Prompt Action Urged On Tuber Support Plan

HARTLAND, N.B., Jan. 8 — Commenting on a press dispatch to the effect that it is costing the U.S. government a total of eighty million dollars to carry out its "legal obligation" to the potato growers of that country in disposing of surplus potatoes, H.H. Hatfield, M.P. for Victoria-Carleton, declares that under the provisions of the Stabilization Act, passed in the Canadian House of Commons in July, 1944, an equal obligation on the part of the Canadian Government towards potato growers of this country exists.

Emphasizing that potatoes in New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island are still selling below the cost of production, Mr. Hatfield says it is the duty of the Ministers of Agriculture and Attorney-Generals of these two provinces to see that the legal obligation of the Federal Department of Agriculture is carried out.

The Act provides that growers of agricultural products in Canada should receive a fair price for their produce during the transition period from war to peace.

Minister Quoted

In introducing the Act in the House of Commons on June 25, 1944, Hon. James Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture, is quoted as follows:

"The resolution states fully the contents of the bill it is proposed to present to the house. The intention of the bill is to make it possible for a board to be appointed of three persons, one of whom will be the chairman and one the vice-chairman. The responsibility of that board will be to make a study of the conditions existing during the period that we have had ceiling prices established on farm products and to relate that to conditions existing in Canada affecting other industries as well as people engaged in other activities; to study as well, when the time arrives, conditions in the post-war period, and from time to time submit to the Minister of Agriculture, and through him to the government, recommendations as to which farm products should have floor prices placed under them, the method by which that should be done, and the level at which those prices should be established. The final decision with regard to the matter will rest with the governor-general in council. Once the floor prices are established, the board will have authority to purchase and sell farm products on the basis of that floor price level or to set up commodity boards to purchase and sell, or to establish agencies to purchase and sell on its behalf any farm product which is declared by order in council to be one on which it is necessary to have floor prices and as to what that floor price is."

Potatoes at Low Price

Potatoes were the first agricultural commodity to go below a fair price to the producer, and on the 1st of October, after a delegation visited Ottawa, certain announcements were made. The first, that potatoes would be purchased at $1.65 per 165 lbs. or one cent per pound from the grower and processed into starch to relieve the surplus then on the market.

Another proposition was that on the 1st of May, the government would take all available surplus from the market at $1.00 per 75 lb. bag bagged and loaded on the cars.

The first proposition, Mr. Hatfield argues, has not been of much use in removing the surplus as the three starch factories at Prince Edward Island are only built to operate during the summer months. The factory at Grand Falls, N.B. has been operating since October relieving the situation to a certain extent in the immediate vicinity. However, owing to the starch factory at Hartland being destroyed by fire on the day the programme was to become effective, the larger part of the Province's potato belt has been left to market table potatoes at much below the cost of production, which was never the intention of the Act.

During the past few weeks, Agricultural Societies as well as various shippers throughout the N.B. potato belt have endorsed the need of having a stabilized price set without delay for potatoes. Volume of shipments has fallen off sharply. Smaller farmers especially will have difficulty this spring in financing their fertilizer requirements if they cannot market their crop.

Numerous meetings have been held in the past several weeks by local groups with Hon. Mr. Taggart, chairman of the Commodity Stabilization Board, but as yet no action to assist potato growers has been forthcoming.

Reveal Plans For Canadian Fisheries Study

OTTAWA, Jan. 8—(CP) —New plans for Canadian fisheries studies from the Grand Banks of Nova Scotia to the blue Pacific are on the agenda for 1947.

The Federal Fisheries Research Board, which ended its annual meeting here yesterday, heard extensive outlines of the work accomplished and planned in its various experimental stations from Halifax to Vancouver.

Chief points of interest disclosed at the meeting were:—

1. Studies are continuing aimed at keeping tab on the population of cod and other groundfish off the Grand Banks, which the board described as an industry which should prosper indefinitely if care is taken to recognise and correct over-fishing.

2. A special research vessel will be put into service this year to study where herring may be found when not within reach of seasonal inshore fisheries and thus lengthen the herring season.

3. The board cited the successful establishment several years ago of underwater oyster fishing in the Maritimes and suggested that a new industry — clam farming— might soon be possible on a commercial scale.

