HEROIC DEFENCE OF MT. RENAUD BUT ONE EPISODE OF BATTLE

Small Garrison Was Completely Outnumbered by Germans—Driven Back and Lost Many Men But Rallied and Defeated the Enemy.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES, May 1, the great battle which is still in progress composed of hundreds of episodes, most of which will not be told, but of which the following episode is typical. It occurred a day or two ago at a place called Mt. Renaud toward Normandy. It is a wooded hill crowned with a ruined chateau. The chateau itself stands in the midst of a park enclosed by a rectangular stone wall. The chateau and park are held by the French and the Germans are below in the woods on the north slope. At the time of which we speak the position was garrisoned by a few companies of men from southwestern France—Basques from the lower Pyrenees and Gascons from the melancholy moorlands, good soldiers all. Just after dawn several German aeroplanes flew over the French lines firing machine guns at whatever troops were visible. The French instead of hiding replied with rifles and their own machine guns. One German machine was crippled and fell from a wheel down the hillside and fell inside the German lines. Another manoeuvring only sixty yards above the park, made an easy mark for a clever machine gunner.

In the falling of a wing of the machine caught in a tree. The pilot was killed and the observer taken prisoner. Other German airmen quickly returned to the charge and by 7 o'clock ten machines flew over and let fall a rain of bombs on the French. At the same time the German artillery and trench mortars opened a violent fire. For the minutes projectiles of every description crashed around the chateau, knocking in walls, splintering trees and flinging up columns of earth. Then suddenly the artillery lengthened their fire and formed a barrage behind the chateau so that no reinforcement could arrive.

Enemy Defeated

The enemy's progress along the east wall was so rapid that the park was rapidly becoming untenable. It was not necessary to make a counter attack if the situation was to be saved but the major's entire reserve consisted of fifteen men. He flung them against the Germans, who had been retreating toward the chateau. Seeing this movement the adjutant, who had beaten off the enemy from the north-western angle, divided his section into two. One half continued to defend the angle and the other half faced about toward the east. The Germans inside the park found themselves captured two by two. At times they tried progress from the ruins of the chateau along the north wall. Each time the machine guns from the ruins of the chateau and from the northwestern angle of the wall immediately checked them. The group making the counter-attack, retook the chateau, then the park and at 11 o'clock they had hours after the beginning of the attack, the last living German had fled from the park, leaving 100 dead Germans behind.

French Outnumbered

German infantry were seen skulking up through the woods on the north slope toward the wall surrounding the park. They were twice as numerous as the French and their plan was to capture their park and chateau by flank movement, directed chiefly against the northwestern and northeastern angles of the wall. The German groups were led by flame throwers behind whom came grenadiers. They advanced rapidly and boldly with their usual courage and skill. The French had suffered losses from the bombardment, but the adjutant commanding the little force charged with defending the northwestern angle of the wall, showing fine coolness, kept his men steadily at their posts. Rifleman opened machine gun fire on the approaching flame throwers and succeeded in killing one after another. Then as the German grenadiers continued to leap from tree to tree hurling grenades toward the wall the French began to reply in kind and the hilltop was soon chaotic with the smoke. The major commanding the French companies occupied a post further back in the park.

"We Are Holding Them"

In the midst of this action an orderly, whose officer had been killed, dashed into the major's presence, bare-headed and grinning, shouting, "Major, grenades, major, we must have more grenades, we're holding them." The appeal was irresistible. He was given a case of grenades, and placing it on his shoulder he went staggering back across the park, through the shell

EZEMA CURED

FOR ONE YEAR IN ONE MONTH

H. Martineau, Esq., Honorary Commandant of the Papal Zouaves, of 70 Villeneuve West, Montreal, writing to the proprietors of Zam-Buk, says: "For over a year I suffered with an eruption on my skin, and notwithstanding the numerous remedies I used it got no better until I commenced using Zam-Buk. I applied the balm regularly, used only Zam-Buk Soap for bathing, and in a comparatively short time could see some improvement. After continuing the treatment for a month the disease, although of over a year's standing, had entirely disappeared. In my estimation Zam-Buk is the only remedy for skin troubles."

The reason Zam-Buk succeeds when other remedies fail is because Zam-Buk is all medicine—100% Its healing power is therefore much superior to ordinary

Rotary Club

MR. R. H. JOHNSON presided at the monthly dinner of the Rotary Club in the Kozey Koutur last evening, when the Hon. Secretary, Mr. W. S. Grant, gave a talk on "Rotary."

