

Poincaré Insists On Ratification Of U. S. Treaty

(Special to The Guardian.) PARIS, Dec. 24—Premier Poincaré appearing before the Foreign Affairs Commission of the Chamber of Deputies today insisted that the Washington naval agreement should be ratified at the earliest possible date. The president was seconded in this stand by former Premier Briand.

Counter Revolution Threatened In Greece

(Special to The Guardian.) MALTA, Dec. 24—Information received here from a reliable source in Athens is to the effect that trouble is brewing there with unmistakable signs of a big counter revolution movement.

The Old Time "Horribles"

A meeting called for 7:30 Tuesday evening at McLaughlin Service Station Garage for the purpose of arranging for "An Old Time Horrible Parade" on New Year's Day. Those contemplating taking part in parade in costume kindly notify Ranking McLaughlin of the McLaughlin Service Station or Mr. Wallace Scantlebury, city.

Tim Healy Presented Formally To King

LONDON, Dec. 23—Timothy Healy's formal presentation to the King in connection with his appointment as Governor-General of the Irish Free State took place at Buckingham Palace today. Healy, who wore a dark morning suit, drove up in a taxi and was immediately introduced to the King in his study, where they remained in conversation for over an hour. He was not formally at the meeting and Healy said afterward, "His Majesty was most cordial and showed a complete acquaintance with conditions in Ireland. In fact his knowledge of the country is really remarkable." Healy was closely guarded during his visit to London, as it is known that the irregulars have sworn vengeance upon him.

Bomb Found Near Buckingham Palace

LONDON, Dec. 23—A disturbing discovery was made at the rear of Buckingham Palace today when a grenade bomb was found in an ash cart which had just arrived to remove the palace refuse. How the missile got into the cart is a mystery, and the police this afternoon were examining it to see if the charge had been removed. The authorities say they attach no special importance to the find, believing the grenade was thrown into the cart while it was on the way to the palace by some one who merely wished to get rid of a dangerous souvenir.

Exchange Dispute Under Consideration

LONDON, Dec. 23—The exchange dispute between Canada and Great Britain in connection with the payment of the latter's war debt to the Dominion will be taken up with the British treasury officials tomorrow by Hon. W. S. Fielding. The Minister of Finance hopes to settle the matter before he leaves on his return to Canada but it is not impossible that it may have to be submitted to arbitration.

Early Estimate Puts Crop Value At $984,139,500

OTTAWA, Dec. 23—The Dominion Bureau of Statistics issued today a preliminary estimate by provinces of the value of the year's field crops, as compared with the final estimates of the two previous years, 1920 and 1921. The value per unit assigned to each crop represent the averages received locally by farmers. They are subject to revision after the compilation of final returns from crop correspondents in January, 1923. For the whole of Canada, the total value of the principal field crops estimated, amounts to $984,139,500, as compared with $931,823,670 in 1921 and $1,355,244,051 in 1920.

Condensed Specials

RATES.—10c per line per day. 3c per line per day for 3 days or over. 5c per line per day for 5 days or over. 10c per line per day for 10 days or over. 15c per line per day for 15 days or over. 20c per line per day for 20 days or over. 25c per line per day for 25 days or over. 30c per line per day for 30 days or over. 35c per line per day for 35 days or over. 40c per line per day for 40 days or over. 45c per line per day for 45 days or over. 50c per line per day for 50 days or over. 55c per line per day for 55 days or over. 60c per line per day for 60 days or over. 65c per line per day for 65 days or over. 70c per line per day for 70 days or over. 75c per line per day for 75 days or over. 80c per line per day for 80 days or over. 85c per line per day for 85 days or over. 90c per line per day for 90 days or over. 95c per line per day for 95 days or over. 1.00 per line per day for 100 days or over.

Record Holiday Business N. Y.

