Carnegie Endowment Dropped From Ceiling To Study Peace Problems. (C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) NEW YORK, May 7.—An attack on the problem of international peace through a broad study of 150 years of peaceful relations between Canada and the United States was announced today by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. Dr. James T. Shotwell, director of the endowment's division of economics and history, revealed details of a vast plan for surveying economic, social and political conditions between the neighboring nations. While the project has been under way for two years, it had not previously been made public. The survey involves two more years' intensive research with large staffs working both in the United States and Canada. At the same time, Dr. Shotwell and his division has completed its 10-volume history of the Great War, except for two volumes to be published in the autumn. Writing of the history was started in 1917. The projected survey provides for separate, national research programs on each side of the border. Canadians will study Dominion politics and Americans the United States data. The study will cover the relations of the two countries from the time they were fur traders and great rangers down to the present. The endowment expects the survey to produce a vast amount of valuable data. Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of the endowment will head a central international committee to plan the character and scope of this survey. Sir Robert Gordon, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Senator Rudolph Lemieux, Sir Robert Falconer, Dr. C. W. Colby, Newton W. Rowell, K. C., Vincent Massey, Edward V. Brady, K. C., Thomas A. Russell, John W. Deane and Dr. R. C. Wallace are the Canadian members. "It would be not only unscientific but shortsighted to confine a study of the processes of peace to the prevention of war," Dr. Shotwell said in announcing the survey. "The relations of the United States and Canada are as significant as those of the Balkan States, or nations which are immature and lack the traditions of responsible government."

How Deep Should Various Crops Be Seeded? (Experimental Farms Note) Wheat, oats and barley should be seeded at a depth of about two inches. Buckwheat gives better results at one inch. Peas and vetches do well at two inches and sunflowers one to two inches and potatoes at two inches. Potatoes should be planted deeper and do best between 2 and 4 inches. The smaller seeds such as grasses and clovers must be seeded at a depth of one to one-half inch deep. These figures are presented, based on the results of experiments conducted for the past four years, by the Field Husbandry Division of the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. In this experiment thirteen different crops have been used. Wheat, oats, barley, buckwheat, peas, vetches, sunflowers and corn have been seeded at depths of one, two, three, four, five and six inches. Timothy, alsike, red clover and alfalfa were seeded one, two and three inches deep and potatoes at two, four, six and eight inch depths. The proper depth of seeding has been influenced quite considerably by the amount of moisture present. In an extremely dry season most crops will germinate more satisfactorily if planted deeper than in a normal season due to the greater amount of moisture at the lower depth. The opposite is true in a very wet season when very shallow seeding produces better results. The above figures are based on conditions in an average season in Eastern Canada. It will be noticed that for the general run of field crops the most suitable depth to seed is about two inches, with the exception of the smaller grasses and clovers. While the most suitable depth is approximately the same for most of these crops it has been noticed that some crops are more seriously affected than others by departure from this depth. Common vetch, for instance, germinates almost as satisfactorily at a depth of five inches as at two inches. The two inch depth, however, is the best. Next to vetch, peas were least affected by deeper plantings although they were considerably better at two inches than deeper. The germination and yield of wheat, oats and barley dropped rather gradually following deeper plantings but both fell off quite markedly when planted deeper than two inches. Buckwheat was influenced most of all, the crops and germination was depressed very considerably when planted deeper than one inch. The above recommendations refer to crops grown on sandy loam soil. On heavier clay soils, generally speaking, slightly shallower plantings should be employed. "That's a nice little boy," said the visitor, as Johnny picked up his scattered toys. "I suppose your mother has promised you something if you clean up the room." "If I don't," he corrected her. Mr. Goodfellow had dined out six nights in succession. On the seventh night he turned up at home for the evening meal. When he was seated, Mrs. Goodfellow rose and addressed the other occupants of the table: "Children, we have with us tonight a guest of whom you have all heard even if you do not know him personally. He is a man who has a reputation for conviviality and cheer in every club and restaurant in the city, and this evening we are to have the honor and pleasure of being numbered among the admirers of his brilliant and entertaining qualities. It is with the greatest pleasure that I present to you—your father!"

