POTATOES FERTILIZERS

We cannot advise you whether or not you should plant potatoes. We do know however that a good year generally follows a discouraging one, and if you do not sow you cannot reap. The potato crop grown in 1924 sold at very low prices but that grown in 1925 sold at record making prices. The crop grown in 1928 was hard to sell at all yet that grown in 1929 gave big profit. Will you be in a position to participate in the returns from the 1931 crop. Seed is cheap. The product may be high.

We have a supply of chemicals, of 3-8-7 and 4-8-7 ready mixed fertilizer, ready for quick delivery after June 1st. If you do not buy you may wish you had bought.

New Calendar Before Conference

(British United Press)
LONDON, May 29.—A calendar of thirteen months, twenty-eight days to a month, and thirteen Friday the thirteenth every year, has been drawn up and will be the subject of a special conference by experts of the League of Nations in Geneva soon. It is expected that a decision will be taken in favor of rationalizing the calendar year.

The suggestion is that the new calendar should begin on January 1, 1934, giving plenty of time for each country to obtain the necessary parliamentary endorsement of the plan. In this scheme of a thirteen month year, there will be an entirely new month between June and July, and it has been proposed that it shall be called "Sol."

After 1934, if the new calendar is adopted, it should be possible to find out the date by thinking of the day, as the days of the week will fall on the same dates each month. Sunday will be the first day, therefore there will be a Friday the thirteenth each month.

Two international holidays are included in the simplified calendar "Year Day" and "Leap Day." "Year Day" will be the 365th day of each year, and "Leap Day" the present 29th of February. This latter holiday will have no date and will be placed at the end of June. Christmas day will be on December 23, Monday, and Easter day on Sunday, April 15.

Governments are united in favor of the new calendar, it is stated, and the League of Nations Committee have collected the support of prominent business men throughout the entire world.

LADY KITTY RITSON REVISITING CANADA

(Canadian Press)
MONTREAL, May 29.—Indian lore takes second place only to dog lore in the interest of Lady Kitty Ritson, British journalist and novelist, who arrived in Montreal recently. Lady Kitty is an authority on dogs, particularly German shepherds, and reads everything she can lay her hands on about Indians. The collection of Indian relics at the McCord Museum at McGill University is one of the chief attractions which this city holds for her.

On her present visit she expects to gather material for a novel dealing with the Pontiac wars, but it was dog shows which really brought her across the ocean. She is to act as judge at two of them, the first at Madison, New Jersey, and the second, that of the Canadian German Shepherd Club, to be held at Toronto on June 20.

Her chief concern while away from home is as to the welfare of "Champion Alfred," her canine favorite. Before leaving she assigned Alfred to the particular care of her husband, Gerald Ritson, the famous polo player, and a cable which she received since her arrival indicates that he appreciates the importance of the trust.

"Hope you are well, Alfred is well," the cable read.

Mr. Ritson can not be induced to come to Canada because he knows Lady Kitty would not stay within reach of comfortable hotels. To her a town is just a good place to get away from. A year ago last winter she spent the period of her Canadian visit in a log house in the wilderness, writing a book about the experience on her return home.

It was the dog derby at Quebec which brought this titled writer to Canada on two previous visits and her greatest regret in life is that it

(Canadian Press)
MONTREAL, May 29.—Bears should beware of annoying R. P. ("Bob") Isbister. Mr. Isbister, a resident of Hamilton, Ont., one of the immortals of Canadian rugby, is a big man and when he hits anything he "stays hit." There is one imprudent bear somewhere near Lac Sauvage who could support this.

Mr. Isbister, with E. H. Dickinson, Toronto, and W. F. Close of this city went to Lac Sauvage a short time ago to fish. One day after lunch which the party cooked and ate on shore, Mr. Isbister lay down for a nap on a rock which fell away sheer into deep water. Awakened suddenly by a noise, he saw before him a half-grown bear. Surprised, he threw out his right hand. The bear snapped at it, raking the back of his hand with four sharp teeth. Suddenly very wide awake, Mr. Isbister put over a left hook to the bear's snout, knocking the animal completely off the rock into the water 15 feet below. The other members of the party, hearing the splash, hurried back, arriving in time to see the discomfited bear scramble ashore and lumber off into the woods.

Mr. Isbister stopped off here on his way home, his right hand swathed in bandages, the result of the "one bite" to which bears evidently consider themselves entitled, as well as dogs.

MONTREAL MAN NAMED SURGEON-GENERAL OF UNITED STATES ARMY

(Canadian Press)
MONTREAL, May 29.—Appointment by the United States Government of Col. R. U. Patterson, M. D., formerly of Montreal, to the position of surgeon-general of the United States Army, was recently announced and has created considerable interest in this city.

Widely known here, especially in the world of medicine, Colonel Patterson is a graduate of medicine of McGill university and is a former house surgeon of the Montreal General Hospital. Classmates of his medical school days here include such well-known Montreal physicians and surgeons as Dr. C. A. Peters, Dr. W. L. Barlow, Dr. F. W. Harvey and Dr. J. F. Finnie.

Colonel Patterson spent his youth in Montreal. He graduated from the Montreal High School and studied medicine at McGill University, graduating from there in 1888. The following year he became house surgeon at the Montreal General Hospital.

