

RED ROSE
is good COFFEE

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS

Miscellaneous
No. A. McDONALD, LAND SURVEYOR, HERMANVILLE. 7749-2-20-1mg

WANTED—PURE BRED SHORTHORN BULL for Cornwall Farmers Institute. Please state age. Apply to Fred Hyde, Cornwall. 8150-3-17M51

CAPTURED, MARCH 5th ONE Silver Female Fox. Tattoo J. H. right ear. 55 A left ear. Charles C. Duggan, Sea View, P. E. I. 8141-3-17M21

FURNISHED HOUSE-KEEPING apartments, 104 Prince St. 8139-3-17M21

WANTED TO EXCHANGE McLaughlin Six Model D 45 for Ford Light Delivery. Apply Johnkins Service Station. 8158-3-17-31

TEACHER WANTED FOR PLEASANT Grove School. Apply W. E. Hardy, Secretary. 8176-3-18M21

FURNISHED HOUSE KEEPING rooms, hot and cold water, telephone. Apply 247 Prince St. 8132-3-18-31

STRAYED FROM MY RANCH ON 14th, female fox, taloo C. B. T. right ear 8 C left ear. William Duffy, R. R. 5. 8174-3-18M61

ESCAPED FROM MY RANCH, Ghannan, one silver black male fox pup with white on left hind leg. Reward T. Sherry. 8151-3-18M31

ESCAPED FROM CLAREMONT Ranch 1 male, fox, No. 62019, 1 female, No. 61999, A. V. L. 2 B. If caught, notify P. Peters, 4-45 or Mrs. C. E. Grant, 104 Water Street. 8173-3-18M31

Lost
LOST—BETWEEN POWNALL and Cherry Valley a horse blanketed. Please leave at J. E. McEachern's. 8186-18-11

LOST—FOUNTAIN PEN. PLEASE return to 79 Euston or Phone 408-J. 3-18-21

AUCTION SALE
OF FARM ON SATURDAY 27TH MARCH AT 12.30 O'CLOCK

By Instructions of the owner I offer for sale at my Auction Rooms 82 Queen Street Fifty Acres (next John McQueen's) in the fine old district of Ulig with nice orchard and land in fair state for farming, all clear, with newly built house on the property not quite finished. The owner has taken up residence abroad and that is the reason for his selling. Good terms. Part of the purchase money may be arranged for on loan.

Applications may be made to Malcolm J. McPherson, Kinross, who will show any persons over the premises.

J. A. McDONALD Auctioneer
MacKinnon and McNeill,
Solicitors for owner. 3-18-18-21

FOR SALE
Choice farm situated at South Shore four miles from ferry, near school and church, consisting of 113 acres of land all clear. Dwelling house and barns in first class condition with concrete cellars. If not sold privately before March 29th will be sold by public auction on that date together with stock and balance of crop.

For further particulars apply to JOSEPH DOYLE, South Shore. 8188-18-101

Queen Hotel
Since taking over this Hotel we have spent many thousands of dollars in repairs and improvements. It is now the finest Hotel of its class in the Maritime Provinces. It appeals to those who want a comfortable Hotel and splendid table and excellent service at a moderate price.
Rates $3.00 a day.
Charlottetown Hotel Co., Ltd.
Proprietors
MISS L. McQUAID, Manager

Central Guardian
Y. M. C. A. Saturday night Gym Exhibition and concert. 8191-18-11

CHURCH OF SCOTLAND.
Rev. Ewen MacDougall will preach Sabbath 21st at Cape Traverse at 11 a. m., and 7 p. m., and Summer side on Monday 22nd at 7.30 p. m.

COME TO CLEARANCE sale at H. M. Anderson, Mayfield, Saturday day 20th. 8040-3-12-mmt

AT HOME—Mrs. E. Manning Bagnall will be at home at 125 Fitzroy Street, Friday, March 19th from 4 to 6 p. m. 8185-18-21

THE BOAT—The Car-ferry docked at Borden last evening at 8.15 the mail train arriving in the city at 8.55 p. m.

FAIRVIEW, NORTH RIVER and Long Creek—Preaching services on next Sunday as follows: Fairview, Rustico Road at 11, North River at 3 and Long Creek at 7. A cordial invitation to all.