4. The board will test various northern lakes, including Lake Athabaska and Lake Claire, during 1947 for the famed Winnipeg Goldeye in the hope of finding new resources.

5. Board scientists also will make a study of the inconnu, a fish which in Canada occurs only in some of the waters of the Northwest and Yukon. Some quantities of inconnu have been among the 3,000,000 pounds of fish landed from Great Slave Lake since the Board's investigations opened commercial fishing there in 1945. Most of the catches consist of whitefish and lake trout.

The board disclosed that its investigators found a fisherman's paradise in virgin Manitoba waters on the Lower Nelson River, where speckled trout were in abundance.

6. Research showed the flesh of the halibut possesses a higher protein content than beef, although its content of vitamin "B" is lower.

7. Research on artificial fish driers by the Halifax station has resulted in 26 driers, enough to take care of the entire industry in the Maritimes, being placed in commercial use. A "tunnel fish smoker" previously developed by the Board, also is proving popular in the Maritimes and Quebec, and is in demand in some other countries.

8. The Vancouver station is completing development of a new railway refrigerator car which will maintain a below-zero temperature under all conditions. Studies there also are going forward on prediction of the herring catch in B. C. waters.

Dr. A. T. Cameron of the University of Manitoba was re-appointed chairman of the board. Pending his recovery from a recurrent illness, Prof. J. R. Dymond, director of the Royal Ontario Museum of Zoology, Toronto, and Dr. G. B. Reed of Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., were named as co-alternate chairmen.

KISS YOUR TIRED FEELING GOODBYE!

Pepless Many Suffer Low Blood Count—And Don't Know It.

The baffling thing about low blood count is that you can weigh about as much as you ever did—even look healthy and strong, yet you can feel as if you had lead in your legs, dopey, tired and pepless.

Low blood count means you haven't got enough red blood corpuscles. It is their vital job to carry life-giving oxygen from your lungs throughout your body. And just as it takes oxygen to explode gasoline in your car and make the power to turn the wheels, so you must have plenty of oxygen to explode the energy in your body and give you going power.

Get Dr. Williams Pink Pills today. They are world-noted for the help they give in increasing the number and strength of red corpuscles. Then with your blood count up you'll feel like bounding up the stairs as if you were floating on air. Ask your druggist for Dr. Williams Pink Pills today.

N. B. Pulp Mill Will Expand Production Soon; Now Has Vast Timber Area

Annual Output to be 40,000 Tons Instead of 32,500

SAINT JOHN, N. B., Jan. 9 — Production of the Saint John Sulphite, Limited, pulp mill at Fairville, which is operating now at a rate of 32,500 tons of bleached sulphite pulp annually, is to be stepped up to 40,000 tons through improvements and additions to the mill, it was announced yesterday.

This expansion move, which includes the acquisition of extensive timberlands in New Brunswick and Maine to supply the plant with its raw material, means that the company's assets will represent a value in excess of $6,500,000.

Announcement was also made, in connection with the financing of the project, that an issue of $2,500,000 of Saint John Sulphite, Limited first mortgage bonds will be publicly offered by an underwriting group headed by F. J. Brennan & Company, Limited.

The mill was operated formerly by the Port Royal Pulp & Paper Company, Limited, and was acquired by the present company, of which K. C. Irving of Saint John is president and managing director, in March of last year, Frank J. Lang, internationally known mechanical engineer of Dexter, N. Y., who has been associated with several large pulp and paper corporations, is vice-president in charge of production. Aime Gaudreau of Quebec City, who has been prominent in pulpwood production is vice-president in charge of woodlands operations. James M. Fear, who has had a long experience in pulp plant operations, is mill manager.

More than 90 P. C. Exported

The entire present output of the Saint John Sulphite, Limited, plant is being sold to paper manufacturers, and more than 90 percent of this volume is taken up by export markets.

As the demand for sulphite pulp is far greater than the supply, and the outlook indicates that this favorable situation will continue for a long time the management stated that it fully expects a ready market for the enlarged capacity production of the mill.

This industry is giving employment at the present time to a total of about 800 men in the woods operations and at the mill.