Mr. Grant said it was a well known fact that beginners were always inclined to do big things and a very usual mistake for them to make was to start to create their ideas before they had a solid foundation on which to build their future greatness. The following comment by one of Rotary's District Governors was worthy of serious consideration: "You will be busy enough for some time to come in educating your men in Rotary principles and then, after a solid foundation has been laid, the only thing that is necessary for you to do is to be prepared to take advantage of any opportunity that comes your way, to be of service to the general public."

The remark had been made and no doubt it had been felt by some of them that the Charlottetown Rotary Club had not accomplished anything as yet, and that it must accomplish something more than eating lunch together once a week, or the enthusiasm would wane and Rotary would cease to exist.

He could agree with the latter part of the statement that Rotary must accomplish something, but he could not agree with the first statement, that Rotary had not already accomplished something. The Charlottetown Rotary Club had been busy laying a foundation and had so far succeeded in uniting some thirty-five of its citizens under the banner of Rotary. They had succeeded in procuring their material very carefully. The test that they must apply was the individual Rotarian's knowledge of Rotary or his ability to assimilate the principles of Rotary. It was said and observed in the course of the dinner that Rotary spirit which was so essential to learn the A. B. C. of Rotary before they were able to voice the Rotary sentiments, or perform the Rotary service that there was both profit and pleasure in performing. Their opportunities for acquiring this Rotary knowledge were boundless. Some of the greatest leaders in church, state and commercial life were today giving their best to Rotary, and through the medium of the Rotarian magazine and the pamphlets sent out from International headquarters, these leaders were being passed along to the individual Rotarian. The main analysis, the Rotarian who did not absorb the Rotary principles, would be considered to work a part of the foundation to hold up his portion of the Rotary structure, and as the master builder rejects all "dead wood" in building his building, so would all the "dead wood" in Rotary eventually be weeded out, for if the Rotary aims and objects were not sufficiently interesting to induce a member to acquire a knowledge of their principles, the Rotary meetings would not be interesting enough to warrant his attending and hearing discussions of his concerns with which he was not familiar and the attendance penalty had been wisely adopted to care for cases of that kind. After Rotary foundation was laid, they must fashion their Rotary machinery by teaching new members Rotary principles, and, as an illustration, Mr. Grant took the Rotary wheel and showed the part it played in the plan of Rotary. A most important step in the education and development of a Rotarian was the receptive mind; the seed of Rotary service must not fall on barren ground. The mind must be prepared to receive the Rotary teachings. The first step toward this was the promotion of fellowship. "Around the table of Rotary the heart grows warm." Rotary began its history by a handshake and a smile across the barriers of special interest. Out of the jolly and the little josh comes the comradeship of Christian names. The crust of conventionalism is broken, and the oil of fellowship is the lubricant that makes the whole machine run smoothly. The use of the Christian name made up more than ten-fold in comradeship what little it might have lost in dignity and the most of them had too much dignity left, after they gave up their pride. They wanted that comradeship in the Rotary Club; they wanted that crust of conventionalism broken, and that was why they made big overgrown schoolboys get up on their feet and sing Rotary songs. Dealing next with the Rotary spirit of service, Mr. Grant said our highest form of civilization was our power to think, our emotions, our feelings. It was of illustration of higher thoughts and finer emotions, he touched a moment on the war. There had been a great deal of discussion as to whether the effect of war was demoralizing or elevating to the individual. There was no doubt, to some, actively engaged in the blood-lust and the heat of condition has a degrading influence, while to some others the determination to perform certain tasks and the willingness of deeds of valor have an ennobling influence; but, of one thing he was quite certain, that for those who had been left behind, who had been called upon to part with father, brother, or son, who were even now and had been burdened with anxiety, the thoughts and emotions that had been called into play by reason of the war, by reason of the parting with loved ones, would have an ennobling influence, and that influence would most certainly benefit future generations.

After all these comments, which could only be classed as food for the society of relatives and friends, the desire to throw around them any protection within our power. These thoughts and these emotions, who of a very high order, were only the basis of a " Rotary spirit of service," supposing a former who had worked his farm up to a high state of cultivation, had adjacent farms on both sides just the reverse, the good farm would be contaminated. That was what Rotary desired to impress upon them. Their individual success and the welfare of the family were bound up with and contingent upon the welfare of the community. The Rotary spirit might be defined as that emotion which prompted them to plan and provide for the health, welfare, comfort and happiness of their own, broadened out to embrace the whole community and still further broadened out to embrace humanity itself. Mr. Grant concluded with some remarks on the work that Rotary has to do, and the application of its ethics to commercial business.