Spread Dragnet For Criminals. (A. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) NEW YORK, May 7.—Another New York policeman died today from bullet wounds received in a gun battle with bandits, as the police department pressed its search for his slayers with new vigor, spurred on by sharp and angry comment from Mayor Fiorello La Guardia. "Make it unhealthy for bandits in New York," he said, suggesting a revival of the old weekly "dragnet" for known criminals. Lawrence Wood, 31, the officer who died, was a third member of the department slain within the last 10 days. He was shot down early Friday. A blaze of gunfire greeted his effort to question three suspected arsonists. The same day another trio of bandits killed a second officer, wounded another member of the department, shot down a baby and two children. These bandits escaped, as did a pair who killed a policeman and wounded a woman in a Brooklyn gun battle a few days before. England Keeps Friendly With Tokyo. (A. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) LONDON, May 7.—Despite the uncertain situation created by her controversy with Japan over the textile trade, Great Britain is making a strong effort to maintain the friendliest relations with Tokyo. The attitude of the Government was revealed authoritatively as being one of determination that there must be no political rupture whatever. "Britain will not permit a trade fight to develop into a political break of any sort," this authority declared, "nor can far eastern political problems cause any degree of trouble between us and the Japanese." A statement of the British policy, with particular reference to the trade conflict, is expected to be made in the House of Commons tomorrow. INSTANTLY KILLED. (C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) DOMINION, N. S., May 7.—Adrian Boone, 19, driver, was instantly killed in Dominion No. 13 colliery Saturday night when run over by a trip of empty coal cars. NO SIGN OF DILLINGER. (A. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) GREENOCK, Scotland, May 7.—The S. S. Duchess of York was searched by her crew on arriving here and her captain reported officially that rumors saying John Dillinger was aboard "are quite unfounded." Police here and in Liverpool heard reports that the United States desperado had fled on the vessel when she sailed from Halifax, N. S., on April 29. Detectives made plans to board the Duchess of York tonight Captain Stewart, the master, reported by wireless that his search for Dillinger had been fruitless.

CORN FOR ENSILAGE. (Experimental Farms Note) In a series of tests, conducted over a period of years by the Division of Forage Plants, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, the varieties of corn commonly offered for sale have been carefully compared on the basis of yield. The results of these tests, have shown that while the large, late varieties, such as the Bunk and Red Cob, have yielded the highest tonnage of green fodder, when reduced to the more comparable basis of dry weight they have not proven superior in yield to the somewhat smaller, but earlier varieties, such as Wisconsin No. 7, Golden Glow, Leaming, Longfellow, Compton's Early, and Salsers' North Dakota. For Eastern Canada generally, therefore, the following varieties are recommended: Dents—Wisconsin No. 7, Golden Glow, and Leaming. Flints—Longfellow, Compton's Early and Salsers' North Dakota. Compared with the Dents, the flint varieties are about 7 to 10 days earlier, but on the average are slightly lower in yield. The dent varieties are preferred by many farmers because they do not tiller heavily like the flint and are therefore somewhat easier to harvest. One bushel of seed of any of the above varieties should be sufficient to plant 2 1/2 to 3 acres in rows 1 1/2 feet apart. Best results have been secured when the plants are not less than 6 to 8 inches apart in the row. Harvesting is often governed largely by the weather, but the crop should not be allowed to mature beyond the "late dough" or "glaze" stage before it is cut. Urges Plan Of Intra-Colonial Preferences. (C. P. Cable by Guardian's Special Wire) PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, May 7.—Sir Edward Davison, British expert on Colonial affairs, sailed for England on the French liner Colombie, accompanied by Lady Davison. Both here and in British Guiana, Sir Edward urged that an intra-colonial preference be worked out for submission to the Secretary of State for Colonies in London. He will spend a short time in Martinique when the liner calls there and compare conditions on the French possession with those he found in the British West Indies. Another passenger on the Colombie was Sir Norman Lamont, former member of the Trinidad legislative council, who is returning to Scotland after visiting his estate here. "I love your daughter, sir. I would suffer to my dying day if I should ever cause her a moment's pain." "You're right, young man, you would. I know that girl."—Answers.

