

Paper Issues Hold Sway On Montreal Mart

MONTREAL, August 14.—(CP)—Beset by profit taking, Power issues were forced to relinquish their leadership of the Montreal Stock Exchange today.

Stocks were turned over in heavy volume as traders displayed a broader interest and turned their attention upon other speculative material.

Power issues had a big day and during the early part of the session were bought in large quantities. Efforts to procure higher prices for newsprint was the main reason advanced by brokers for the buying of these stocks.

Outstanding was a gain of 1.14 points by St. Lawrence Corporation preferred at 63.4 while the common stock was up 151 cents at 140.

Montreal Power led the Power stocks downward with a loss of 3.4 of a point to 33.4.

Consolidated Mining and Smelting slipped two points to 166. Imperial Tobacco at 14.8 was up 1.8 to a new high for the year.

Canadian Pacific Railway mounted 7.8 at 11.8. Dominion Steel and Coal eased 1.4 at 5.1. In the banking section Bank of Canada held unchanged at 54.

Total sales were 31,950 bonds $24,250.

CHAIN LETTER CRAZE STRIKES NOVEL NOTE

LONDON, Aug. 16.—The chain letter craze spread to England yesterday with appearance of serial correspondence urging the world's housewives to boycott Italian goods to prevent war in East Africa.

"Will you join an effort to prevent outbreak of war in any country. This can be done by women; and very simply too. They are the world's customers and very powerful. They would be if they would refuse to buy anything from a country threatening to go to war."

"Now each individual woman can refuse to buy goods coming from Italy and can inquire when shopping if their purchases are Italian produce. If this is done during the next few months in many countries Italy might realize how her conduct is regarded."

The letter asks the receiver to forward it to her friends.

A New England spinster has a vivid memory of Texas courtesy. She was struggling with a hot cup of coffee in a small town hotel station, trying to gulp it before the train pulled out. A cowboy seated a couple of stools away noted her plight, and seeing the conductor waving at the woman, came to the fore.

"Here, ma'am, you can take my cup of coffee. It's already sauced and blowed."

The SNAPSHOT GULL

LET THE SUN WORK FOR YOU

Watch for unusual lighting when taking snapshots of outdoor scenes.

MANY of you who want to take your photography seriously and get some really attractive, artistic pictures would probably like to have some further information on proper lighting in taking snapshots.

The lighting of the subject has so much to do with securing that quality often referred to as "atmosphere" in a picture. There are a number of ways in which a photograph may be given apparent depth, or third dimension. Taking pictures when there are long shadows, getting a reflection in the foreground, using strong side-lighting or back-lighting, and timing the exposure just right so that the detail of objects in shadow is not blocked out, are precautions that contribute much to the desired effect.

Suppose we consider each of these separately. Shadows, thrown in long drawn-out patches across walls and walks, makes one feel, more than anything else, that he is looking into a picture instead of looking on a flat piece of paper carrying images of recorded objects. The foreground should be well broken up with shadows so that there is not too much contrast between it and the rest of the picture.

When a body of water can be included as part of the foreground, then there are really wonderful opportunities for adding depth. The reflection will carry one's attention back and away from the foreground and into the picture—and lead to the principal point of interest. The only precaution necessary, when snapping a picture with foreground of water in strong sunlight, is to watch that a swell or wave does not throw reflected sparkles of light upon the lens, as that may fog the picture.

Along the roads and trails through forests where long spears of sunlight pierce into the shadows there are unlimited opportunities for striking pictures with depth. If the foreground of your picture is not well lighted and you want to get the shafts of sunlight shooting through the shady parts of the background, an exposure slightly shorter than you would ordinarily make is advisable.

Don't just open your camera and shoot when taking pictures. Give your subject some thought and in doing so you will be rewarded with pictures you will be proud of and they will whet your appetite for many more snapshotting expeditions. Viewpoint means much and is an important factor in picture taking. It, too, has much to do with the perspective we get in pictures. If the perspective is not pleasing to the eye, it will not be pleasing in the picture, so, as I have said before, study all the possibilities and angles of your proposed picture before you snap it.
