He: You do that very gracefully. She: Poo! Poo! All the girls say I do it disgracefully.

He: The modern girl is either one of two things. She: Is that so? He: Yes, hungry or thirsty.

Large Pimples Lasted A Year Cuticura Heals

"My face and neck were all covered with pimples. They were red, hard and large and festered and scaled over. For a while the itching and burning were so severe that I could not help scratching, and my face was disfigured. I lost my sleep for about a month on account of the irritation. The trouble lasted one year. I used other remedies but they failed to help me. I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After using it I purchased one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Ointment and in a month and a half I was healed." (Signed) Miss Emily Doll, Riverton, Man. DANGEROUS INNOCENCE

Myra discovered everything she wanted to know about Richard Alden that night at the dance. She met several people, among them a man by the name of Jack Cameron, and as they sat out a dance she skillfully led the conversation around to Sally and Richard Alden, who were dancing. Sally wore one of her new Paris frocks, a wispy thing of fragile black lace over pale pink. It was amazing what a difference clothes made in her. She looked both sophisticated and childish, a rare combination. "There's my little sister," Myra said lightly as Sally passed their deck chairs. "Do you happen to know Mr. Alden, the man who is dancing with her? We met him this morning." "I know of him," Jack Cameron returned evenly. "He has interests in Buenos Aires and travels down there fairly regularly. He's enormously rich. He was divorced from his wife not so very long ago. They had been separated for quite some time before that." "Enormously rich! Enormously rich!" The words kept repeating themselves over and over in Myra's mind. That was interesting. Just suppose—of course, it was really too soon to make any conjectures—but still— Sally and Richard Alden were dancing by again. Sally's small head was turned against Richard Alden's shoulder. Her eyes were lowered so that her lashes almost touched her cheeks. His face above hers wore a strange expression. Even Myra, with her keen perception, couldn't exactly read that expression. The orchestra was playing "Love Brings a Little Gift of Roses," which was extraordinary for Sally had been humming it only the night before. He was really marvelous looking and he was enormously rich. He had just been divorced from his wife. Myra's busy brain went on and on. It fairly teemed with thoughts. Sally, in Richard Alden's arms, was not thinking at all. She was unconscious of everything about her. The beat of the music came to her dimly and she followed the rhythm. And all the while there were strong arms around her, her head was turned against a broad shoulder. And he was so tall—so very tall! From under her lowered lashes had rushed across the deck to her and were asking her to dance. She laughed uncertainly. She had never known what it was to be popular. It went to her head. If only she possessed half of Myra's poise and certainty. One of the men spoke, "May I have the next?" She nodded shyly. "The one after that?" said the other. She smiled up at him and nodded. Then she was moving off at Richard Alden's side. They were walking down the deck. They stopped for a moment at her deck chair, where she had left her wrap, and he muffled her in it. His deep, quiet voice said evenly, "Foolish to take cold." She looked up at him with wide, starry eyes, and under the quick fire of his glance her own fell. "How about the next after the next after the next?" he asked banteringly. And then he smiled. It softened the spoiled lines around his handsome mouth. What a child she was! All day he had been trying to get used to the fact that she was actually married. She was like an unspooled little girl. She had quickened impulses in him that he had thought forev-

MR. JOHN COTTON.

There passed away to her eternal reward at the home of her son, John Cotton, Kelvina, where she had gone to visit a few days before, a very estimable lady in the person of Mrs. Catherine Cotton, relict of the late Wm. She leaves to mourn their loss, four sons and two daughters, John in Kelvina, George in Burlington, Mrs. Arch McKay, N. B., Ruthford, Grene, and Elmer at home.

Her funeral was held at the homestead, Clinton, on the 1st day of the old year, and was attended by a large gathering of friends and neighbours who came to pay the last tribute of respect to a good kind lady, and the services at the house and grave were conducted by the Rev. His Back Was So Sore He Could Not Bend

Mr. Charles Bodin Tells of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

New Brunswick Man Tried Almost Everything For His Backache But Found No Relief Until Taking Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Wilson's Point, N. B., Feb. 28.—(Special)—"I had an awful backache," writes Mr. C. Bodin, a well-known resident of this place. "I tried everything for it except Dodd's Kidney Pills. I purchased a supply and after taking the first box I could feel my back was getting better. Before I started taking them my back was so sore that I could not bend, but I can now."

The relief that Mr. Bodin found has come to thousands of other Canadian men through the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills. That shows that the ache is caused by the kidneys.

For Dodd's Kidney Pills are purely and simply a kidney remedy. For more than a quarter of a century Dodd's Kidney Pills have been a household remedy in thousands of Canadian homes.

Dodd's Kidney Pills strengthen the kidney's and put them in shape to do their full work of straining the impurities out of the blood. With pure blood there is good health all over the body.

HURT ARM IN FALL FROM BOX CAR

Sustains painful injury but gets quick relief

In a fall from the top of a box car, a freight brakeman on the Chicago and Northwestern Railway badly sprained his left arm and tore some of the ligaments.

"I suffered great pain," he writes from Belle Plaine, Iowa. "Then I got a bottle of Sloan's Liniment and it relieved the pain right away."

Sloan's gets results because it doesn't just deaden the pain. It stirs up the body to throw off the cause.

Just pat it on lightly. No need to rub. Sloan's does the whole job. Get a bottle today. All druggists—35 cents.

"Not by Meat Alone"

Leading fox ranchers have demonstrated that, in addition to meat, it is absolutely necessary to feed a liberal supply of IMPERIAL BISCUITS daily during the winter season, in order to keep the bowels regular and also to ensure the females having an adequate supply of milk during the lactation period.

IMPERIAL COD OIL BISCUITS are made from a formula which has been prepared with these results in view and which reliable tests, extending over a considerable term of years, have proved to be signally successful.

Ranches, which have continued the feeding of IMPERIALS regularly in winter have had the largest litters of young foxes and also the highest average of pups raised to maturity; in addition, they have practically eliminated the destroying of young by the females.

For assured results feed IMPERIALS throughout all the winter season. IMPERIAL are sold by leading distributors or direct from the factory.
