Complexities Of French Law

(British United Press)
PARIS, Feb. 20.—A legal anomaly which must certainly provoke feminists to extreme indignation has been revealed through the troubles of a Parisienne, Mme. Pellissier, who had the misfortune to marry a husband of fickle attention.

Some time ago her husband left her in order to live with another woman. Mme. Pellissier thereupon lodged a complaint against him on the ground that he was keeping this woman in his conjugal abode. The man and his new companion, were, in fact, living in another abode but French law holds that the conjugal abode is the place where the husband resides.

But the law also provides that a wife must not sue her husband without his consent—which M. Pellissier naturally refused. The wife thereupon decided to obtain a divorce in order to have the right to a separate domicile and an individual standing upon which she could sue with or without her husband's permission.

She reckoned, however, without the complication of the law. Having obtained her divorce, she found when she again brought her action that she could not complain that her husband kept a mistress under the conjugal roof, since there was no longer a conjugal roof.

The Public Prosecutor has taken the matter up with a view to securing that in future a wife shall be free to sue her husband for any civil wrong, even without his permission.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—A desire that his second wife be buried in the family plot, alongside the grave of his first wife, was expressed in the will of Charles Squires, timber agent here.

"I desire that my wife shall be buried in my family grave with my first wife, who was her great friend," the will said.

—FUNERAL OF MRS. JAMES ENGLAND—The funeral of Mrs. James England took place on Thursday afternoon from her late residence to the People's Cemetery and was very largely attended. Ven. Archdeacon White, D. D., conducted the funeral service and also officiated at the grave. There were many lovely floral tributes. The pall bearers were Messrs. Robert and Percy Marchbank, David and Harry Walker and Studley and Bradford Yeo.—S

—ST. ELEANORS SOCIAL ACTIVITIES—Just before the advent of Lent the Ladies Aid of St. John's Church, St. Eleanors, held a successful birthday social in their hall. Owing to the bad condition of the roads there were not as many present as was anticipated, but those who did come from a distance were well repaid for their trouble. Games, contests, cards and dancing made the time pass very pleasantly and a dainty lunch was served at the close of the evening. A handsome sum was realized by the W. A. for Church purposes. Mrs. Horace Andrew had a delightful bridge at her home recently but the bad storm of last week prevented many from attending. One or two other parties had to be canceled on account of the storms.—S

—VALENTINE SOCIAL—A most enjoyable Valentine Social was held in the Summerside Presbyterian Church on Tuesday night, Feb. 17. It was held under the auspices of the choir and the Young People's Society and was attended by a large group of the younger people of the church and their friends. A novelty was the serving of the company with tea, cake and ice cream by the young men of the organization. A mock trial was held and afforded great amusement. Many other games were arranged and enjoyed. A feature of the evening was a picture gallery hung in a room comprising the baby photos of many who were present and a guessing competition was the order of the night. An old fashioned spelling "Bee", songs, lively music, etc. made the moments speed away. The entertainment committee are to be congratulated on the decorations of the hall. One of the pleasantest evenings of the winter at last came to a close with the National Anthem.—S

Ward Off Flu

By Keeping the Blood Rich and Pure

To guard your health against the ravages of that dreaded disease—flu—the blood must be in the very best condition. It must be rich, red and health-giving.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make it easy to keep the blood in this condition. Their whole mission is to make rich, red blood and once having supplied your body with this pure blood it is easy to keep it that way by the occasional use of these pills.

If your blood is thin and impure you are a fit subject for flu and must rebuild the blood to ward off the trouble. If, unfortunately, you are seized with this dreaded disease before you have time to rebuild the blood a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will speedily bring you back to robust health and prevent the many dangerous after-effects of the trouble.

The Pills are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

In Memoriam

PETER HERON

With all the plain, simple yet solemn and impressive ceremony that Holy Mother Church lavishes in the obsequies of her departed children, Peter Heron was borne to his last resting place on Saturday, Jan. 31st. The appointed hour of the Mass of Requiem was 9 a. m. Shortly before that time, the bell of St. Patrick's Church began to toll the warning in plaintive tone of the approaching funeral cortege. Funeral Mass was chanted by Rev. D. P. Croken, D.D., Pastor.