In 1900, Colonel Patterson joined the United States Army and for a few years was in charge of Red Cross work in the Philippines. During the Great War and upon participation of the United States in the conflict, Colonel Patterson went to France, where he was put in charge of a large hospital at Boulogne. When the American Army reached Europe he became chief surgeon of a military division and in charge of a general hospital in the Casno at Boulogne. He was mentioned in British Army despatches several times.

At the close of the war, Colonel Patterson returned to America where he remained attached to the United States Army medical staff, with headquarters in Washington. In recognition of his ability as a physician and surgeon and of his services during the war, the Government has appointed him surgeon-general of the United States Army, the highest medical post in that body.

GIRLS NOT JEALOUS OF OCEANIC DANGER

NEW YORK, May 30.—(By The Canadian Press)—Flo Ziegfeld has found a girl other girls aren't jealous of. She is Reri and she comes from Baro Baro in the Society Islands of the South Pacific. She dances in a grass skirt and some sort of garment that looks like a shirtwaist. People don't wear shirtwaists if they dance in grass skirts in the land that Reri comes from, but Reri's father was French and she went to a convent. That's where she learned to wear European clothes, and it probably explains the shirtwaist.

Reri was "discovered" by the producers of a South Sea film which purported to use only native talent. She was subsequently persuaded to leave her sunny home and come to New York to dance to Mr. Ziegfeld's show.

Men like her, of course, and curiously so do girls. Even the girls who will dance with her in the Follies, and who might very easily be jealous. They welcomed her at rehearsal, gathering around to examine her grass skirt and her bright-colored beads. One of them gave her a cigarette and another lighted it for her.

Reri can't say much in return, because she speaks only French and her native tongue, but her grin is warm and friendly, and speech doesn't seem necessary with her. It is her first trip away from home and she thinks by North America is great, she says. She likes everything—the men, the pretty girls, her hotel, radios, movies, her pay, Mr. Ziegfeld.

She is glad to find people here like her dancing, but she does not have what most people would call ambition. If New York should decide not to like her, it would be all right. She would just go back home and keep on swimming and dancing on the beach with the friends who are waiting for her. No, she wouldn't think of making the United States her home. A nice place, of course, but she is used to the sun and the sand.

Reri likes to wear her grass dancing skirt but she admits that it is only a costume. In neat French, learned at the convent, she says:

"At home and on the street I wear just what any girl would wear—sweat ers and skirts and suits and things. "My family lives in a big frame house near the seashore. We have a little flower garden and sometimes I dig in it. I cook sometimes, too, when it is the servant's night off, and sometimes I wash the hateful dishes."

"We eat native food and European food both. I love to eat raw fish. A great delicacy. Maybe I shall introduce it to America."

Reri is 18 years old, unmarried, and she hopes to stay single for some time. She was shown Broadway's lights from an aeroplane. She left Roosevelt Field in an Air Service plane accompanied by her dancing partner, whose name is Mrii Rai. After circling the midtown section, Reri said: "I'm breathless to say how wonderful it was. I am so thrilled that it will take a day or so to tell what it was like."

SEEKS TO AUGMENT FAMILIES THROUGH ENDOWMENT PLANS

NEW YORK, May 30.—"Just as bright students now receive generously endowed scholarships to finance their way through college, so the intelligent young people of the future who lack the funds necessary for marriage and child bearing will be aided by eugenically minded citizens."

This method of boosting the birth rate among the educated classes, now less than 1, to the 3.6 child per couple needed to improve the race in his opinion was outlined recently by Dr. Harry A. Overstreet, professor of philosophy at the College of the City of New York and member of the American Eugenics Society.

Young men ambitious for a professional career are now obliged to defer marriage until the thirties or later, he finds, if they attempt to maintain a decent standard of living—and even then they find they cannot afford children. In the meantime, criminals and halfwits have large families, he said. When society is awakened to the necessity of reproducing good stock philanthropists and public spirited organizations will not permit youth to waste its racial potentialities because of economic reasons, he declared.

The women of the eugenically minded race of the future will hold extensive child-bearing their first duty, Dr. Overstreet believes. Men and women of good stock will be the proud parents of four, five and six children he hopes.

"Expertly run nurseries and schools will relieve the mother from much of the burden of child-rearing," prophesied the professor. "Medical science will, in all probability, greatly decrease the pain of child-bearing. I am not sure that women will find their leisure time best employed in the business world. But it is certain that these intelligent women of the future who fulfill their duty to the race will live fuller, richer lives than women of any other age."

Dr. Overstreet sees mental equality as the only basis of successful marriage. "Already it is part of the nation's subconscious ideal that morose and persons whose inheritance is tainted with insanity should not marry," he said. "Soon all the states will sterilize the unfit. Then the times will come for nation-wide action to raise the mental calibre of the race."

the four-act comedy drama, "June Wins," presented by the Y.P.S. of Central United Church in Marshfield Hall on Tuesday evening, May 26th, to an audience which completely filled the hall. The curtain rose promptly at 8:30 and the order and every performer acted his or her part throughout with excellent, the attention of the audience having been completely gripped and held from the start to the finish. Each part in such a capable manner that it would be unfair to discriminate.

Specialties between acts included excellent violin music, supplied by Mr. Vernon Dennis, accompanied by Misses Ruth and Viola Dennis. Solos by Miss Jessie Jenkins and Mr. Herb Court were greatly enjoyed and heartily encored. The National Anthem brought a very pleasant evening to a close. Following is the cast:

Mrs. Susan Hopkins—Mrs. J. T. Ferguson.
