SEARCHLIGHTS AS SENTINELS IN THE WORK OF ARTILLERY

The Great Value of the Modern Searchlight For Purposes of War—It is One of the Greatest Units in Warfare

LONDON, Mar. 2.—Little has been written of what is perhaps one of the greatest fighting units in modern warfare, the searchlight.

Hereafter, every great power will not only have its fighting ships well protected with the searchlight, but each army corps will have its own detachment, and apparatus for this very necessary auxiliary.

For it has come to be one of the most important uses of electricity, says Army and Navy Life, enabling artillerymen to remove many of the uncertainties from the much dreaded night attack.

Shallow waters that are suspected to have been planted with submarine mines are always subject to such attack by the enemy in small boats. Volunteer landing crews are often sent with orders to destroy all electrical shore connections and thus render the mines useless.

Foggy weather is the most favorable time for this work. The boats are usually masked in gunny sacks to avoid all noise.

In normal weather scouting of this character, is by the use of the light, sure to be detected. Then was into the small boat crews. For the great white beam gives only a few seconds of silent grace in which to raise the flag of surrender, then glares on the slaughter by the rapid fires.

Important channels or such passages, ways of water are too deep to be successfully mined usually rely for their protection on several of the lights. A discovered vessel forms a very good target, the gunners in the forts gleefully flick their chops; while the enemy, owing to the disappearing gun carriage now used, has practically nothing on which to concentrate his fire.

The operator does not stand near the light, but takes up his position in the fire commander's station, an elevated tower at some distance from it. It is above sea level and commands the Harbor.

Here is located the controller, which by reason of its electrical connection with two motors in the base gives full control of the light. By merely shifting the handle the flashing beam travel at will.

A dense fog, however, is absolutely impenetrable and smoke or slight mist causes the beam to be followed with difficulty. Then, sometimes, distance images are shown which are caused by impurities such as dust in the air and images are shown which are caused by dark objects on water.

However, when weather conditions are unfavorable, the enemy is not apt to move about much. Cloudy weather, and rain are rather beneficial than otherwise, as dust and smoke which act as a screen to the light are washed out of the air.

But the very natural question is: Why doesn't the enemy throw a few shells and destroy the searchlight? It's certainly bright enough and, one would think, would afford an easy mark.

It has been found, however, after repeated trials that to determine the exact location of the lamp is almost an impossibility. Then again, the forts have the advantage of a fixed gun and a comparatively large target, whereas the ship has an unsteady run, base and a very small target, in fact not more than eight feet. An expert marksman even at half a mile distance has hardly one chance out of fifty to hit the projector.

"Very well then, wait until daylight and blaze away at the shelter house in which the lamp is kept," is said.

A very good scheme, very good indeed, only the shelter house, under actual war conditions, is mostly a blind and contains nothing. For the latest type of searchlight is mounted on a motor car, and like the service-ghost is never around in the daytime.

HEARD SCREAMS COULD NOT AID

Neighbors Listened to Woman's Cries as Tramp Attacks Her

CENTREVILLE, Iowa, March 2.—Rural telephone users all over Wayne county yesterday heard the screams of Mrs. George Stuch while she struggled desperately with a tramp who attacked her in her home. Neighbors were too late to save her, but posse with bloodhounds are searching the countryside, and the tramp will probably be lynched if caught.

Mrs. Stuch was alone when the tramp appeared. He broke down the door while the woman was calling for help through the telephone, but the man attacked her and dragged the receiver from her hand.

For half an hour she struggled with him, and each time she found herself near the telephone she screamed for help. In nearly every home on the system her screams were heard.

The first neighbor found Mrs. Stuch bound and unconscious.

WATERSPOUTS OFF NANTUCKET

NEW YORK, March 2.—Hundreds of waterspouts were counted in the vicinity of Nantucket Shcals yesterday by officers of the steamer Maine which arrived here today. So far as known no damage was done. The wind was north north east, but far up in the sky the clouds were spreading in all directions. Suddenly waterspouts began to form and pillars of water could be seen on all sides of the steamer. Many of the spouts collapsed before their formation was complete, and the sea at their base was churned into foam as they fell.

Radical Change in Nervous System

STRENGTH OF NERVES AND VIGOR AND HEALTH OF BODY FULLY RESTORED.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

The process of revitalizing a nervous system which is on the verge of collapse must necessarily be slow but the results are certain and highly satisfactory when Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is used.

"I took 24 boxes to cure Mr. Branton but the cure is in many respects a most extraordinary one, as you will realize by the following description.

Mr. W. M. Branton, Victoria Street, Stratford, Ont., writes: "Before using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food my nervous system seemed all unstrung. I could not sleep, had no appetite, hands and feet cold, my digestion was poor and I had jerking of the limbs. The first box of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food helped me and I continued until I had taken 24 boxes. This treatment has made a radical change in my condition, building up the system and strengthening the nerves. I would strongly recommend it to all suffering from nervousness.

Paralysis in some form is the natural result of neglected disease of the nerves, but paralysis instead of coming on suddenly, as it is generally supposed is almost invariably preceded by months or years of warning symptoms.

Sleeplessness, headache, falling memory, loss of vigor, and energy, stomach troubles, weakness in the mornings, weariness, heart action and despondency are some of the indications of exhausted nerves which gradually and certainly lead to the reconstructive influence of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food or if need be lead to paralyse, locomotor ataxia or insanity.

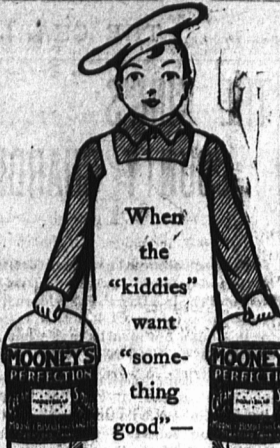

New nerve force must be added to the body and this can be accomplished by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food which is sold at 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for 2.50 at all dealers or Elmanston, Bates & Co., Toronto. The portrait and sign use of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.

ADVERTISING IS BROAD.

Advertising in itself means publicity and publicity is a very broad and comprehensive term. It does not mean simply a word whispered to a favored few. It is, rather, synonymous with a general, broadcast declaration, and the broader the scope of the announcement, the better the advertising. No occupation so directly attracts attention along given and desired lines can be reasonably regarded as wasted; nor can any funds expended to this end be adjudged extravagant. —An American Medical Journal

He did not say what kind of Ozone he wrote and asked him if he was sure he had been taking solution of Ozone, the kind that contains a coupon entitling the purchaser to one full sized 25c package of Celery King free of cost. He replied that he had unknowingly taken some other brand, and was sorry that he had treated us unjustly. Then he commenced to use Ozone (the coupon kind) with Celery King—he is a well man today.