TO CALIFORNIA.—The transcontinental hikers, Jack Roberts and Robert Harris have completed their preparations for the long journey and an official start will be made on Friday morning from the Guardian Office corner.

LECTURE IN TIGNISH.—Mr. Justice Arsenault has accepted an invitation to give an address in Tignish under the auspices of the Acadian Mutual Benefit Society tomorrow evening in Tignish Hall.

THE SAXON AND THE GAEL.—At the Caledonian Club tonight the lecturer will be Mr. James McIsaac, ex-M. P., whose subject will be "The Chieftain's Daughter, or when Gael and Saxon Meet." Mr. McIsaac's ability as a lecturer is well and favorably known, and the subject being to his taste, the audience may count upon having a good and profitable time.

A NEW RESIDENT.—Mr. A. V. Desborough of Wisbech, England, arrived in the city Tuesday night. Mr. Desborough is one of the 400 who left Liverpool by the S. S. "Aurora" to take up farming in Canada. About fifty percent of the party were Germans and Poles. They arrived in Halifax on Sunday morning and proceeded for Western Canada. Mr. Desborough was the only one coming to the Island; he is going on the farm of Mr. J. R. Munn, Marshfield, where he will study farming before taking up a farm of his own.

POLICE COURT.—At the Police Court yesterday morning a prohibition case was disposed of by a fine of $200.00 or three months. Two men, who are mixed up in the shooting and were arrested Tuesday night with assault, were remanded until the afternoon when four additional men also alleged to have been implicated appeared before His Honor. An aggravated assault charge was laid against them by the plaintiff, Mr. Patrick McKenna. Two of the defendants were represented by W. E. Bentley, K. C., as His Honor wished to try the six men together, he was forced to adjourn trial until this morning at 10 o'clock, when counsel for the other four men would be present. Bail for two was fixed at $50.00 each.

PERSONALS
Miss Mary M. MacDonald, Nine Mile Creek is spending a few days in the city.

Mrs. Chester Buntain, New London was among the visitors to the city yesterday.

Mrs. John D. Hume, who has been a patient at the P. E. Island Hospital for six weeks and who has been convalescing at the home of Mr and Mrs Frank Riggs, returned to her home in Marshfield Tuesday.

BIRTHS
MacMILLAN—At Covehead, March 17th, 1926, to Mr and Mrs Brent MacMillan, a daughter—Patricia.

MALLET—On March 15, 1926, at Little York, to Mr and Mrs. Benj. A. Mallett, a son.

SIMPSON—At the P. E. I. Hospital, on March 13, 1926, to Mr and Mrs. Richard P. Simpson, of St. Catherine's, Ont., a daughter, Mrs. Simpson was formerly Miss Ruth Mutch, of Hopeton.

MARRIAGES
LUTZ—ROACH—At Bay Fortune, on Monday, March 15th, 1926, by Rev. E. Lockhart, B. A., William H. Lutz of Bay Fortune and Retana Jane Roach, daughter of Luke Roach of Bristol, Lot 40, P. E. I.

JENKINS—JONES—At the Manse, 282 Prince Street, March 17th, 1926, by Rev. W. Bruce Muir, Frederick Lloyd Jenkins, Dundas Centre to Miss Catherine Isobel Jones, Brackley.

DEATHS
MacDONALD—At Montague, Mar. 17th, 1926, Miss Ola MacDonald, Funeral Friday at 2 p. m.

McLEOD—At Kinross, March 17, 1926, Miss Christie McLeod, aged 77 years. Funeral Friday, at one o'clock to Orwell Head cemetery.

JARDINE—At Brooklyn, Lot 61, P. E. Island, on March 14th, 1926, Abigail Bears, beloved wife of Christopher Jardine, aged 73 years. Christopher Jardine, aged 73 years.

BUTLER—At St. Peter's Bay, March 15th, Mrs. Elizabeth Butler, relict of the late John Butler, age 85 years. She leaves to mourn one daughter Margaret.—R. I. P.

