CONSERVATIVE POLICY IS PLACED BEFORE HOUSE

Tariff Policy of King Government Has Brought Disastrous Effect to Country With Little or No Benefit to Any one—Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, by Resolution Lays Before Parliament Broad and Comprehensive Policy for All Canada.

(Canadian Press) OTTAWA, June 5.—Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, in the House of Commons this afternoon moved his resolution containing the essential articles of the platform of the Conservative party. Mr. Meighen brought his resolution in as an amendment to supply. The resolution asked the House to affirm that this Dominion in view of world conditions, required an immediate revision of the Canadian tariff on a definitely and consistently protective basis. It provides that such revision should apply to natural products as well as manufactured goods. It insists upon immediate steps for the conservation and development of the natural resources.

With respect to Empire preference, the resolution, while admitting the principle of the preference declares that goods should be brought in through Canadian ports, but only when such importations would in no way interfere with the prosperity of Canadian working men. It also asks for a tariff commission and provides for the marketing of Maritime Provinces and western products on a policy under which the Dominion as a whole would bear the cost of reduced transportation rates to the east and to the west. Mr. Meighen regretted that he was forced to bring in his resolution as an amendment to supply rather than as a substantial resolution in the Dominion the principle of protection has been recognized as basic and essential since earliest times. The protective policy was first put into effect in 1878 and had been continued without serious change until three or four years ago. The actual results of protection were the best proof and Mr. Meighen said he was never able to understand how any far-sighted Canadian could spare protection in favor of free trade.

Liberal Policy Disastrous For the Country

The tariff policy of the Liberal government had brought disastrous effects to this country, with little or no benefit to any one. Dealing with the iron and steel industries, Mr. Meighen pointed out that in the spring of 1924 when the production was in Canada 55.9 percent of the 1914 production the present government had wiped the duty off steel used in the manufacturing of farm implements.

For the first three months of 1925, the pig iron production of the United States was 132.6 percent of the 1913 production, while in Canada the production was 47.6 percent of the year before the war. Canada purchased 30,000 tons of pig iron from the United States annually, and sold to that country 3,000 tons per year, until this year. But because of those 5,000 tons, the U. S. government fearing unfair competition to the U. S. manufacturers, declared a virtual embargo on the Canadian product. This was but an example of what the U. S. government had done over a long range of manufactured articles produced in Canada. Mr. Meighen declared that while he did not have Canadian capital invested in Canada, that rather than have our raw material exported for manufacture elsewhere, he also preferred to have American capital come in to the country and manufacture here.

As the earthquakes subside, he prophesied a terrific heat would settle upon the earth and all dry place would quickly ignite. Taking these predictions literally, hundreds of the Mexicans fled about the streets in a panic. Later they settled down to a careful preparation for the coming of the end.

DEBATE ON CHURCH UNION CONTINUED

Second and Third Clauses Adopted Without Debate -- Majority of 15,000 Presbyterians Against Union in Vote Already Taken

(Canadian Press) TORONTO, June 5.—The debate on Church Union was continued in the General Assembly this afternoon. The second clause in the "Declaration of Principles" proposed by the Union Committee, which brought objections from non-concurrents at the morning session, was adopted without a word of debate. This declared that if the Church was entering Union as "an organized and living body" without loss of principle or practice. The third clause, declared belief in the essential unity "of all Christ's people" which was adopted without debate, and then the report was a whole.

There were about six hands raised in objection to the adoption Rev. W. G. Brown, of Red Deer, Alta., then entered a dissent in behalf of the non-concurrents which, without debate, was referred to the Union Committee to prepare a reply. Mr. Brown claimed that to date approximately 700 congregations had voted against organic union under the present plan; that there was a majority of about 15,000 Presbyterians against Union in the vote already taken, and that the present Assembly is not representative of the denominations in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. He added, 3,432 Unionists has 71 commissioners and 7,755 Non-Concurrents had one commissioner. British Columbia, one Non-Concurrent commissioner. Montreal, not one and out of 79 Presbytery, 49, he said had no representation for the Anti-Unionists. No Assembly so constituted, he declared, could fairly deal with a question of such magnitude. Mr. Brown's statement was applauded heartily, much to the applause coming from the gallery.

A resolution of thanks to Rev. Dr. Pidgeon for his services as chairman of the Church Union Committee was adopted with cheers, and by a standing vote. It was moved by Rev. Dr. G. W. Gordon of Winnipeg and seconded by Rev. Dr. Pringle of Stanley, N. S. The Assembly's gratitude went also to Rev. J. H. Edmondson, Secretary of the Committee.
