PLAINS INVISIBLE AND NOISELESS

LONDON, July 6.—Invisible noiseless airplanes, equipped with two-ton bombs, will probably be one of the chief factors in the next war, according to a prophecy made by the executive committee in a letter just sent to the Prime Minister advocating the appointment of a commission to investigate the strategic possibilities of future warfare. It is pointed out that the bombs dropped on London during the last war weighed only one hundred pounds. With silencers, it is contended the sound of the engines can be completely muffled, and recent discoveries have made it possible to render an airplane invisible, especially when flying at a height of 20,000 feet. It is contended also that an enemy might use arms or gas laden bombs to destroy London and other great cities. The report says: "There is not merely a possibility but a great probability that in the event of war, this country could be raided by squadrons, or even fleets, of airplanes, travelling at a speed of 150 miles an hour at a height of 20,000 feet and upwards, silent as their engines, and certainly by night invisible." It is asserted that all great wars of the future will begin with terrific air battles, and if any country suffers defeat in the first battle the victim will in a few days destroy its ports, railway centres and munitions factories by intensive bombardment from the air.

EATING TOO MUCH SALT

The increase in the death rate from diseases of the heart and kidneys in the last two decades which has been much greater in the United States than in England is caused according to H. L. Harris by a large quantity of salt that most Americans eat. Writing in Good Health (Battle Creek Mich.) he says that Britons eat hams and bacon preserved with borax and either fresh butter or butter preserved with borax acid, while salt is used almost universally in preserving American food. The quantity of salt needed for thirty grains in a day which is amply supplied in cooking. Any more than this is injurious. It is difficult to say how much salt the average American eats in a day but it is certainly at least ten times as much as his.

POSSESSION.

There's some of us has this world's goods,
An' some of us has none—
But all of us got the woods.
An' all has got the sun.
So, settin' here upon the stoop,
This pat h' o' pine beside,
I never care a single whoop—
For I am satisfied.

Now, take the pine on yonder hill,
It don't belong to me;
The boss he owns the timber—still
It's there for me to see.
An' 'twixt the ownin' of the same
An' smella of its smell,
I've got the best of that there game
An' so I'm feelin' well.

The boss in town unrolls a map
An' proudly says, "It's mine."
But he don't think no muple sap
An' he don't smell no pine.
The boss in town he figgers lands
In quarter-sections red;
Lord! I just set with folded hands
An' breathe 'em in instead.

The boss his forest wealth kin read
In cent at' dollar sign;
His name is written in the deed—
But all his land is mine.
There's some of us has this world's goods,
An' some of us has none—
But all of us has got the woods,
An' all has got the sun,

THE STANDARD OIL TROTTERS

By W. H. GOCHER

The recent death of William Rockefeller recalls the fact that all of the men who were identified with the Standard Oil Company became a world wide organization and drove trotters on the road. A few also raced them. For a number of years John D. Rockefeller had a private stable at the Cleveland Driving Park. He also had a stable in New York. It was located a few doors from the building in which Robert Bonner kept Dexter, Rarus, Maud S. and Sunol. His brother William also had an attractive stable on the opposite side of the street while during the summer months his horses were kept at Greenwich, Conn.

John D. Rockefeller's most noted road team was the cross matched pair Midnight and Kate McCall. They could trot close to 2.20. Alex McLean had charge of them as well as the other members of the stable which included Bob Frost, a gray gelding by Independence out of Cleora that was bred by his brother William, Bonhomme, Dodgeville, Mattie Mentone by Monaco out of Mattie Hunter and the Brown Wilkes gelding Pennock. When McLean died John D. sold or pensioned his horses and took up bicycling. He finally drifted to golf which he still follows enthusiastically.

William Rockefeller's most noted pair were the cross matched team Independence and Cleora. In 1883 John P. Gilbert drove them in 2.16 1/4 to a pole cart at Hartford. This was a quarter of a second better the team record which John Murray made with Frank Work's pair Edward and Dick Swiveller the preceding year. It was also one second slower than the 2.15 1/4 which W. H. Vanderbilt made with Maud S. and Aldine over Fleetwood Park.

George Saunders succeeded Gilbert in the management of William Rockefeller's stable. While he was there Wildrake was added to the list of road horses. He was purchased from A. J. Welch.

Frank Rockefeller bred and raced horses. He had a stock farm at Wickliffe, Ohio. Haroldmud stood at the head of the stud, Lady Clark, 2.27, was his best mare. From her he got Hettiemont and Pattie Clark, both of which were reared by Geers. He also owned Maud C., 2.10 1/4 and the fast filly Fanny Foley.