GYMNASTIC Exhibition and concert Y. M. C. A. Saturday night. 8190-18-11

THE LECTURE in the Caledonian Club this evening by Mr. Jas. McIsaac is entitled "The Chieftain's Daughter." *

DIES AT STANLEY BRIDGE.—There passed away at Stanley Bridge on March 12th, 1926 Mrs. Thos. Farish in her 76th year. The funeral service was held in the United Church at Stanley on Saturday, March 13th. Rev. Mr. Aitken preaching the sermon. Mrs. Farish leaves to mourn her husband and one son, Wallace both living at Stanley Bridge.

Dominion Livestock Report
(Canadian Press)
MONTREAL, Mar. 17.—With but 3 cattle, 2 sheep, 315 hogs, and 120 calves received on two markets since the close of trading yesterday, prices were unchanged. One lot of calves sold for $8.50 and quotations ranged from that downwards to $6.50 for poor lots. Hogs sold from $13.75 to $14.00 and select were quoted at $14.25.

SILK PLANT IS HEAVILY GUARDED FROM STRIKERS
PASSAIC, N. J., March 16.—A heavy guard was ordered thrown around the National Silk Dyeing Company's plant at East Paterson today in anticipation of a demonstration by striking textile workers who are seeking the silk workers' support. Uncomplimentary remarks made by strikers or other demonstrators in arrests it was stated.

THE MARKETS
(Canadian Press)
MONTREAL, Mar. 17.—The trade in cash grain in local market was again slow the only business reported being a few car lots of oats for all rail shipment from Fort William to demand in premiums for cash oats in Winnipeg market dealers here have marked up spot prices 1 to 3 cents per bushel and now carlots of No. 2 Canadian western are quoted at 62-12, No. 3 C. W. at 59, extra feed at 59, C. and No. 1 feed at 65, and No. 2 feed at 53c per bushel, but there has been no change in prices and Ontario oats. There was no change in local flour market prices for spring wheat grades being about steady at recent advance. The volume of business was again reported small. A few small orders were received from foreign buyers for nearby shipment but the movement for domestic account was light. A firm feeling developed in the market for mill feed and a steady increase demand was noted but prices were unchanged. There was no change in the condition of the baled hay market. A steady feeling prevailed in the egg market and prices showed no change. The volume of business was large and the market was active. A very firm feeling developed in the market for potatoes and prices were fully maintained. There was a good demand and local stocks are about exhausted. A fairly active trade was done in both New Brunswick and Quebec varieties. Prices remained as quoted yesterday. The firm undertone that prevailed in the butter market yesterday developed into strength today and prices scored another advance of 1-2 and 1-4 per pound.

OTTAWA, Ont., Mar. 17.—(Eggs)—Canadian egg markets are generally steady today with the exception of Vancouver where a price decrease had occurred.

Toronto, Mar. 17.—The tone of the market is unchanged. 10 cars of States eggs have arrived so far this week costing about 35 cents delivered. Wholesale fresh extras 39 to 40, firsts 35 to 36. Montreal egg market is active for actual consumptive wants. A shipment from Alberta is due to arrive on this market this week. Dealers paying country shippers extras 36, firsts 31.

FATHER McMAHON'S SERMON
The following sermon was delivered by Rev. P. J. Mahon at the parish church of St. Patrick's, Charlottetown, on Sunday, March 14th, 1926.

"Let us now praise men of renown and our fathers in their generation." Eccles. 44.
My Dear Brethren:
It is in obedience to this divine command that the Catholic Church today, throughout the world, celebrates the feast of St. Patrick. From end to end of the year her saints are the theme of her daily thanksgiving and praise. They are her "men of renown," her great ones and she honors them just as the world honors her famous men, and records their great deeds thus perpetuating their names and their glory. In honoring the saints we honor God for them, for after all what is their saintliness but, as the Scripture tells us, "A vapor of the power of God and a certain pure emanation of the glory of the Almighty God." "The brightness of eternal light; and the unspotted mirror of God's majesty and the image of His goodness." Thus my dear brethren we honor God in His saints.

But, if the Church of God honors today St. Patrick, he is honored also in a special manner by his own children, the Irish people. The Irish people occur truly the children of St. Patrick and he, their "father in his generation," is their "brightest of stars."

Now the returns have more to Ireland no longer dragged there an unwilling slave of men but, free drawn by irresistible love to the willing slave of Jesus Christ.