IN MEMORIAM

MR. JOSEPH KENNEDY

The oldest and one of the most respected inhabitants of Harrington, departed this life on Sunday the 28th of April in the person of Joseph Kennedy, born on the same farm ninety-two years ago. He was a hard worker for a longer period than generally falls to human beings. Having a most robust constitution he enjoyed wonderful health until just one week before his decease, and retained consciousness up to almost the last moment, when his gentle spirit returned to Him who gave it. He was a man who was well versed in the various questions which agitated the public mind, but during the last years of his life the Holy Scriptures was his great study. On account of his cheerful disposition and his noble hospitality he will be much missed in the community. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Daniel MacLean, and considering the state of the roads were largely attended. The pall bearers were his four grand nephews—Theo. Abbott, Preston Todd, Achley MacLachlan and Bruce MacLachlan, and interment was made in MacLachlan cemetery. Two sisters are left to mourn their loss, viz., Mrs. Jas. Todd, and Miss Ann Kennedy. "There is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother."

MRS. CHARLES MCKINNON

A deep gloom was cast over the beautiful settlement of Brookline, La. 61 on Sabbath, April 14th, 1918, by the death from pneumonia of one of its most popular residents in the person of Annie Johnston, the beloved wife of Charles McKinnon (deceased). All that medical skill and kind hands could do was done for her, but without avail. As was said of Dorcas of old, "This woman was full of good works and almsdeeds which she did." Of her it could be truly said, "A mother in Israel has fallen." Although seventy-two years of age, she was wonderfully active, and was above the ordinary woman of her age, bright and intelligent. She was a consistent member of Valleyfield Presbyterian church for many years. The funeral service at the home, and at the grave, was conducted by her pastor, Rev. J. M. McLeod, assisted by Rev. M. D. McLeod, of Caledonia. Her remains were interred in the Valleyfield cemetery. Notwithstanding that the roads were exceedingly bad, a very large concourse of her acquaintances gathered to pay their last tribute of respect to one who was beloved by all who knew her.

She leaves to mourn besides a large circle of friends and relatives, a sorrowing husband, and the following family: Hector, in Toronto; John, now foreman of the Oxford Paper Mills, Rumford Falls, Me.; Willie Dun of Glen Martins, Calm, also holding a prominent position in the above named paper mills, and Sarah Jane, wife of John McLeis, of Glen Williams.

In her old homestead, Head of Carigan, there resides her brother Hector, and two sisters, Susan and Jessie. "The memory of the righteous shall not be forgotten."

Hands Swollen With Rheumatism

And Suffered Much From Backache in Spite of All That Two Doctors Could Do—Cure Vouched For By His Pastor

Spencer's Island, N. S., May 3.—This letter tells of the complete cure of rheumatism by the combined use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills.

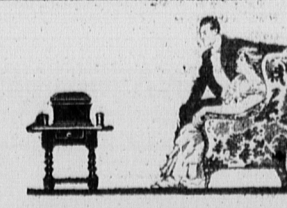

Mr. Spicer was so bad that his hands would swell and cause him much suffering from the pain. He could not sleep at nights and was rather discouraged when two doctors could not help him much.

His cure was perfected three years ago, and is strongly endorsed by his pastor, who says he seems to be in perfect health.

Mr. Eurus Spicer, Spencer's Island, N. S., writes: "For one year I was afflicted with rheumatism, and suffered from backache, and weak kidneys. My hands used to swell, and I could not sleep at night. I consulted two doctors within that time, but neither one of them did me much good. Finally I commenced treatment of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I had read about this combined treatment in Dr. Chase's Almanac, and resolved to give it a trial. The results were splendid, for after using about six boxes, I obtained a perfect cure. That was three years ago, and I have had no returns of the old trouble since."

Rev. Austin M. Angus, Methodist Clergyman, Advocate, N. S., writes: "I have known Mr. Eurus Spicer, who has been completely cured of rheumatism by Dr. Chase's treatment for some time, and believe the above statement is correct. He seems now to be in perfect health."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, a full treatment of 6 boxes for $2.75. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations only disappoint.
