run.

The last session of the Dairymen's Association was held in the Prince of Wales College yesterday morning. The president Arthur Simpson in the chair and a large number were present. The chairman called Professor Mitchell to the platform and then told those present to ply him with questions which they did. The principal discussion took place on the advisability of discouraging home separators. He was asked can as good butter be made out of home separated cream gathered from the patrons as from the cream separated at the factory? His answer was yes and no. It can be done if all farmers knew as much about operating and cleaning the separators as the factorymen do and if they would do it, otherwise they can not. Other questions asked were about the cause of mott and other troubles which they experienced. Professor Mitchell will remain in this Province till after the Seed Fair in Summerside.