O happy moment in the history of Ireland when first the sands of the Irish shore received the footprint of its glorious Apostle and when first was heard in the old Celtic tongue the name of Jesus and the Master entering upon his new inheritance exclaimed, "This is my resting place for ever and ever; here shall I dwell because I have chosen it."

The work of St. Patrick in spreading the faith in Ireland, my dear brethren, is one of the most glorious pages in the history of the Church of God.

The gospel of Christ, with its lessons of self-denial, prayer and purity, is not congenial to fallen man. His love of ease, his blindness of intellect, his passions, all oppose the spread of the Gospel and thus its propagation always was, and always will be, a work of labor with apparently small results. Such has it been with all nations and yet Ireland seems a grand exception. The simple Irish folk flocked to the standard of Jesus Christ. His holy doctrine found ready entrance into their hearts and lodged there so securely that centuries of persecution failed to shake it. Ireland is, perhaps, the only country owing her conversion to the work of one man. He found her universally pagan. He left her universally Christian.

For more than a thousand years the work of St. Patrick in Ireland was the glory of the Christian world.

The Church of Ireland became the mother of saints. Schools and monasteries sprang up all over the island and the nations called her the land of Saints and Scholars.

And when the darkness of ignorance and superstition settled over the rest of Europe the Emerald Isle shone bright in the west and scattered far and wide its rays of sanctity and learning.

But, my dear brethren, the voice of history clearly and emphatically proclaims that the intellectual

REAL SPECIALS
Large 4 lb. Jar Orange Marmalade 59 cts.
2 lbs. Broken Orange Pekoe Tea $1.10
CUDMORE BROS
GROCERS

CHARLOTTETOWN HONORS THE MEMORY OF ST. PATRICK

Yesterday the Feast of St. Patrick, Ireland's Patron Saint was fittingly observed by the sons and daughters of old Erin in this city. The day was glorious, the weather being moderate with the bright sun glistering on the trees laden with flakes of heavy white frost which fell during the previous night, making a most beautiful scene. Everywhere about could be seen the green ribbon or butoniere of real shamrock emblematic of the day.

At 9.30 the Benevolent Irish Society headed by the League of the Cross band, left their Hall on Queen Street and proceeded along to Richmond and from Richmond to Great George to the Cathedral. The Society presented a fine appearance an exceptionally large number being in the parade this year.

Excellent music was rendered by the League of the Cross Band under the Leadership of Mr. W. J. Crawlers and many favorable comments were heard on the excellence of the music and the appearance of the parade in general.

At the Cathedral Solemn High Mass was celebrated by Rev. Father McCabe assisted by Rev. A. L. Sinnott, Deacon, Rev. P. Walsh, Sub-Deacon and Rev. A. J. McIntyre, Master of Ceremonies.

His Lordship Bishop O'Leary and a number of clergy occupied seats in the Sanctuary.

An eloquent sermon was delivered by Rev. P. J. Mahon, who afterwards after the service the principal streets returned to their usual stirring addresses were delivered by several members.

The parade was marshalled by Mr. Ed. Ready assisted by Messrs. Leo Dowling and Michael O'Neill.

Now the returns have more to Ireland no longer dragged there an unwilling slave of men but, free drawn by irresistible love to the willing slave of Jesus Christ.

O happy moment in the history of Ireland when first the sands of the Irish shore received the footprint of its glorious Apostle and when first was heard in the old Celtic tongue the name of Jesus and the Master entering upon his new inheritance exclaimed, "This is my resting place for ever and ever; here shall I dwell because I have chosen it."

The work of St. Patrick in spreading the faith in Ireland, my dear brethren, is one of the most glorious pages in the history of the Church of God.

The gospel of Christ, with its lessons of self-denial, prayer and purity, is not congenial to fallen man. His love of ease, his blindness of intellect, his passions, all oppose the spread of the Gospel and thus its propagation always was, and always will be, a work of labor with apparently small results. Such has it been with all nations and yet Ireland seems a grand exception. The simple Irish folk flocked to the standard of Jesus Christ. His holy doctrine found ready entrance into their hearts and lodged there so securely that centuries of persecution failed to shake it. Ireland is, perhaps, the only country owing her conversion to the work of one man. He found her universally pagan. He left her universally Christian.

For more than a thousand years the work of St. Patrick in Ireland was the glory of the Christian world.