The late Mr. Heron, whose death took place on Jan. 28th, was born July 4, 1852. He was married to Margaret Duffy on June 3, 1878, who predeceased him some seven years ago. He has always made his home at Webster's Corner, whose home is now one of the most valuable estates in the Webster's Corner district. With thrift and care he gradually realized a beautiful home. With even greater solicitude has he reared an ideal christian family of four sons and two daughters, namely, James P., of Lowell, Mass., Frank, of Haverhill, Mass., John W., on the home-stead; Lawrence, Mrs. Joseph Hughes and Florence, of Lynn, Mass. He also leaves to mourn his passing, one brother Frances, of Charlottetown and one sister, Mrs. Catherine Smith, Webster's Corner.

The late Mr. Heron was loved by those who knew him well, admired for his ability and respected for his whole-hearted devotion to principles. The high esteem with which the deceased was held was evidenced by the great number who came from far and near with loving tributes of heartfelt sympathy. When the final absolution was pronounced the pall bearers came forward to bear away all that was mortal of him, whom they had known and loved to his last resting place in the cemetery adjoining St. Patrick's Church. The pall bearers were as follows: Patrick McGuirk, Bernard Callaghan, Leo Brogan, Alexander McEachern, James McDonald, Thomas Hughes.

The meeting opened by singing "Oh Canada." The president Mrs. Joseph Egan occupied the chair. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the Secretary Mrs. John McDonald and approved. Roll call was answered with recitations. A discussion of means to raise money for the Institute took place and it was decided to have an entertainment in the near future. After the business meeting lunch was served by the hostess and a very pleasant social hour was spent. The meeting closed by singing the National Anthem Mrs. John Weir invited the members to her home for the next meeting. Roll call to be answered with Old Time Step Dancing.

—LECTURES ON PROHIBITION—"Out of the Frying Pan into the Fire" was the title of the lecture delivered on Monday night by the Rev. Dr. Coburn in Ellerslie Orange Hall. In spite of almost impassable roads a goodly number assembled to show their interest in the great question which has evoked so many conflicting opinions. The meeting which represented all the denominations of the district was organized by the Ellerslie Division of the Sons of Temperance. The Rev. Henry Cook was in the chair supported by the Rev. D. F. Davies of Tyne Valley. After giving an interesting resume of the recent findings by scientists as to the effects of alcoholic drinks upon the human constitution the lecturer went on to give evidence of the failure of Government Control of oblate the evils of inadequately enforced prohibition law. Referring to Ontario which has the least objectionable form of Government Control he stirred the audience by saying that 196,000 new drinkers had been created. The majority of whom were young men and women of the Province. In moving a vote of thanks to Dr. Coburn, Mr. Wm. Burligh and others spoke.

ANCIENT FIRE CURSE RECALLED

LONDON, February 20.—(British United Press)—The destruction by fire of historic Battle Abbey, near Hastings, used as a school for girls, is regarded by many people in the district as the fulfillment of a curse pronounced by a monk nearly 350 years ago.

More than 100 girls were aroused from their sleep by warning cries when the fire was discovered shortly before five o'clock. They were marshalled and marched to safety.

The fire, which raged for six hours, destroyed the Abbot's Hall with its stained-glass windows, its knights in armour, and the banners, which are said to have been borne by the Conqueror's army.

Local residents wise in folk-lore and the legends of the place are pointing to the fire as the fulfillment of an old curse. According to the legend, when on the dissolution of the abbey and monasteries by King Henry VIII, Sir Anthony Brown was given Battle Abbey, he celebrated the occasion by giving a great feast.

At the height of the revelry there came a thunderous knock at the door and to the terror of the guests, a chrouded monk stalked through the banquet hall.

Going up to Sir Anthony with his arm uplifted, the monk said: "By fire and by water your house shall miserably perish!"

In recent years Sir Augustus Webster, who owns the abbey, has been twice bereaved in circumstances which have recalled the legendary curse.

Lady Webster, his wife, was found drowned in a pond in the abbey grounds eight years ago, and Lieut. Alfred Webster, his son, was killed in the war.

Work on the quarry has been going further away from the town yearly and it will be more convenient for workers to live in nearby towns, the company decided.

A pert little White Leghorn hen owned by Wm. Whiting of Port Kells, B. C. must have taken "to heart the slogan of Egg Laying Contests in Canada." An egg a day keeps the axe away. "So far as official records go no hen has yet been able to lay an egg a day the year around, but No Drone 5H, as Mr. Whiting's hen is named, came within eight of a perfect record when she laid 357 eggs in the 365 days in which she was competitor in the E. C. Egg Laying Contest at the Experimental Farm of the Dominion Department of Agriculture at Agassiz, B. C. Her record is official, being made entirely throughout the period of the egg-laying contest under competent neutral supervision of one of Canada's official egg-laying contests.