L. V. Harkness was another member of the Standard Oil group that developed a fondness for trotters. His father invested a few thousands in the Rockefeller venture. It had grown to millions when passed on to L. V. Some of them were invested in Walnut Hall Farm, which is America's greatest nursery of light harness performers. From its paddocks turf has received such stars as Lee Axworthy, Prince Loree, La Princeton, The Harvester and Sanario Native Belle, Mary Patney, while its stallion list at the present time presents the names of Guy Axworthy, San Francisco, and Peter Velo.

E. T. Bedford of Brooklyn joined the Standard Oil ranks after its headquarters were located in New York. For years his name has been identified with fast road horses and trotters. He made the world's team record to wagon on a half-mile track with York Boy and Bemy while he also bred Hamburg Belle, 2.01 1/4.

George Hopper was a member of the old Standard group. In 1864 when John D. William Rockefeller and Samuel Andrews opened an office in a little brick building on Water Street in Cleveland and painted the name "Wm. Rockefeller and Company" on the window. Hopper had a cooper shop near Cuyahoga Creek. Rockefeller & Co. came to him to buy barrels. For years they complained of leakage and evaporation. One day while Hopper and his men were debating the subject a tramp stopped at the door of the shop. He suggested that they fill the barrels with water before they were painted. It was tried and proved a success until Dickson after he put Sally Simons and Rose Leaf together. "Of the Standard magnates, Frank Rockefeller and George Hopper were the most affable. Frank Rockefeller enjoyed the races and was always pleased to lay aside his business affairs to talk horse.

George Hopper was at his best on race day. With a box lunch and a bottle of beer, he would sit all afternoon in the grand stand and watch his horses so. It did not make a particle of difference to him whether they were first or last. All he wanted was action.

John D. Rockefeller was a stock holder in the Cleveland Driving Park but no one ever saw him at a race meeting. He always appeared in the morning to drive his horses. A slight bow was the only recognition that he ever gave any of the rising generation although at times he joined in conversation with W. J. Gordon, Col. Edwards or H. M. Hanna. William Rockefeller rarely returned to Cleveland after he located in New York. He was as distant as John D. If a visitor happened to meet him in his stable a "good morning" or a "good afternoon" was the limit of conversation.

"BANG" FARMS.

The "Bang" system originated in Denmark and consists in the establishment of a separate stable or farm where all affected cattle are sent from the herd, community or local breed. The calves are removed at birth, housed in a separate stable and fed pasteurized milk from the tubercular cattle. This disease, it might be mentioned, is not hereditary, but is largely transmitted to the calves through drinking unpasteurized milk.

The tourist won't stay long if forest fire smoke hides the scenery.

Ayrshire Prize Winners

The P. E. Island Ayrshire Breeders' Club offered a prize of twenty dollars for the highest record made in the Record of Performance test to be completed in the year ending March 31st, 1922 and also a prize of the same amount in the Honor Roll of the R. O. P. test open to members of the club. Although no very high records were made, many very creditable records were put up. The following were the winners:

In the 365 day division the highest score was made by Buttercup of Glenholme, 4 years old, 16,444 lbs. milk and 662 lbs. butter fat, owned by Experimental Farm.

The second highest score made by Olive, 2 years old, 9,560 lbs. milk and 420 lbs. fat, owned by A. McRae & Sons.

Other good records made were:

Milk	B. fat
Lily of Melrose	12,154 469
Corra of Craggan	10,829 481
Sylvia of Glenholm	10,889 447
Lily Helen	10,259 469

Owned by Experimental Farm. Queen's Own 11,617 511. Owned by B. R. Brown. Lone Pine Belle 10,009 414. Briery Belle of Sunny Slope, 2 yrs old 8,005 282. Owned by Edwin Reid. Rose of Rosemont, 2nd 2 yrs old 9,247 392. A McRae & Sons.

In the 305 day division G. L. Boswell's 4 year old Lady Huntly gave first place 11,001 lbs. milk, 476 lbs. fat.

B. R. Brown's Brightside Connie gave 7,226 lbs. milk, 320 lbs. fat, as a 2 year old.

Daisy of the Glen, owned by R. Louis Cairns gave 9,745 lbs. milk and 440 lbs. fat.

The above records are very creditable considering that they were made during the extremely dry season of 1921.