LETTER CITES BUSINESS EXPANSION. (C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) MONTREAL, May 7.—"Rapid, consistent and impressive," is the description given in the current monthly letter of the Royal Bank of Canada to the expansion of business activity in Canada since March, 1933, low point in the depression. In the past three months, the letter says, carloadings were almost 25 percent larger than in the same period of 1933. Automobile production rose from 12,288 units to 29,655 and newspaper circulation gained 42 percent. The power industry has expanded operations to meet revived industrial demand and the volume of electrical energy generated has established new records appreciably above the peak attained in 1926. In both the Maritime Provinces and British Columbia there is an active demand for more lumber than has been ordered in many years. Security Frieze. A remarkable advance has taken place in security prices. The advance registered in the prices of industrial bonds has been sufficient, the letter continues, to warrant the hope the time is not far off when it should be possible to float new securities to finance the requirements of industry and the advance in the price of government bonds has been of such magnitude as to permit refinancing at an appreciable saving in interest charges. "For the farmer there has been a substantial advance in prices during the past year," the review states, "but farm prices are by no means at a parity with those for manufactured goods. Wheat production is a large element in the economy of Canada and in spite of a 30 percent increase in the price of wheat since March, 1933, the price is low and the outlook is unfavorable. "World wheat conferences have failed to solve the problem. There would seem to be no satisfactory solution except continued increase in world purchasing power and a reduction in world tariffs which would permit increased consumption. Need of Confidence. "The restoration of international financial confidence and goodwill, which would bring about an increase in the volume of foreign trade, might lead to the necessary reduction in tariffs. It would seem that either an outcome of this kind or a general failure in the wheat crop are the only alternatives. If world trade were on a normal basis, the present surplus should not prove burdensome. World production is not greatly in excess of normal consumption, but with restricted markets it would seem there is little basis for the hope that the present surplus will be absorbed in the near future. "Although construction has lagged behind other factors in the economic situation the letter finds the present trend in distinct contrast to the discouraging performance of the past few years. In March contemplated construction amounted to $18,000,000 as compared with $6,000,000 in the same month of 1933. The first quarter of 1934 saw building contracts of $20,000,000 awarded as against $10,000,000 in the same period a year ago. With John Dillinger, desperado and gunman, again escaping a police drag-net, John W. Dillinger, 30-year-old father of the jail-breaker, took time out from his spring playing to study a petition asking amnesty for his son. The elder Dillinger suggested that if his son were given another chance "he would make a good policeman."

Drowned While Fishing Salmon. (C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) FREDERICTON, N. B., May 7.—Frederick G. Scott, 42, Fredericton fisherman, was drowned late Sunday afternoon while salmon fishing in the southwest Miramichi River near Doaktown. The body had not been recovered and arrangements were made to drag the river. The victim was a son of James M. Scott, M. L. A., Fredericton. Scott's guide, Thomas Hunter, a Federal patrol warden of Bloomfield Ridge, swam 200 yards to an island in the river when their canoe sank after taking water. Hunter had taken the rod, hooked a salmon and passed the rod to Scott, who, in reeling in the fish, leaned back and tipped the canoe. Hunter said tonight, "When the canoe took in water, I grabbed the side and succeeded in keeping it from turning over. I sank in gradually, but I was under in water up to my knees and when I saw it was sinking I jumped clear." Hunter swam toward the island and turned around, he saw Scott behind him. The latter was out of water but he seemed to be floating, the guide stated. Hunter shouted to Scott, "Gordon, don't give up that rod!" and called to several men on the shore who, about 15 yards away, threw a boat. Hunter was swift and lunker-like and reached the island. He saw no sign of Scott. The man went down before aid could be given him from shore. Young man (to jeweller) — Will you take back this engagement ring? Jeweller—Doesn't it suit? Young man—Yes—but I don't.