The Church of Ireland became the mother of saints. Schools and monasteries sprang up all over the island and the nations called her the land of Saints and Scholars.

And when the darkness of ignorance and superstition settled over the rest of Europe the Emerald Isle shone bright in the west and scattered far and wide its rays of sanctity and learning.

But, my dear brethren, the voice of history clearly and emphatically proclaims that the intellectual supremacy and guidance of the Christian world from the sixth to the ninth centuries belonged to Ireland.

But by dear brethren, God wishes to try the faith of the Irish people. The giant tree, stretching its majestic head high into the air may seem to the passer by to be securely rooted but it is only when the storm sweeps over the face of the earth and the weaker things are carried away by its fury that its real strength is tested and proved. The good ship may sail beautifully in the wind but it is only on the morning after the storm which sweeps the deep and casts the angry waves about her, seeking to destroy her, that we can judge what kind of ship she is. The Irish Church, my dear brethren, was tried in the cruel flames of persecution and was not found wanting. Centuries of persecution failed to shake the faith of her people. Apostasy would have saved them three centuries of oppression. But no! The Irish people would never apostatize. They saw the country shaken and torn themselves despoiled of their lands and all their cherished possessions, their sons and daughters exiled to foreign lands, but cherished, inviolate, in their bosoms, the faith of Jesus Christ.

We can only realize the greatness of this result by comparing it with other nations. Behold for instance how the Mussulman invasions destroyed the faith in those ancient peoples in the East, who received the faith from the lips of the Apostles themselves; how thoroughly the Saracens succeeded in destroying in a few years the Christian Church in the North of Africa. Where is the Alexander of St. Mark, the Hippo of St. Augustine, the Carthage of St. Cyprian? Their glory has long since faded; their names now all but forgotten. Truly, then, my dear brethren, the Province of Ireland, watched over the Church in the north of Ireland, in hunger and thirst, in cold and nakedness, forgotten and despised with no other support than the Christian faith and hope within him. These hours did not fall him and he at length escaped and returned to his native land, back to his parents, to his friends, back to all that life held dear. But he was not the same man. He had been changed. He had been changed by the faith of his fathers. He had been changed by the faith of his fathers. He had been changed by the faith of his fathers.

Chevrolet Motor Company Meeting Today
Today the Chevrolet Motor Company are holding a convention at A. Horne and Co., show rooms followed by a luncheon. In the party are Messrs. E. R. Burchard, Assistant Salesmanager, E. A. Everson Assistant General Sales Manager, W. C. Marshall Commercial and Fleet representative, Fred Johnson, Service Representative, C. A. Hall, G. M. A. C. representative, H. King, T. W. Dryden. Part-time sales representatives. Conventions have been held by these gentlemen in various countries and reports from dealers all over are that 1926 will be a better and bigger year than ever.

supremacy and guidance of the Christian world from the sixth to the ninth centuries belonged to Ireland.

But by dear brethren, God wishes to try the faith of the Irish people. The giant tree, stretching its majestic head high into the air may seem to the passer by to be securely rooted but it is only when the storm sweeps over the face of the earth and the weaker things are carried away by its fury that its real strength is tested and proved. The good ship may sail beautifully in the wind but it is only on the morning after the storm which sweeps the deep and casts the angry waves about her, seeking to destroy her, that we can judge what kind of ship she is. The Irish Church, my dear brethren, was tried in the cruel flames of persecution and was not found wanting. Centuries of persecution failed to shake the faith of her people. Apostasy would have saved them three centuries of oppression. But no! The Irish people would never apostatize. They saw the country shaken and torn themselves despoiled of their lands and all their cherished possessions, their sons and daughters exiled to foreign lands, but cherished, inviolate, in their bosoms, the faith of Jesus Christ.

We can only realize the greatness of this result by comparing it with other nations. Behold for instance how the Mussulman invasions destroyed the faith in those ancient peoples in the East, who received the faith from the lips of the Apostles themselves; how thoroughly the Saracens succeeded in destroying in a few years the Christian Church in the North of Africa. Where is the Alexander of St. Mark, the Hippo of St. Augustine, the Carthage of St. Cyprian? Their glory has long since faded; their names now all but forgotten. Truly, then, my dear brethren, the Province of Ireland, watched over the Church in the north of Ireland, in hunger and thirst, in cold and nakedness, forgotten and despised with no other support than the Christian faith and hope within him. These hours did not fall him and he at length escaped and returned to his native land, back to his parents, to his friends, back to all that life held dear. But he was not the same man. He had been changed. He had been changed by the faith of his fathers. He had been changed by the faith of his fathers. He had been changed by the faith of his fathers.