(Special to The Guardian.) NEW YORK, Dec. 24—Holiday buying in New York has broken all records and $250,000,000 has been spent by shoppers here. It was estimated today in business quarters. More persons than ever have been required to handle the business. In the 5,000 dry goods stores alone nearly 200,000 people have been employed.

Hon. W. S. Fielding To Leave For Home January 6

LONDON, Dec. 24—Hon. W. S. Fielding, Canadian Minister of Finance, according to present arrangements hopes to sail for Canada on January 6th.

An Ex-Convict Wanted For Winnipeg Murder

WINNIPEG, Dec. 24—The police of Canada have been asked to look for John Stanton, of Winnipeg, who is wanted in connection with the murder here on Monday night of John Penny, who was tried and sentenced to death with a hanging. A reward of $500 for Stanton's apprehension has been offered. Stanton, according to the police has served terms in Kingston penitentiary and in the Manitoba provincial jail. The police have sought him in Winnipeg, for the past two days and today sent out a general alarm. The theory still is held that a robbery was the motive of the murder.

Confessed To Burning House At East Pubnico

YARMOOUTH, N. S., Dec. 24—John Arenburg, of Liverpool, was arrested here today by provincial constable McMillan, on a charge of having set fire to the residence of George St. C. Wilson, at Lower East Pubnico, on the night of December 18th. Mr. Wilson's residence and the store were burned to the ground and the occupants barely made their escape from the flames. Arenburg confessed, following his arrest and made a weak effort at implicating others. He explained how he gained access to the building occupied by Mr. Wilson, as a residence and store, through a cellar window. He said he stole a quantity of toluene which he buried nearby, afterward returning to set fire to the building. No reason for his incendiary act was given but it is believed he has a mania for setting fires as he admitted having already served eight years in Dorchester penitentiary for having set fire to a property in Liverpool. He is twenty-six years old.

Radio Transmission Records Are Broken

HEARTSFORD, Con., Dec. 23—All long distance records for amateur radio transmission were shattered during the transatlantic tests of the American Radio Relay League when the signals of two amateur stations were picked up in mid-Pacific, seven thousand nautical miles from the transmitter. The radio operator on board the steamship "Eastern" was announced at league headquarters here yesterday. The stations were at Washington, Denver, Colo., and Aberdeen, S. C.

Kindly Remembered

Mr. E. F. Weaver, agent of Imperial Oil Limited, was pleasantly surprised on Saturday night when the entire staff of the Company in Charlottetown waited on, and made a suitable presentation to him which was accompanied by the following address: Dear Mr. Weaver, The staff, in the employ of Imperial Oil Limited at Charlottetown, desire to give expression to their appreciation of your courtesies bearing towards them under all circumstances and may we be permitted to add that the ready and cheerful performance of our duties is a pleasure under your guidance. Briefly, and with most sincere sentiments of regard, for yourself and family, on this festive season of Christmas the members of the staff desire to extend to you, and yours, the compliments of the season, and would ask you to accept the accompanying small token of esteem: George Worth, Herbert Nicholls, David Compton, Henry Cunningham, Henry Peters, Charles Worth, C. D. McGregor, Rose G. Ryan.

Mr. Weaver made a pleasant and appropriate reply, thanking the staff for their kindness, and also for the happy reference made as well to his family. He accepted the occasion to thank them for the thorough and capable manner in which their different duties had been carried out during the past year, and expressed the wish that they would remain employees of the Company for many years to come.

15 Injured In Train Wreck

(Special to The Guardian.) ROCKMOUNT, D. C., Dec. 24—Fifteen passengers were injured early today when eight cars, including four sleepers and the engine of the Atlantic Coastline Railroad train No. 82, enroute from Jacksonville to New York were derailed near Lucama.