Unemployment Frauds

BERLIN, Feb. 20.—For drawing unemployment relief under fifty two different aliases, a man of 45 named Goddertz has been sentenced at Cologne to four years imprisonment.

His exploits present one of the most remarkable cases of forgery that has ever come before the German courts. A hardened jailbird though a man of some education, Goddertz was refused relief in his own identity before he applied for it on spurious papers. Having succeeded on one set of forgeries, he extended his operations as indicated, and at the end of two years had drawn relief to the total of about $8,000.

Meanwhile, he had struck out on a sideline of the same business, and had taken to killing off his imaginary unemployed and collecting their death money from the sick fund. As he could not very well demand payment in person, he secured innocents accomplices by advertising for a wife. He explained to the women with whom he thus got into touch, and induced to tender his claims, that the death money had been made over to him by widows in satisfaction of a debt.

NEW CLAIMS BY ROCKET EXPERT

VIENNA, February 20.—(British United Press)—Professor Oberth, the Hungarian pioneer experimenter with rockets, has made some startling predictions to the Urania Scientific Institute.

The lecture covered the professor's discoveries in the course of twenty years' experimenting with the problems of rocket flight. At first ridiculed, these were then utilized as a cheap sensation by a German film company, and nowhere recognized scientific work on which many great scientific and mechanical brains were busy.

For his last rocket, Professor Oberth used petrol as liquid fuel. The rocket when empty weighed 1 1/2 pounds, and when charged 88 pounds. The fuel was burned in liquid air, which was also carried in the rocket. When a consumption of about 9 ounces a second, it reached a speed of nearly two miles a second.

The practical applications about to be made of such rockets, are, according to Professor Oberth:

1. Analysis of the upper state of the atmosphere by means of meteorological apparatus attached to parachutes.
2. Air photographs of enemy positions, it being impossible to shoot down a rocket, which could be made to land within its owners' lines.
3. Photographing inaccessible territory, the resultant pictures being made into a map by the Schenepflug process.
4. Despatch by a single rocket of over 80 pounds of mail matter, reaching New York in under half an hour from Vienna, and costing only from four to eight times the present postal rates.
5. Propellant for aeroplanes at great heights.
6. Gas-dropping rockets would replace every other method of war-making.

HOCKEY

On Wednesday evening, before a crowded rink of enthusiastic fans, over two hundred of whom came on a hockey special from Borden, the Cape Traverse Bloodhounds took a strange hold on the semi-final round for the McLean cup by defeating the Kensington Granites in the Kensington arena by the score of four goals to nothing.

Although MacParlane, their stellar defence man, was on the sick list, the home team fought courageously and the game was by no means one-sided as the score would seem to indicate. The usual smoothly functioning attack of the Granite forwards was conspicuous by its absence, however, and the fast skating deadly shooting crew from the South Shore had the edge, particularly in the second period when their bewildering attack seemed for a time to demoralize the home pucksters.

The Granite defence, consisting of O. Darragh and Chloek Bernard, though having no practice together, played an inspired brand of hockey. The former by his strenuous bodying turned back many formidable thrusts, while the latter's wind-whirl rushes were a feature of the home team's play. E. Gaudet seemed the best of a front line which was sadly lacking in the dash and co-ordination of previous contests.

There were no prominent standouts in the collection of speed merchants from the Cape, all of whom played convincingly effective hockey from line to goal. Webster on the back line, and C. MacWilliams, cagey right winger were perhaps the best.

THE SCORING

The first period was exceptionally fast throughout, neither team having an appreciable advantage. After about fourteen minutes of play, Gaudet put the Hounds one up by banking the puck behind White from a mix up in front of the net.

The visitors started their scoring bee in the second when W. MacWilliams snapped a fast pass the width of the ice to C. MacWilliams and the rubber was behind White before he could change his stance. A minute later B. Clark shot from centre, and C. MacWilliams went in fast to get the rebound for the third contest. Shortly after B. Clark made it way when he stockhanded his way through the Kensington defence, and drove a low shot behind the goalies legs.

The Granites came back strong in the last period, but their determined efforts to break into the scoring were frustrated by the tight defence and smart back checking of the Hounds.