Saint John, Sulphite, Limited, plans to obtain its pulpwood both from its own timberlands and by purchase in the open market, and the company has assured itself of an adequate flow of wood to feed the plant. It now owns more than 50,000 acres of timberlands in northeastern Maine, on the watershed of the St. John River, as well as more than 68,000 acres of timber in Carleton and York counties, adjacent to the same broad waterway. The latter properties were purchased some time ago from the New Brunswick Railway Company. In these two areas of New Brunswick and Maine, it is estimated, are more than 650,000 cords of spruce and balsam, besides pine, cedar and hardwood.

Further Resources

Also, it was pointed out, Saint John Sulphite, Limited, has acquired 29.6 per cent of the outstanding preferred and common shares of the Allagash Land Company, which owns more than 85,000 acres of timberland in Aroostook, Penobscot, Somerset and Piscataquis counties in Maine. This area contains more than 535,000 cords of pulpwood.

The Maine properties include 71 miles of gravel roads, bridges, dams, depots, camps and logging equipment.

Log-driving facilities owned by Saint John Sulphite, Limited, include holding grounds, sorting gap, piers, booms and riparian rights on the St. John River at Van Buren and Keegan, Me., and Lincln, N.B

Prinz Eugen Sinks Six Months After Atom Bomb Tests

Don Whitehead, Associated Press chief of bureau at Honolulu, headed the staff which covered last summer's atomic bomb tests at Bikini. Now touring Pacific Island bases, he returned to the Marshall Islands and reports for the first time this surprising aftermath.

By DON WHITEHEAD

KWAJALEIN, Jan. 8 — (AP)— Disclosure was made by a naval officer today that the 10,000-ton Prinz Eugen, once proud cruiser of Adolf Hitler's navy, sank nearly six months after the Bikini atomic bomb tests — suggesting that the bomb is both slow and sudden death to big warships.

Apparently the cruiser was the fourth major victim of the second test of July 25. Other capital ships sunk by the underwater bomb were the 29,000-ton battleship Arkansas which went down almost instantly, the 33,000-ton carrier Saratoga which sank seven hours after the blast and the 32,700-ton Japanese battleship Nagato which succumbed five days later.

The naval officer, who requested anonymity, said the Eugen, which helped sink the British battle cruiser Hood during the war, went down in Kwajalein lagoon Dec. 16 despite frantic efforts to save her.

This is the naval officer's story:

The cruiser was brought to Kwajalein shortly after the "Crossroads" experiments — she was used in both tests — and anchored with other surviving target ships, most of them too radio-active for crews to go aboard.

The Eugen was at anchor with the battleships Nevada, New York, Independence and Pennsylvania when she began settling by the stern and listing to port.

Tugs were rushed to her side. They towed her to a bench but at 10 A.M. on the morning of Dec. 16 the sleek fighting ship, scarcely marked above the water line, capsized. The bow plunged to the bottom, leaving the stern sticking out of the water. Although damaged at the stern, she sank bow first because of the beaching operations.

It is believed that the underwater explosion of July 25 tore loose her stern plates.

Wallace Charges Churchill Leader Of New-War Front

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 — (Thursday) — (CP) — Henry A. Wallace, former United States cabinet member, charges in the current issue of the weekly New Republic that Winston Churchill "speaks for the world-war front" and is making an attempt to create an Anglo-American encirclement of Soviet Russia.

Sharply criticizing the wartime prime minister who now is leader of Britain's Conservative opposition, Wallace, now editor of the New Republic says that Churchill is "hunting a new Cliveden set" in the United States and adds:

"He assumes that our atom bombs and air power are at England's disposal. The first-line weapons are the foot soldiers and the industry of France and Western Germany. France and Germany will guide Europe. England will guide France and Germany and, by the grace of God and Winston Churchill, the airplanes and the atom bombs of the United States will uphold his right arm."

The former Vice President and Commerce Secretary says that he is confident that every legitimate dispute the United States and Britain have with Russia is capable of amicable solution.

"Like so many Tories in England and the United States he (Churchill) believes in the innate superiority of the Anglo-Saxon or Teutonic strain," Wallace writes. "I argued with him against a permanent Anglo-American bloc....but I pointed out that if we were to have one, there is more justification for an alliance with Latin America than with England...."

The Wallace article says that although "none of us" is prepared to underwrite to the full Russia's present policies "Churchill speaks for the world-war front. I hope and believe I speak for the world peace front..."