Now the returns have more to Ireland no longer dragged there an unwilling slave of men but, free drawn by irresistible love to the willing slave of Jesus Christ.

O happy moment in the history of Ireland when first the sands of the Irish shore received the footprint of its glorious Apostle and when first was heard in the old Celtic tongue the name of Jesus and the Master entering upon his new inheritance exclaimed, "This is my resting place for ever and ever; here shall I dwell because I have chosen it."

The work of St. Patrick in spreading the faith in Ireland, my dear brethren, is one of the most glorious pages in the history of the Church of God.

The gospel of Christ, with its lessons of self-denial, prayer and purity, is not congenial to fallen man. His love of ease, his blindness of intellect, his passions, all oppose the spread of the Gospel and thus its propagation always was, and always will be, a work of labor with apparently small results. Such has it been with all nations and yet Ireland seems a grand exception. The simple Irish folk flocked to the standard of Jesus Christ. His holy doctrine found ready entrance into their hearts and lodged there so securely that centuries of persecution failed to shake it. Ireland is, perhaps, the only country owing her conversion to the work of one man. He found her universally pagan. He left her universally Christian.

For more than a thousand years the work of St. Patrick in Ireland was the glory of the Christian world.

The Church of Ireland became the mother of saints. Schools and monasteries sprang up all over the island and the nations called her the land of Saints and Scholars.

And when the darkness of ignorance and superstition settled over the rest of Europe the Emerald Isle shone bright in the west and scattered far and wide its rays of sanctity and learning.

But, my dear brethren, the voice of history clearly and emphatically proclaims that the intellectual supremacy and guidance of the Christian world from the sixth to the ninth centuries belonged to Ireland.

But by dear brethren, God wishes to try the faith of the Irish people. The giant tree, stretching its majestic head high into the air may seem to the passer by to be securely rooted but it is only when the storm sweeps over the face of the earth and the weaker things are carried away by its fury that its real strength is tested and proved. The good ship may sail beautifully in the wind but it is only on the morning after the storm which sweeps the deep and casts the angry waves about her, seeking to destroy her, that we can judge what kind of ship she is. The Irish Church, my dear brethren, was tried in the cruel flames of persecution and was not found wanting. Centuries of persecution failed to shake the faith of her people. Apostasy would have saved them three centuries of oppression. But no! The Irish people would never apostatize. They saw the country shaken and torn themselves despoiled of their lands and all their cherished possessions, their sons and daughters exiled to foreign lands, but cherished, inviolate, in their bosoms, the faith of Jesus Christ.

We can only realize the greatness of this result by comparing it with other nations. Behold for instance how the Mussulman invasions destroyed the faith in those ancient peoples in the East, who received the faith from the lips of the Apostles themselves; how thoroughly the Saracens succeeded in destroying in a few years the Christian Church in the North of Africa. Where is the Alexander of St. Mark, the Hippo of St. Augustine, the Carthage of St. Cyprian? Their glory has long since faded; their names now all but forgotten. Truly, then, my dear brethren, the Province of Ireland, watched over the Church in the north of Ireland, in hunger and thirst, in cold and nakedness, forgotten and despised with no other support than the Christian faith and hope within him. These hours did not fall him and he at length escaped and returned to his native land, back to his parents, to his friends, back to all that life held dear. But he was not the same man. He had been changed. He had been changed by the faith of his fathers. He had been changed by the faith of his fathers. He had been changed by the faith of his fathers.

Now the returns have more to Ireland no longer dragged there an unwilling slave of men but, free drawn by irresistible love to the willing slave of Jesus Christ.

O happy moment in the history of Ireland when first the sands of the Irish shore received the footprint of its glorious Apostle and when first was heard in the old Celtic tongue the name of Jesus and the Master entering upon his new inheritance exclaimed, "This is my resting place for ever and ever; here shall I dwell because I have chosen it."