Plan For U. S. To Determine Amount Of Reparations

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24—A plan under which a United States commission would determine how much Germany should be required to pay the Allies in reparations has emerged from the efforts to find a basis for extending American aid toward solution of the economic troubles of Europe. Although discussions of the proposal have been kept thus far outside the formal channels of diplomacy the exchange of views has developed a thorough understanding in average circles that the United States, Great Britain and Germany are all willing to assent to the creation of such a commission. The plan now is being prepared by Premier Poincaré of France and he is expected to make a decision after he has concluded a series of conferences with industrial leaders of his own country and of Germany. It is assumed that it will be communicated later to all the nations interested in reparations payments.

Author Of Poison Pen Notes Jailed

PARIS, Dec. 23—Angele Laval, whose poison pen campaign in the city of Tulle in the early part of this year probably resulted in greater havoc and demoralization than is accompanied by any similar epidemic, today was sentenced to one month in prison with suspension of sentence, and was fined 100 francs for public defamation, and five francs fine for private defamation. She was also ordered to pay 200 francs damage to each of her victims. As a result of Mlle. Laval's letters one man committed suicide, two went insane and several suffered nervous breakdowns. The happiness of a number of homes was destroyed, and the entire city was thrown into such moral disorder that all social life practically ceased. Following the accusation against Angele, she made a suicide compact with her mother to drown. The case also attracted public notice because of the dispute it caused over the reliability of the testimony of handwriting experts and the dismissal of a state's attorney for resorting to clairvoyance in an effort to get to the roots of the mystery. Jealousy of a friend who had married a man with whom Angele was once in love was the cause of her crime.

Christians Leaving Asia Minor For Greece

(Special to The Guardian.) CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 24—Twelve thousand Christians from Asia Minor left Constantinople today in five Greek steamers bound for Greece Islands and the Greek mainland. They were brought from the Black Sea ports of Samson, Trebizond, Ineboli and Ordu and were transhipped to waiting Greek vessels in the Bosphorus.

Survivors Of Reliance On Land

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Dec. 23—Twenty of the 27 passengers and crew of the tug Reliance, which was wrecked off the north-west corner of Rowe Island in Lake Superior on December 13th, arrived in the Sault tonight on the Algoma Central Railway. Two others, Captain A. D. Williams, who was in charge of the tug, Chief Engineer H. G. Walsh, and William Gow, fireman, were transferred to the Reliance on Sunday. The Gray will pick up the remainder of the lighthousekeepers on Lake Superior, which mission the Reliance was on when it met its fate. The Gray will then return to the Sault.

The survivors reaching here tell of the fate of three of the others who were washed from the wreck of the Reliance while attempting to lower the after-end lifeboat. They are said to have slipped on the ice and never had a chance to save themselves. The three men clinging to the overturned lifeboat which was being hurried toward the shore by the heavy wind, were last seen when it was being past a point of the island. There the men took a flying chance to reach the island, two hundred yards distant, while the lifeboat was carried two miles further to the mainland. They never reached the island. It is surmised by those who were watching them that they had, but were too numb to struggle further after losing hold of the boat. The bodies of the three men have not yet been found. They were seen by the crew of the Reliance, by Captain Williams, on the day of the disaster.

TELLS OF MAGNIFICENCE OF A PHAROAH'S TOMB

United States Egyptologist Visits Tomb of King Tutenk Hamun.

LONDON, Dec. 23—The archaeologist there when the tomb was last discovered of the recently discovered tomb of King Tutenk Hamun, in the Valley of the Kings, was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming. The despatches but feebly suggested the marvelous reality. It is a sight I never dreamed of seeing. The ante-chamber of the Pharaoh's tomb is filled with magnificent equipment which only the wealth and splendor of the Imperial age of Egypt of the fourteenth century before Christ could have wrought or conceived, and with everything standing as placed logical treasures of the recently closed in antiquity. Two facts are evident. First: It is clear that the place was described today by the United States Egyptologist James H. Breasted in a telegram to the Cairo correspondent of the Times from Luxor. "I spent an hour in Tutenk Hamun's tomb this afternoon," wrote Dr. Breasted. "The impression is overwhelming