The work of St. Patrick in spreading the faith in Ireland, my dear brethren, is one of the most glorious pages in the history of the Church of God.

The gospel of Christ, with its lessons of self-denial, prayer and purity, is not congenial to fallen man. His love of ease, his blindness of intellect, his passions, all oppose the spread of the Gospel and thus its propagation always was, and always will be, a work of labor with apparently small results. Such has it been with all nations and yet Ireland seems a grand exception. The simple Irish folk flocked to the standard of Jesus Christ. His holy doctrine found ready entrance into their hearts and lodged there so securely that centuries of persecution failed to shake it. Ireland is, perhaps, the only country owing her conversion to the work of one man. He found her universally pagan. He left her universally Christian.

For more than a thousand years the work of St. Patrick in Ireland was the glory of the Christian world.

The Church of Ireland became the mother of saints. Schools and monasteries sprang up all over the island and the nations called her the land of Saints and Scholars.

And when the darkness of ignorance and superstition settled over the rest of Europe the Emerald Isle shone bright in the west and scattered far and wide its rays of sanctity and learning.

But, my dear brethren, the voice of history clearly and emphatically proclaims that the intellectual

TO ARRIVE
3 Carloads Bran—Shorts—White Middlings and Oil Cake Meal. Book your orders early as feeds are exceptionally hard to get at the present time.
ALSO ON HAND a limited quantity of Bran, Shorts, Oil Cake Meal and Sugar Beet Meal, all of which we are selling at lowest prices.
WHOLESALE & RETAIL
A. HORNE & COMPANY
8182-3-18-1st.

Films DEVELOPED AND PRINTED
ENLARGEMENTS PHOTOGRAPHS
Craswell Studio
137 Great George St.

"My Wild Irish Rose"

(Continued from Page 1.)

once, Miss Pearl Burke portraying the "widow Hanigan" with "money in the bank" and an eye on "Coleen" played her part in most excellent style.

Miss Mary Maddigan gave a clever impersonation of Eileen Fitzgerald, sister of Maurice, a Dublin heiress and is to be commended upon this her first stage appearance. Her natural aptitude leaves us with the opinion that we may expect her capably handling more difficult parts in the future.

The character Peegen Burke, a servant on the McCormack farm, was most admirably depicted by Miss Isabel Trainor who in a rejuvenation from the simple country lass to the chic French maid left nothing to be desired.

Mr. E. F. Maddigan portrayed Michael Peppering a Dublin bar-rister in his usual estimable style. Mr. Larry Trainor taking the part of Terrance Creighan, McCormack's nephew, a young patriot in exile, gave a very clever impersonation of his role, and this being his first appearance his debut in the realm of amateur theatricals is warmly welcomed.

And last but not least one of our old time favorites Mr. Patrick McTague gave a most clever impersonation of Colum McCormack, a prosperous Irish farmer of County Kildare. His work was most admirably depicted by Miss Isabel Trainor who in a rejuvenation from the simple country lass to the chic French maid left nothing to be desired.

As a pleasing diversion the specialties between the acts were worthy meritorious comment. Between the first and second acts Mr. Urban Plueau in a cornet solo made a big hit, so much so that he received a hearty encore. Mrs. W. E. Fletcher was again heard in excellent Irish songs rendered only as a high class soprano is capable of doing. She was tremendously applauded.

Mr. Ben Wagner, violinist leader of the Prince Edward Orchestra was never heard to better advantage than he was last evening. His violin solos holding the audience spellbound throughout the marvelous renditions.

An Irish dance by Miss Anna McEneaney also came in for great applause. Her dancing was a treat and very much enjoyed.

The accompanist for the evening was Professor W. E. Fletcher. The Prince Edward Orchestra under the leadership of Mr. Ben Wagner rendered entrancing Irish airs during the evening's entertainment.

This play will be repeated this evening when another bumper house is expected.

DOINGS AT THE Y
10.30 to 11.30—Special boxing class; 3.30 to 5, Intermediates exhibition practice. 5 to 6.30, Veterans' Volley Ball. 6.45 to 8, Employment and Intermediates, exhibition practice. 8 to 9.30, Men's Volley ball.
Bowling—7, Special Y's Men Match.
8.30, Church League, Trinity vs. St. James's.
Special—6, Supper meeting of Y's men.